COL. ASTOR INVENTS A FUEL MACHINE

Applies for a Patent on a Device for the Utilization of Peat Deposits.

HE'LL GIVE IT TO THE PUBLIC

Already the Inventor of Many Contrivances, Including a Rain-Making Device.

Col. John Jacob Astor has applied for a patent for a machine, which it is hoped will make possible the utilization of peat deposits as a fuel for power. The current number of The Scientific American contains an account of the process, and says that Col. Astor intends to present it to the public in the hope that it may be of wide general use.

At present peat is used as a fuel, especially in Ireland, but as it contains a large amount of water it has to be dried for a long time before it can be burned. In Sweden there have been many attempts to manufacture "producer gas" from it, but the results have been poor, while the experiments in America have always failed. In some ways, however, peat is really better fitted to generate producer gas than even bituminous coal, it is contended.

The water it contains and the almost entirely carbonaceous character of its solid portions fit it for this, but its porous texture has proved the obstacle. Its heat-conducting qualities are so poor that when heated in a producer a portion of it will be burned up without the other portions being heated to any material extent.

Col. Astor turned his attention to disintegrating the substance of the peat, and his device, it is believed, by the utilization of the actual gas and water in the porous peat will split up the peat and allow it to be thoroughly and uniformly heated. In an ordinary internal combustion engine he places the engine muffler inside the gas-producing chamber. The sides of the muffler are thin enough to be drawn in or thrust out according to the pressure of the gas within it.

As the gas rushes from the engine cylinder into the muffler after each explosion it distends the muffler. As it escapes from the muffler through an exhaust pipe the sides are drawn in again. Consequently, the gas in the producer chamber outside of the muffler is alternately compressed and expanded as the muffler increases or decreases in size. The gas confined in the cells and fibre of the peat is subjected to the same varying pressure. As it expands and contracts it breaks down the structure of the peat till the entire mass is disintegrated. To facilitate still further this process the chamber of the engine containing the peat is located in such a way as to feel all the jarring and vibration of the engine.

Any form of gas engine may be used for this purpose, though the preferable one is of the slow-exhaust type, which will give plenty of time for the gas to expand before it escapes. Col. Astor believes that as many farmers can get as much peat as they want for the trouble of digging it, his invention will do much to help them. At a very low cost in one of these engines they could generate enough gas to run many of their farm machines and light and heat their houses.

Moreover, the peat from which the gas has been extracted will be of service as a fertilizer. As things are now, the tannin, organic acids, and iron salts contained in the peat have killed, or, at any rate, hindered, rather than stimulated, vegetation, so that it has been necessary to cure the peat before it was applied to the soil. This has meant a lengthy exposure to the sun. This will be unnecessary with peat treated in the new machine, and it will be immediately in condition to lay on the fields.

Col. Astor is about to try out his invention at his own place, Rhinecliff-on-the Hudson. He will erect a 150-horse power plant and attach it to a stone crusher. If the peat gas succeeds in running this, it is believed an interesting engineering advance with far-reaching effects will have been achieved.

This is not the first invention of Col. Astor. He has already patented and presented to the public a marine turbine, and he also holds the patents for an ingenious bicycle brake and a novel pneumatic road improver.

For his pneumatic road-mending device Col. Astor received a first prize at the Chicago Exposition. He has endeavored to provide a means of carrying out the precept of MacAdam, the inventor of macadamized roads, who laid down that "it is as important to remove worn-out material from a stone road as to put on new material." With a large pair of bellows, fixed under a wagon in such a way that they can be operated by the driver, he is able to produce enough force either to blow the loose stones into the hedgerows or to lay them in neat rows along the side of the road, ready for removal.

Col. Astor's bicycle brake was devised to meet the difficulty of braking solid-tire bicycles. The tires used to wear flat and the grip became weak. By dividing the brake into three, the Colonel successfully obtained a grip which would conform itself to any tire, however worn.

He has also spent a great deal of time on a rainmaking machine, but a patent was refused on the ground that too large a part of the invention depended on the powers of nature. The Colonel's idea was based on the fact that the higher air rises the less is its density and the more is its moisture condensed, till the precipitation point is reached. He therefore proposed to pump up a lofty tower a stream of moist air, which when it reached the higher levels of the atmosphere would shed its moisture and start a downpour.

Col. Astor's turbine was invented four or five years ago and the patent was given to the public. It provided two tandem propellers revolving in opposite directions. The spinning motion given to the water by the first was neutralized by the second, so that all the energy wasted on the spinning of the water was saved, and the water, except for its backward motion, was perfectly dead. Instead of having one propeller revolving at 500 revolutions to the minute there were also two with about 250 revolutions.

Col. Astor is also the author of a work of imagination on the life in the planets Jupiter and Saturn. It was published in 1894, and entitled "A Journey to Other Worlds." It was founded on the study of a hundred works on astronomy, and earned for its author election to the Authors' Club as "the author of an original book competent to literature."

SHOT HIMSELF SIX TIMES.

Brooklyn Business Man Commits Suicide at the Grand Union.

By firing the six bullets of a small revolver into his head, Charles E. Sexton, Secretary of the British America Development Company, at 45 Cedar Street, and for several years an Elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn, committed suicide last night in the Grand Union Hotel.

Mr. Sexton, who had lived with his wife and four children in the old-fashioned brick house at 29 Garden Place, Brooklyn Heights, for the last five years, walked into the hotel about 3:30 P. M. yesterday afternoon. He asked for a room, and was assigned to No. 426, on the fourth floor. About 5 o'clock a young man hurried to the hotel desk.

"Is my father, Charles E. Sexton, here?" he inquired of the clerk. "He telephoned me at my office that he was, and that he wanted to see me immediately."

The son was taken up to room 426 by a bellboy, but was downstairs again a few minutes later, greatly agitated.

"He has locked the door, and didn't answer when we knocked and called. I am sure there is something wrong. He told me over the telephone that he was ill and in trouble," Mr. Sexton told the clerk.

Police Headquarters was notified, and Patrolman Michael Judge was sent over from the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, reaching the room just as Carrington Sexton and some of the hotel employes were breaking the door down.

Mr. Sexton was found lying on the bed, fully dressed. A baby hammerless revolver was lying beside him on the white bedspread. All its six chambers were empty.

In spite of this Mr. Sexton, though unconscious, was still alive when found. He was hurried to Bellevue Hospital, where he died three hours later without recovering consciousness.

On the way to the station with his father Carrington Sexton told Policeman Judge that he believed that he had killed himself because of business troubles. He made the same statement to Dr. Dooley at the hospital.

At Mr. Sexton's house last night all information as to the dead man's affairs was refused.

Mr. Sexton was 60 years old. Before moving to Brooklyn five years ago the family lived in Staten Island. Mr. Sexton is survived by a widow and four children, Edith and Bertha Sexton, Randolph W. Sexton, and Carrington Sexton.

At Bellevue later in the evening, Carrington Sexton, who is an architect, said that his father had left home for business yesterday morning in a cheerful mood. John Sexton, the dead man's brother, who is a Director in the Dowd Lumber Company at 627 East Eighteenth Street, said last night that the British-American Development Company, of which his brother had been Secretary and Director, had been dissolved a week ago.

MRS. WINCHESTER WEDS.

Married to Dr. Dickson Despite Suit Brought by Nurse.

Mrs. Lycurgus Winchester of Flushing, L. I., late of Baltimore, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Bache Pratt of 24 West Forty-eighth Street, and Dr. David Judkins Dickson of Cincinnati were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents.

It was announced in THE TIMES on May 8 that Mrs. Winchester, who is a sister of the Misses Constance and Beatrice G. Pratt and the widow of the late Lycurgus Winchester, to whom she was married some years ago, and Dr. David Judkins Dickson were to be married on May 27 in the chantry of Grace Church. Only relatives were to be present. Her first husband was killed in a runaway four years ago.

Mrs. Winchester was Miss Katherine Griswold Pratt. She was married to Lycurgus Winchester in Grace Church on May 6, 1904. Mrs. Winchester has a handsome country place at Flushing. She is a member of the Colonial Dames, the Country Club of Baltimore, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Mayflower Descendants.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 20.—Anna Louise Militz, professional nurse, late this afternoon filed suit for $50,000 against Dr. David Judkins Dickson, formerly of Cincinnati, now of New York, alleging breach of promise to marry. With the suit she applies for a blanket attachment of the doctor's real and personal property situated within the jurisdiction of the court pending a decision of her damage suit. It is estimated that this property is worth $100,000.

The papers filed assert that in July, 1903, Miss Militz became engaged to the doctor, who had previously obtained her a position wherein she became a trained nurse. No day was fixed for the marriage, but the betrothal vows were renewed at various times, the last time being April 26 of the current year. On the 13th inst. he wrote her that he would shortly wed Mrs. Lycurgus Winchester, a wealthy New York woman. She demanded and received, she says, under threat of suit an acknowledgment of the engagement to her.

HELEN CORTELYOU DEAD.

9-Year-Old Daughter of the ex-Secretary Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Miss Helen Cortelyou, the 9-year-old daughter of George B. Cortelyou, ex-Secretary of the Treasury and now President of the Consolidated Gas Company, died Wednesday night of pneumonia in her father's country home, Huntington, L. I.

The child was always delicate, and in the last Winter a series of colds, several times threatening pneumonia, had weakened her power of resistance to illness.

She caught cold only a few days ago. According to the physicians who attended her she was in a nervous condition and her heart had been weakened by her former sickness.

MALE SUFFRAGETTES NOW IN THE FIELD

The Deeper Notes to Join the Soprano Chorus for Women's Votes.

BIRTH OF AN UPLIFT IDEA

Scope of Operations Will Determine How Far Advanced This Movement Is to Be.

The battle cry of freedom for women, hitherto ringing only in soprano and contralto, is soon to be deepened and increased in volume by the voices of 100 or more men. They are to form the first masculine suffragette organization yet projected, so far as can be learned, with George Foster Peabody for President.

Among the notable men who have paid $1 and joined—for their plan is to get such weighty names as will bring to bear "a peculiarly strong influence" upon such as regard the cause flippantly—are: Oswald Garrison Villard, William Dean Howells, Charles Sprague Smith, Director of the People's Institute; the Rev. J. Howard Mellish of Brooklyn, Profs. Vladimir Simkhovitch, John Dewey, and Charles Beard of Columbia, Dr. Samuel J. Barrows, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Charles J. Strong, Charles C. Burlingham, William M. Ivins, Col. George Harvey, Profs. James H. Robinson, William P. Trent, Richard Miller, Dr. Simon Flexner, Dr. John Brannan, Charles B. Reed, Louis Ehrich, and George F. Kunz. And then the Secretary, he who conceived the idea and is now fostering it—Max Eastman by name, versed in sociological matters, a philosophy instructor, and candidate for a Ph. D. at Columbia. Moreover, he is a writer.

Mr. Eastman, like most of the other members of the league, is strong for all enterprises of human uplift.

He pushed forward his idea on the strength of his conviction that suffrage should be given to women, but that it could not be won for them in a country where everything is decided with the ballot unless they had allies among the voters. So he appealed to men in Columbia and elsewhere whom he thought would be interested, and intends eventually to make this a State league, with many branches.

From Mr. Eastman's account, there is one curious feature of this organization. It is this: The league will do no active work of any kind, at least for the present, but will simply announce itself, also its membership, and then stand pat. This fact seems at first sight to put it far below the Suffragettes, whose watchword is activity, but the league has not as yet announced in what way it will make its presence felt.

It now has twenty-eight members, but expects soon to have a great many more than that, and the original plan was to hide it under a bushel until there were a full hundred members. Then to throw the announcement, with all its imposing list of names, into the camp of anti-Suffragists like a bomb.

Membership in the league is open to every voter in the city.

FEWER PASSES FOR LINERS.

Treasury Department Makes New Rule to Check Smuggling from Steamers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—To close every possible avenue to smugglers at the Port of New York, the Treasury Department made a new ruling to-day limiting to Collector Loeb the right to issue passes to persons who want to meet incoming steamships down the bay. Hereafter they will have to be well vouched for or else be known to the Collector, and the number of passes in the future will be small.

Much smuggling has been done by those who go aboard vessels ostensibly to meet friends returning from abroad. It has been a simple matter for such visitors to receive dutiable articles from a member of the crew or from a confederate among the passengers, and by showing their passes, to escape investigation by the Inspectors.

Mr. Loeb recently ordered that the access of visitors to vessels in their docks be stopped. Numerous cases where laces, precious stones, and other small articles of value were carried ashore had been brought to his attention.

Under the new regulation Collector Loeb will bear the entire responsibility in the issue of passes. Heretofore, the Collector has shared this responsibility with the Surveyor of the Port.

Under the new ruling the Secretary of the Treasury and the Assistant Secretaries also may issue passes, but this right will be exercised only in cases of the most personal nature.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE SOLD.

New Syndicate Takes Over Big West 23d Street Lot from Gould Estate.

The Opera Realty Company, a new real estate syndicate, it became known last night, has bought from the Gould estate and others the Grand Opera House at the northwest corner of Eighth Avenue and Twenty-third Street and its site, besides eight buildings in Twenty-third Street and eight in Twenty-fourth Street, immediately adjoining the playhouse, for $1,000,000. The transfer was made yesterday.

Marston R. Cockey of 225 West 127th Street, and Guy Phillips of 195 Broadway are said to be the heads of the new realty company. Mr. Cockey is the manager of the Gould estate. At Mr. Cockey's home last night it was said that a statement regarding just what the new company intended doing with the opera house would be made later.

John H. Springer, who has been the manager of the playhouse for several years, said last night that the transfer of the property would not mean that any particular change in the conduct of the theatre would take place. Mr. Springer said the new owners had re-engaged him for this year and next as manager and that the present "combination" policy of the playhouse, which books Broadway attractions at popular prices, would be continued.

PALACE OF BIBLICAL KING IS UNEARTHED

Seat of Apries, Contemporary of Jeremiah, Disclosed by Excavations at Memphis.

Prof. Petrie of the British School of Archaeology Thinks Earliest Records of Egypt Will Be Found.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—Prof. Flinders Petrie, in giving an account of the work of the British School of Archaeology to-day, said the great result of this year at Memphis had been the discovery of the palace of King Apries, the Pharaoh Hophra of the Bible, who was a contemporary of Jeremiah, B. C. 629-588. Hitherto no palace has been known in Egypt beyond the tower at Medinet Habu and some remains of a rather earlier date.

Following are the details of the palace: Length, 400 feet, very impressive; breadth, 200 feet; middle court, 100 feet square; painted columns 40 feet high; seven stone-lined walls 15 feet thick. The approach to the palace led up through a large mass of buildings to a platform at a height of about sixty feet above the plain.

In the ruins a scale armor, hitherto rarely found in Egypt, was discovered. Good bronze figures of gods were also found. What Prof. Petrie described as the one supreme piece was a fitting of a palanquin of solid silver, a pound in weight, decorated with a bust of Hathor with a gold face of the finest workmanship of the time of Apries the Great.

A gateway and immense walls descending deep into the mound indicated that there lay ruins of successive palaces built one over the other.

Prof. Petrie predicted that in six or eight years the excavators might dig down to the earliest records of the Egyptian Kingdom.

BISHOP SCORES SOCIETY.

Condemns Degradation of Sabbath by Motor Tours and Parties.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—Bishop Thicknesse, Archdeacon of Northampton, roundly denounced what he terms "the degradation of the Sabbath by people in society" in an address to the clergy to-day.

"What we have to deal with now," he said, "is the open disregard of the worship of Almighty God by persons in the higher walks of life, of their selfish profanities of the day of public worship by needless journeys, motor expeditions, dinner parties and games, to the utter deprivation also of any needed Sunday rest and quiet to their ill-used servants and dependents.

"I know as a fact of a large fancy dress dinner party held on the first Sunday of Lent at a country house in a neighboring county where so-called ladies shamelessly appeared dressed as men, and so-called gentlemen dressed as women.

"I mention it with profound shame, sorrow, and indignation. I am almost ready to disown the term gentleman for any manly man if men with more money than manners, with more pretense than pedigree, have brought it to this and dragged it in the mire of their own corrupt habits."

SQUALID LIFE IN PARIS.

City Councilors Investigate Conditions in Little-Known Quarters.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 20.—The newspapers will publish to-morrow accounts of slumming trips made yesterday and the day before by several Municipal Councilors representing the poorer districts, accompanied by reporters and photographers, to parts of the city that are little known.

Conditions were found which will be described as appalling from a sanitary and humanitarian point of view. In Cité Doré, (Thirteenth Arrondissement,) a colony of ragpickers was found living in absolutely pestilential conditions.

Authority will be invoked to cleanse these quarters and make them worthy the fame of the city.

THE SUING WIFE STAYS.

Mrs. Dunn to Remain in the House Despite Action Against Husband.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich refused to order Mrs. Margaret E. Dunn yesterday to leave the house at 30 West Eighty-third Street, of which she says she is part owner with her husband, Charles F. Dunn, whom she is suing for divorce. Several weeks ago Dunn asked the court to force his wife to leave the house, asserting that she was selling the furniture, and, furthermore, that he could not afford to continue the expense of running so large an establishment.

His wife alleged that he was supporting another woman luxuriously in West 103d Street; that she had $20,000 of her own money invested in the Eighty-third Street house, and could not see why she should be compelled to leave.

BELMONT'S YACHT SCOUT IN COLLISION

Big Hole Cut in Her Side and the Cabins All Flooded—She Goes to Dry Dock.

It came out yesterday that August Belmont's steam yacht Scout was run down and partly sunk by a tug off the Erie Basin on Wednesday afternoon, only a few minutes after Mr. Belmont had left her, following a trip up the Sound. The Scout, which is a cruising craft, about eighty-five feet long, had just gone into commission on Wednesday.

Mr. Belmont went on board early in the afternoon, and the yacht, under command of Capt. Greenlaw, headed up the Sound for a trial spin. The Scout had been in Winter quarters since Fall, and for several weeks a force of carpenters and painters had been at work getting the yacht into shape for the Spring cruising. Mr. Belmont had planned several short cruises in near-by waters, and invited some of his friends to spend week-ends with him on board as soon as the craft went into commission.

The Scout, with Mr. Belmont on board, steamed several miles up the Sound, and then turned and made her way back. Mr. Belmont was pleased with the yacht's performance. Late in the afternoon the Scout edged in to one of the docks in South Brooklyn, and Mr. Belmont was put ashore.

Capt. Greenlaw then headed for the Erie Basin, intending to dock for the night at one of the shipyards and take on coal and stores for the week-end outing that had been planned.

Fifty or more steam, naphtha, and sailing yachts and a large number of tugs were plying about the Basin when the Scout started in. Capt. Greenlaw was at the wheel and the Scout was making good speed as the yacht's bow veered into the Basin. Just then the tug A. W. Smith, Capt. Barnes, shot out from the group of craft ahead of the Scout, bearing almost across the bow of Mr. Belmont's yacht. Signals were exchanged between the captains of the yacht and tug, but were not distinct to one or the other of the skippers.

On board the Scout, besides Capt. Greenlaw, were the mate, two engineers, and two sailors. None of the crew knew what was happening until there occurred a sudden crash. The Scout trembled from end to end, and some of the sailormen on board were thrown off their feet.

The bow of the tug had struck the Scout on the port side, just forward of the engine room, cutting a ragged gash in her thin side, reaching a foot or so below the water line.

The tugboat Captain had rung to his engineer to reverse engines before the crash occurred, and the tug's headway had been reduced before her bow buried itself in the hull of the Scout.

A moment after the collision the water began pouring into the Scout through the hole in her side. It soon reached the engine room. But the engineer had shut off steam, and he and his assistant started for the deck. The skipper left the wheel as soon as the crash occurred and hastened forward to learn the extent of the damage. The two seamen joined him.

The tug stood by to render assistance and began blowing a siren blast to summon other craft. Several near-by tugs and yachts answered the summons.

The water gained fast in the hold of the Scout, and the fire under the boiler was soon extinguished.

Within fifteen minutes after the Scout was rammed her decks were awash and the entire hull had disappeared beneath the waves, with only the deckhouse and the stern awning and the smokestack visible. The yacht was towed to Gokey's dry dock near by. It will be ten days or more before she can go into service again. The crew of the Scout were all taken off by the Smith.

MANILA ASKS INDEPENDENCE.

Philippine Assembly Instructs Delegates to Appeal to Congress.

MANILA, May 20.—With but slight variation from its action at the final adjournment of the session of 1908 the Philippine General Assembly in the closing hour of its session to-night again adopted a resolution declaring in favor of the independence of the islands.

The last formalities had been exchanged with the Philippine Commission, and the statutory hour of adjournment had passed when the question was presented by Speaker Osmeña. He said the policy of the Assembly was to work in harmony with and support the Government in all measures calculated to advance the interests of the Filipinos. Nevertheless, the members had not abandoned their original aspiration for independence, and, therefore, he moved that the Filipino delegate to the Congress of the United States be instructed to present the question to that body whenever an opportunity was offered.

The members of the Progresista, or minority party, asked permission to abstain from voting, which was granted. All the Nationalists then voted in favor of the resolution.

The closing days of the session were marked by great harmony between the Assembly and the commission, and practically all the important legislation desired by the Government was enacted. Among the most important measures passed was the Railway Guarantee bill, which insures the construction of a railway to Buigo and the extension of the lines in central Luzon to the extreme southern part of the island, practically making a trunk line across Luzon from north to south, and a bankruptcy act of general application.

It was decided to change the date of the meeting of the Legislature from the hot Spring season to October, and therefore there will be no further session until the Fall of 1910.

The total amount of the budget passed is 16,500,000 pesos.

STRICKEN ON HER HORSE.

Insurance Broker's Wife Faints in the Park and Dies in Hospital.

Mrs. H. Nottingham Townsend, wife of a prosperous insurance broker, living at 200 West Seventy-ninth Street, died at 8:30 o'clock last night in the Presbyterian Hospital, where she had been brought from Central Park shortly after noon when she toppled off her riding horse in a faint.

Mrs. Townsend did not recover consciousness after the first fainting spell and the physicians at the hospital are at a loss to account for her death, except upon the supposition that the fainting was but the outward sign of more serious internal trouble, possibly heart disease.

Mrs. Townsend, who was well known as a horsewoman and kept several mounts in Durland's Riding Academy, was mounted upon a favorite black horse, and was in the East Drive near Ninety-sixth Street when persons on the walks saw her stagger in her seat and start to fall from the horse. Their shouts brought Mounted Policeman Darling of the Arsenal Station, and as he rode up Mrs. Townsend said to him:

"I feel very faint and can scarcely hold my position on the horse. Please help me down."

Darling sprang to the ground, and the woman toppled into his arms in a faint almost before he could make ready to catch her. He called an ambulance, and Mrs. Townsend was taken to the hospital, where her husband was summoned. He said his wife was subject to fainting spells, but that they seldom lasted more than a minute or two.

Lord Ronaldshay Retracts Reference to Her as "Dumped Heiress."

LONDON, May 20.—Lord Ronaldshay, at a public meeting to-night, made an abject apology for an attack which he had made at a recent political meeting upon the Countess of Granard, formerly Miss Beatrice Mills of New York. He had referred to the Countess as a "dumped American heiress, who had been fortunate enough to secure a title."

In his address to-night, Lord Ronaldshay said that he wished to apologize for what he admitted, on thinking it over, was "a singularly ill-chosen joke."

$15,750 A YEAR FOR BOY OF 4.

Referee Recommends This Sum for Little James E. Martin's Support.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 20.—Henry Robinson of 2 Wall Street, Manhattan, referee on the petition of Mrs. James E. Martin for the support of her four-year-old son, James E. Martin, filed his report in County Clerk Cheshire's office here to-day. He recommended that $15,750 be allowed yearly to the boy. His mother receives $200 a month.

Mrs. Martin asserts that she has an income of $2,000 a year left her by her father, and that this has been expected to support herself and son since the death of her husband, "Jimmy" Martin, in Paris last year, her mother-in-law, now Mrs. Florence B. Satterwhite, being unwilling to support her.

Mrs. Martin asserts that in the life of her husband their living expenses were $50,000 a year. Young Martin is said to have left only $7,500. He and his young wife lived at 803 Fifth Avenue and at Martin Hall, Great Neck, L. I.

TAFT AIDS OFFICER'S WIFE.

Mrs. Carrington, Whose Husband Was Unjustly Convicted, Put on Eligible List

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Taft has issued an order which permits the appointment to a clerkship in the classified service without examination of Mrs. Nina L. Carrington, whose competency, according to the order, is certified to by those civil officers with whom she has had temporary employment.

This is done for the reason, the order continues, that Mrs. Carrington's husband, Frank Del Carrington, late Major, First United States Infantry, was unjustly convicted in the civil courts of the Philippines on certain criminal charges, as now decided by the Supreme Court. This action, it is recited, is in the nature of a remedial measure within the power of the President to rectify the injustice of those proceedings.

WANTED TO PAY THE JUDGE.

"Take This and Do What You Can for Me," Said Montclair Woman.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 20.—"Take this and do what you can for me," said Mrs. Helen Fessler, a wealthy woman, of North Fullerton Avenue, this town, last night, to Judge Henry L. Yost, when she was arraigned before him in the Montclair Police Court on a charge of disorderly conduct.

In her hand was a thick roll of greenbacks. Judge Yost expressed surprise at the woman's offer and said he would order her locked up but for the fact that she is the mother of several small children.

Mrs. Fessler was charged with throwing stones at the barn of a neighbor, John Cosgrove. She was held in $200 bail for the Grand Jury, and offered that amount in cash. This was refused and real estate belonging to her was accepted as security.

MAURETANIA AGAIN BREAKS THE RECORD

Crosses the Ocean Westward in 4 Days 16 Hours and 53 Minutes.

HAS CUT OFF 13 MINUTES

Also Broken the Record for the Best Average Hourly Speed—Past and Present Records.

New west-bound records were again established by the Cunard Line steamer Mauretania, which arrived at Quarantine from Liverpool and Queenstown at 11:10 o'clock last night. The steamer, according to her commander, Capt. Pritchard, cut thirteen minutes from her best previous record, and made an average hourly speed of 25.62 knots, as against her former record of 25.55.

Capt. Pritchard reported last night that the Mauretania covered the course between Daunt's Rock and Ambrose Channel Lightship in 4 days 16 hours and 53 minutes, as against her previous record of 4 days 17 hours and 6 minutes on Feb. 18. The time of leaving Daunt's Rock was given by the Captain as 9:45 A. M. on May 16. He arrived off Ambrose Channel Lightship at 9:23 last night.

The steamer's daily runs were:

To noon on Sunday, 69 knots; Sunday to Monday, 664.
Monday to Tuesday, 636.
Tuesday to Wednesday, 608.
Wednesday to Thursday, 647.
Thursday to noon to lightship, 268.

This is the first time the Mauretania has reached Quarantine on Thursday night.

The Mauretania's best previous record westward over the long course of 2,890 knots was made in February this year. Its time was 4 days 17 hours 6 minutes; best day's run, 671 knots; average speed, 25.55 knots.

Here is the record of her present world-beating voyage: Time, 4 days 16 hours 53 minutes; average speed, 25.55 knots; *best day's run, 664 knots.

FROM BALLOON TO MAURETANIA

Aeronaut Descends and Takes Special Train to Meet Ship.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 20.—After being four hours in the air, the All-America balloon, which started from Springfield this afternoon, made a landing at 6:30 o'clock on the west side of Lake Onota, four miles from this city. It had traveled a distance of forty miles, taking first a northerly course, and then being driven in a westerly direction by a southeast wind. Traveling slowly at an altitude of a mile the aeronauts planned to reach Albany, N. Y.

This would have been possible, probably, had the wind been stronger, but toward 4 o'clock the wind died down, and for two hours the bag was over this city. Then as sunset came on it was struck by a cold cross current from the Taconic range of hills, and it was only by the most careful juggling of ballast that the balloon was carried across Lake Onota, where, on the farm of Miss Susan Churchill, it came down into a large elm. None of the party was hurt in the landing. All clambered out of the basket into the tree and made their way to the ground. The balloon was not damaged, and has been left in Pittsfield for a flight to be made from this city shortly.

Clifford B. Harmon, one of the aeronauts, whose wife, a daughter of Commodore E. C. Benedict, is to arrive in New York from Europe on the Mauretania to-morrow morning, when Mr. Benedict's steam yacht is to put off to meet the big ship off Quarantine, wanted to be in New York to make the trip down the harbor. The regular train schedules being inadequate, President Minahan of the Aero Club of Pittsfield arranged for a special train for Mr. Harmon and the aeronauts, and they departed at 9 o'clock for New York. The schedule given them by the New Haven Road provides for their arrival at 4:30 o'clock.

DREAM STARTS CHURCH PANIC.

Boy's Nightmare Yells Led to an Alarm of Fire Among 1,300.

A small Italian boy, who it is supposed awoke with a start from a nightmare, let out a yell last night in the basement of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Bridget at Eighth Street and Avenue B, where the last of a two weeks' mission service was being held in the basement by the Mary Help of the Christian's Chapel. Somebody took up the cry, shouting, "Fire!" and immediately there was a panic among the 1,300 men, women, and children in the place. They rushed for the doors, and some one who reached the street turned in a fire alarm.

Capt. James Andrews and Engine Company 28 were first on the scene. Capt. Andrews could see no signs of fire, so leaving his men outside he took off his coat and helmet and entered the church. He found a frightened throng, but no fire, and assisted Father Michael Angelo in calming the congregation. Then the service was continued.

GIRL HAZERS IN AN ASYLUM.

They Feign Insanity, Attack a New Employe Till He Flees in Terror.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 20.—Four girls employed at the Overbrook Insane Asylum, near here, recently subjected Donato Collona, a new employe at the institution, to such a weird hazing that the man fled in terror from the institution. The girls, impersonating demented women, surrounded Collona and threw a blanket over his head. Then, with wild yells, they cuffed and kicked the frightened man until he yelled with fright.

Escaping from his tormentors Collona fled from the building and across the country to Montclair. He said to-day that no money could induce him to return to the asylum.

Inquiry at Overbrook developed the fact that hazing is an institution at the asylum. The employes, it is said, have hazed even county officials who visited the asylum for the first time. Orders have been issued by the Board of Freeholders, however, that the practice must be discontinued.

TAFT SAVED FROM CRUSH IN PANIC

PRAISES THE DECLARATION

Good Opposition Is Necessary to a Good Government, He Says in Defining His Policy Toward South.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 20.—A cloudburst breaking over the city this afternoon just as the splendid military, floral, and civic parade was passing in review before President Taft at the Mecklenburg celebration, promised serious consequences for a time. It set the densely packed throng in front of the reviewing stand into a panic and there was a wild rush for shelter. The President's box was a goal for many men and women, and the Chief Executive had to be surrounded to save him from the sudden crush.

In the midst of the storm a passing industrial float became entangled in a live electric wire and tore it from its support, the slender thread of copper sagging almost to the heads of the scampering crowd below. While the confusion was at its height, and to add to the tense situation, there was a blinding flash of flame and a loud report not fifty yards from where the President stood. It developed later that a quantity of black powder, which was to have been used for saluting purposes, had been prematurely ignited. No one was injured either in the explosion or in the crush about the reviewing stand.

The President received quite a drenching, and for a time it seemed that the frail canvas covering the reviewing stand would tumble about the heads of those beneath. Among these was Mrs. "Stonewall" Jackson. When she had met Mr. Taft earlier in the day she had earnestly exclaimed: "I am indeed delighted to know the harmonizer of all our hearts."

President Taft came to-day to Charlotte, the home of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, signed in May of 1775, and placed himself squarely on the side of those who look back upon this declaration as one of the first significant steps which led ultimately to American independence.

Explains His Policy Toward South.

In his address to the people of North Carolina late in the day the President clearly explained his policy toward the South. His own recent appointment of a Democrat to the Federal bench in this State gave him an opportunity to expand upon his previously expressed views. Mr. Taft urged again the advisability of an intelligent, logical opposition party.

"I do not believe that we are on the point of a political revolution in the South," said the President. "I never have had such a dream. What I do desire and believe we are on the eve of is a complete tolerance of opinion, and that there shall grow into respect and power an intelligent fighting opposition party in every State of the Union."

The President's political utterances were received with the same fervor of enthusiasm as his tribute to the signers of the Mecklenburg declaration. Mr. Taft constantly was interrupted by the cheers that rose spontaneously from his hearers. As to his appointment of a Democrat upon the bench, the President declared that throughout the South he intended to pursue the policy he already had indicated, of appointing to office only that man who, Republican or Democrat, can command the highest confidence and commend himself to the community in which he lives.

Mr. Taft's plea for political tolerance in the South and his statement that he wanted the people of the South to know that the Washington Government was not a Government alien to them, had all the effect of extemporaneous utterances, for the President spoke without notes, once he had drifted into politics.

President Taft spoke twice during the day. The storm interfered with the programme for his addressing the public from the reviewing stand, and he spoke first in the Charlotte Auditorium at 4:30 P. M. The President then rode two miles out of the city and spoke to the colored students of Biddle University. Mr. Taft declared that he would not count a visit to the South complete without an opportunity to express to the colored people his interest in them and his sympathy for them in their problems.

In his speech at the Auditorium Mr. Taft said:

"We are here to celebrate a Declaration of Independence regardless of the fact that there are some unregenerate persons in South Carolina and elsewhere that, for various motives, have cast doubt upon the claim."

The President declared that the man who came to Charlotte and was not willing to accept the Mecklenburg declaration in full reminded him of the Tipperary Irishman who was tried for murder after he had hit his opponent a fatal blow with a blackthorn. It developed at the trial that the victim had a paper or very thin skull. Consequently the defendant was convicted only of manslaughter. When sentence came to be passed the convicted man was asked if he had anything to say.

"'No, your Honor,' he replied, according to Mr. Taft, 'but, your Honor, I would like to ask wan quistion—what the divil was a man with a head like that doing in Tipperary?'"

President Taft declared that the important part of the Mecklenburg declaration, as viewed from the standpoint of practical patriotism and statesmanship, was not the general declarations as to the rights of man, but the practical provision for a Government which was to succeed that of Great Britain.

The declaration, the President said, showed wisdom, self-reliance, and a willingness to accept the responsibility of maintaining a Government of law and order.

Mr. Taft spoke of the war between the States and said:

Suffering of the Southland.

"You in the Southland had the troubles, the suffering, the sad losses burned into your hearts with much more emphasis than we in the Northland, because here was the centre of the war, and it is entirely natural that in that forty years which have succeeded the war there should continue a bitterness of feeling that time and long time could only erase."

He added that we must congratulate ourselves that the feeling has so largely disappeared, and that we are now a more united country than ever. He said that political divisions have continued in such a way as to seem to perpetuate the lines which were made during the war, but even those lines were disappearing and that it is the duty of all of us with respect to political partisanship to wipe out those lines as far as we can, and to see so far as we may that in each State the tolerance of opinion shall continue until there shall be respectable parties on both sides of the line.

"It is essential to have a good opposition to have a good Government," he continued. "Now, if there is anything that I can do in my administration to make that feeling of union more close I shall do it.

"I am anxious, of course, speaking from a partisan standpoint, that the Republican Party of North Carolina should be strengthened merely to have a good fight every election, and, of course, in so far as I may legitimately do so I should be glad to build up the Republican Party.

"Now I understand that some of my Republican friends think that I have lost sight of the Republican Party in putting into office in North Carolina a gentleman now upon the Supreme Court of the State, a lawyer of the highest eminence and learning and integrity, but a Democrat."

Not Alien to the South.

He explained that he had promised, after he was President-elect, to the South that he would do the best he could to wipe out the feeling that the Central Government was a Government alien to the Southland, and said he pointed out that the only way by which the Executive could cure that feeling was to put into office men in whom the community at large, without regard to party, would have the highest confidence.

"Now I am trying to do that, and I am going to appoint Republicans and I am going to appoint Democrats, striving in each case to get a man who will commend himself to the community in which he lives.

"The Federal judiciary, to my mind, is the strongest bulwark that we have to protect ultimately our institutions of civil liberty and those of the things in the Federal Constitution that we most love and must hug to our bosom if we are to continue this civilization.

"And therefore there is no more sacred duty that the Executive has than in the selection of men whose appointment and service on the bench will strengthen it with all the people at large.

"I think not that we are at a point where there is to be political revision in the South. I never had such a dream. But I believe we are on the eve of such a condition that there shall be complete tolerance of opinion and that there shall grow into respectable power an opposition in each State which shall tend to the betterment of the Government as it exists in the State which shall give us occasionally a Republican in a crowd of Democrats in order that we may have represented in Congress your views without regard to the ghost of an issue that really ought not to influence you in enforcing these particular economic views that you really entertain."

There was a public reception to the President to-night and he left on a late train for Washington, where he is due to arrive shortly before noon to-morrow. The two days of constant going in the heat and dust of the Petersburg battlefields yesterday, and in the drenching downpour of Charlotte to-day, were quite trying upon the President. He was perceptibly hoarse to-day.

CONEY MUST KEEP THE LAW, MAYOR SAYS

The Islanders, If They Don't Like It, May Appeal to the Courts or Get the Law Changed.

CITES COURT DECISIONS

Luna Park Promptly Becomes an Educational Institution and Invites the Public to Call and Protest.

After an hour's conference yesterday afternoon with Police Commissioner Bingham on Coney Island Sunday closing, Mayor McClellan announced that he intends to enforce the law to the best of his ability and that no distinction will be made between that resort and any other part of the city.

"I have no desire," said the Mayor, "to injure the resort or to interfere with the innocent pleasures of the people. But we have a Sunday law and I am here to see that it is enforced. If the amusement proprietors at Coney Island do not believe they are disobeying the law they must go to the courts and fight the matter out."

Mr. McClellan added that there was no restriction against educational or religious entertainments.

The Mayor intends to follow out the policy adopted by him with reference to moving-picture shows and issue only six-day licenses to the proprietors of "common shows," which include ferris wheels, circus acts, shooting galleries, cane and ball games, roller coasters, and practically all the island amusements except the big spectacles which are operated under theatrical licenses issued by the Police Department.

Commissioner Bingham would not discuss the matter when he left the Mayor's office, but his manner was taken as an indication that he will issue orders for "tighter" Sundays at the island.

What the Courts Say.

Later in the day the Mayor issued a statement in which he explains the various court decisions on the question. It says:

"Justice Thomas of Brooklyn heard an application for a mandamus which would direct the Mayor to issue seven-day licenses to the proprietors of moving-picture shows in New York. The Justice denied this application, holding that the Mayor was right in refusing to sanction the operation of these places on Sunday by the issuance of a positive license for their maintenance and operation.

"An application was made before Justice O'Gorman, in New York County, for an injunction to restrain the Mayor and the Police Department from closing a moving-picture place operating under a six-day license when the same was opened on Sunday. Justice O'Gorman held that he would not tie the Mayor's hands in the enforcement of the six-day license.

"A third application was made to Justice Carr, in Brooklyn, and in the argument made by counsel for the moving-picture shows it was claimed that the Mayor was discriminating against moving-picture shows and was allowing all other kinds of places to openly operate on Sunday.

"It was stated on behalf of the Mayor that he had by his omnibus order of Dec. 24, 1908, closed all moving-picture shows and directed the issuance of new six-day licenses, but that this order of the Mayor's had been enjoined and restrained by the decision of Justice Blackmar, in Brooklyn.

"Counsel for the moving-picture shows further claimed that some of the moving-picture establishments were operating on Sunday, and that this discrimination worked such a hardship to his clients that they appealed to the courts for protection.

Closing Law Misunderstood.

"Justice Carr, in his opinion, after referring to the shows that were operating on Sunday, said:

> The result is anomalous if not something worse. The ordinary man will find himself unable to understand the apparent situation. While this result does not come about from any bad faith or favoritism, yet it looks so ill that a misunderstanding about it on the part of the average man is somewhat excusable. It should be and is an easy matter to determine fully in an appropriate tribunal whatever is mooted in the question of moving picture shows on Sundays, and all the criminal courts are open to punish every violation of the law. If the plaintiff gives any show on a Sunday which violates the penal law, the police should not be restrained from arresting him and bringing him to trial. If he does not actually violate the law, then constant police interference is nothing less than a continuous trespass and should not be tolerated. An injunction will be granted pending the trial of the action, but so limited in terms as not to restrain the police from making a lawful arrest for any act of the plaintiff or his employes which constitutes a violation of the penal laws.

Section 263 of the Penal Code provides:

> All labor on Sunday is prohibited, excepting the works of necessity and charity. In works of necessity or charity is included whatever is needful during the day for the good order, health, and comfort of the community.

A Question of Health and Comfort.

"The question, therefore, to be determined in regard to the places of amusement at Coney Island is: What is needful for the health and comfort of the community at a seaside resort?

"It is hoped that early opinions will be received from Supreme Court Justices, which will aid the city authorities in dealing with the questions presented.

"In view of the fact, therefore, that Justice Thomas held that a seven-day license which would positively authorize places of public amusement to openly operate on Sunday should not be issued and in view of the somewhat conflicting opinions received from the Supreme Court in the different departments, it will be necessary to secure from the courts light and instruction as to what is prohibited and what should be allowed at the seaside resorts during the Summer."

In commenting on the matter the Mayor said that he expects to be flooded with injunctions and mandamuses during the next few days. He said that he has so far received no complaint or protest from the Coney Island amusement proprietors.

Asked what he intends doing with reference to the excise question, the Mayor replied:

"It would take 30,000 policemen to carry out a strict enforcement of the excise law in this city, and we have only a little more than 9,000 men on the entire force."

The Mayor refused yesterday to grant a license to James Thom to operate a Ferris wheel just outside Van Cortlandt Park, at 242d Street. Many protests from property owners and residents of the district had been received against the issuance of this license.

Luna Park Becomes Educational.

Whether or not Coney Island has to observe Sunday as a day of rest and refrain on that day from admitting the public to its amusements, it will have received at any rate more advertising than at any other time perhaps in its career. Many of the proprietors of amusement enterprises are counting on just this result, and they are preparing to handle exceptional crowds on Sunday. Many declare that if they are interfered with they will apply for injunctions.

Frederic Thompson of Luna Park was one of the first to see the possibilities in the Mayor's remark that there was no restriction against religious and educational entertainments on Sunday. Visitors to the big park yesterday saw a tremendous sign over the entrance proclaiming that Luna Park was "An Institute of Learning." Inside other new signs greeted their eyes.

The Monitor and Merrimac show bore a sign announcing that it was "a picture lesson of the first ironclads." The Mountain Torrent appeared under the new order of things as "an institute for the practical illustration of a mountain logging sluice." The Dragon's Gorge has become "an institute for the practical demonstration of gravitation." "The Burning of the Prairie Belle" developed into "a visualized presentation of John Hay's poem dealing with Jim Bludsoe."

Old Friends in New Dress.

The Witching Waves, on which one is tossed about while seated in a three-wheeled car, is now billed as "an institute for the study of wave currents." The Chutes appear as "an exhibition for the practical demonstration of rapid transit as applied to elevated communities." "Saved by Wireless" is now "Prof. Jack Binns's College for the Study of Wireless Telegraphy."

The Virginia Reel becomes a warning for those who dine more well than wisely, and is announced as "a temperance institute for the demonstration, by an intoxicated ride, of the effects of reeling." The Ticker is "a medical institute for the cure of indigestion." The Red Mill is "a model for the study of sea-level canals as applied to Panama," and so on.

Mr. Thompson expressed himself yesterday as highly pleased with the turn that affairs on the island have taken. He glanced proudly over his new signs and then announced:

"In building Luna Park I not only designed an exposition place for high-class amusements, but bore in mind a policy that everything worth while should have its mission. The mission in this case was an educational one. To have advertised them at that time as educational amusements would have been fatal, so I gave the park a sugar coating with a title that implied frivolous pastimes. Mayor McClellan's order now forces Luna Park to reveal its inward self, and I am disrobing it of its sugar coating."

Serious Appeals.

With more seriousness Mr. Thompson announced that if he were interfered with by the police on Sunday he should seek an injunction to prevent a continuance of the police activity. Manager Samuel W. Gumpertz of Dreamland was not prepared to make public what attitude he would take. There is a general feeling, however, fostered by Magistrate Tighe's discharge on Wednesday of the four scenic railway men arrested on Tuesday night, that the police will have trouble in obtaining convictions, and soon will cease what old-time Coney Islanders term "persecution."

To emphasize his statement that Luna Park would open as usual this Sunday, Mr. Thompson inserted an advertisement in the newspapers yesterday asking that the public lend its support to the effort now being made to keep Coney Island open on Sunday by visiting the resort this Sunday.

"We have invested millions of dollars and have always had your indorsement and patronage. Will you give it now, by coming to Luna next Sunday for the moral effect of your presence?" says Mr. Thompson's advertisement. "Your presence means your vote. Do not believe any published reports that Luna will be closed next Sunday."

MOTHER FORGOT A CHILD

But a Policeman Rescued Baby Girl Left in Burning Tenement.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 20.—Exploding gasoline set fire to a tenement house at 47 Glenridge Avenue to-day, and when the tenants escaped it was found that in the excitement three-year-old Lillian Reeves had been left on the second floor.

Mrs. Reeves, who had aided in getting her six other children to the street, was frantic over the fate threatening her child, and Policeman James S. Lennon dashed into the burning building. Groping his way through the smoke-filled halls, Lennon found the child in the Reeves apartments, but the flames were pressing him so closely that when he reached the rear window, which was his only means of egress, he had to jump with the child in his arms. The child was uninjured and Lennon's arm was slightly cut by broken glass. The wife of Joseph D'Alesandro, who conducted a small store on the first floor of the building, had hid $380 in a shoe box on a shelf. The money was destroyed.

SPRECKELS HAS PAID $138,478

Testifies to Meeting Two-thirds of Graft Prosecution Expense.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Rudolph Spreckels, who has testified he paid much of the expenses of the graft prosecution, was again on the stand to-day in the bribery trial of Patrick Calhoun, President of the United Railroads.

In a summary offered in evidence it was declared that the total subscriptions received from all sources amounted to $213,391, all of which had been expended. Mr. Spreckels testified that he had personally given $138,478 of this amount, and from his declarations it was inferred that he was still obligated for an indefinite amount.

The financial statement presented by Mr. Spreckels was divided into four accounts, entitled: "W. J. Burns," with a total of $123,250; "F. J. Heney," $23,828; "C. W. Cobb," $10,000, and "sundry," $66,295.

Mr. Spreckels, replying to Mr. Heney, testified that the latter had volunteered to work without pay at the outset of the prosecution.

UNITE TO HASTEN LAW.

Conference of Supreme Court Justices Called to Discuss Procedure.

The proposed convention of Supreme Court Justices of this State, announced in THE TIMES yesterday as being the idea of Justice Hendrick of New York County and Justice Foote representing the up-State Justices, has now taken definite form. This letter has been sent to each of the ninety-seven Justices interested:

> Dear Judge: Several conferences among a number of our fellow Justices from all parts of the State have led to the belief that a call for a meeting would receive general commendation.
>
> Saratoga was thought to be the most convenient rendezvous and the first week in June the most opportune time. We find that suitable accommodations cannot be had there until later, and consequently we have arranged with the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, for June 3 and 4, at reasonable rates.
>
> The purposes of this gathering, briefly stated, are a better personal acquaintance and the establishment of annual meetings for the discussion of matters affecting the administration of justice in the State.
>
> It is expected that the Judges of the Court of Appeals will accept an invitation to dine with the Justices on the evening of June 3.
>
> Kindly communicate with Justice Dayton at the New York County Court House.
>
> Hoping for an immediate and favorable response, we remain, cordially yours,
>
> Edward Patterson, Almet F. Jenks, Adelbert P. Rich, Peter B. McLennan, William R. Carr, Arthur E. Sutherland, William S. Andrews, Victor J. Dowling, Edward E. McCall, Charles W. Dayton, Vernon M. Davis, Nathaniel Foote, Joseph E. Newburger, M. Warley Platzek, William J. Kelly, James A. O'Gorman.

The original object of the proposed meeting was to enable the members of the judiciary to exchange ideas on matters that would tend to expedite judicial procedure. Since then the scope of the conference has been widened, and it is now believed that the Justices will form themselves into a permanent organization which will do much to expedite what is now termed "the law's delay."

F. A. HEINZE PUTS ALL ON LAMAR

Accuses the Other Man of Obtaining 4,400 Copper Shares by Misrepresentation.

COURTS TO BE CALLED ON

Everybody Denies Culpability in the Stock Tangle Except Lamar, Who Says Nothing.

Fritz Augustus Heinze made a detailed statement yesterday of his relations with M. Rothenberger & Co., who conducted the unsuccessful campaign in Ohio Copper last March for David Lamar. The statement was put out through Levy & Rosenthal, his counsel in legal proceedings which have grown out of the tangle, and was supplemented by a verbal explanation from Mr. Heinze's confidential representative, who took charge of Rothenberger's office on the fateful 19th of March last, when Heinze saved Ohio Copper from what might have been a repetition of the United Copper tumble in 1907.

Heinze's statement reiterates his denial of any relation with David Lamar in the matter, and practically accuses Lamar of obtaining on false representations 4,400 shares of copper stock belonging to Heinze, which he took from Rothenberger's office. What the statement says about Lamar is not a circumstance to the accusations brought against him by Heinze's confidential representative, who makes the whole Ohio Copper flurry out to be a carefully constructed conspiracy to frighten Heinze into taking something like $500,000 of Ohio Copper stock at top prices.

One or two points in the conspiracy story are not entirely clear, and the muddle was added to yesterday by denials from the bankrupt Curb broker of the facts as alleged in Heinze's statement.

Lamar, who is the real villain in the piece, according to both Heinze's man and Rothenberger, was the only one yesterday who did not contribute to the story. He has nothing to say, but it was learned that both he and Heinze will be invited to appear before United States Commissioner Alexander for examination in the Rothenberger bankruptcy.

Creditors of the Rothenberger firm intervened in the bankruptcy case yesterday and had M. Rothenberger & Co. placed in involuntary bankruptcy with Peter Alexander, brother of Commissioner Alexander, as receiver. The creditors were all brokers who had money due them for commissions in the Ohio Copper manipulation, and the bankruptcy applies to the partners in the firm who did not subscribe to the voluntary petition which this supersedes.

The partners are Carl Zeumer, Wallace B. McNeel, and Charles Heath. In an informal examination by Martin C. Ansorge of Hays, Hirschfield & Wolf, counsel for the receiver, Rothenberger repeated his previous story that both Heinze and Lamar were responsible for his trouble. It was this insistence on the bankrupt's part that made the receiver determine to have the whole question sifted under oath in the Federal Court.

According to Heinze's representative, Lamar spoke falsely when he told Rothenberger that Heinze was his principal in the Ohio Copper campaign. That Heinze did have business with Rothenberger & Co. was admitted by his representative, who said that the only transaction was an order to buy 8,800 shares of Ohio Copper at New York and Salt Lake City, given and executed on Feb. 23.

This stock, bought at an average of about 7, was carried by Rothenberger for Heinze's account at $61,601. Rothenberger was secured by a 50 per cent. margin, put up in the shape of 4,400 additional shares of Ohio Copper. The manipulation which ended in Heinze's taking charge of the Rothenberger office did not begin until about two weeks after this transaction was closed.

This manipulation, Heinze's representative says, was entirely without Heinze's knowledge notwithstanding the assertions of Rothenberger and Lamar to the contrary, and was the working out of the conspiracy to get some of Heinze's money.

One essential factor in the arrangement to land Heinze with Ohio Copper at high prices, which was not explained by his representative yesterday, was the knowledge of where a big block of this stock could be obtained if Heinze took the bait. Such a block is known to have been up as collateral supporting market transactions of a large stockholder in Heinze's Ohio Copper Company, and it was the knowledge that this could be taken out which made feasible the whole plan Heinze puts up to Lamar.

With the co-operation of three Stock Exchange firms, who were willing to put themselves under Lamar's generalship, the price of Ohio copper was washed up and at the same time about 60,000 shares were collected in the office of Rothenberger & Co., of which all but about 7,300 shares of real stock, afterward taken up by Heinze, were represented by nothing more than contracts to deliver from the Stock Exchange houses in the deal.

The shares with which to make good these contracts were to have been shaken out of the collateral put up by the stockholder mentioned above. All would have gone well if Heinze had not refused to go further in supporting Ohio copper than taking up the real stock which Rothenberger had bought from the market.

Heinze's version of what happened when he came to Rothenberger's rescue is this:

> About the middle of March Rothenberger came to Heinze's office and told him that his firm was in difficulties, especially on account of being loaded up with Ohio Copper stock which they were unable to carry, and told him that if he could not get any help that day, or at the latest by the following Monday, his firm would have to go into bankruptcy.
>
> Heinze asked him why he came to him for help, to which Rothenberger replied that he thought Heinze was much interested in this stock and that this would be about the only source that he could go to for assistance. At first Heinze refused to come to their assistance, but after another earnest solicitation on the part of Rothenberger Heinze consented to have one of his men go over the books of Rothenberger & Co. to find out actually how they stood, and if his man reported to him that about $40,000 would see them through he would consider the matter further.
>
> The report was to the effect that Rothenberger's books were in a terrible condition; that it seemed Rothenberger was made the clearing house of a lot of washed stock sales and purchases. Heinze was willing to take up for him legitimate purchases, but told him that he would not lend his hand to clear up any of the fake transactions, and during the next few days he took up and paid for 7,300 shares of Ohio stock, at a cost of $43,260.50.
>
> Of these 7,300 shares, 1,000 were delivreed at the request of Rothenberger & Co. to a Stock Exchange house. The Stock Exchange house paid by check to the order of Rothenberger & Co., and as these shares were really the property of Heinze, Rothenberger & Co. immediately drew their check to the order of Heinze's representative for $9,150.
>
> Rothenberger & Co. likewise indorsed to Heinze a draft with stock attached in the amount of $230, which sum was to be applied by Heinze on account of advances made by him for the account of Rothenberger & Co. These two sums, aggregating $9,380, constitute the asset referred to in the bankruptcy schedules as money in the hands of Heinze, and to-day Rothenberger's books will show that they owe Heinze 6,900 shares of stock against $26,226. In other words, at the market price, Rothenberger & Co. owe Heinze to-day over $20,000.
>
> During the last two or three weeks Rothenberger came to Heinze's office, repeatedly asking him to advance more money to enable him to pay off some of the commissions which he owed some of his brokers. This Heinze refused to do.
>
> The order to purchase 8,800 shares of stock given on Feb. 23 was the only transaction Heinze ever had with Rothenberger & Co., either directly or indirectly. Heinze explicitly states that he was in no way interested with Lamar in the transaction in Ohio Copper stock made through Rothenberger & Co.
>
> Heinze has further ascertained that the 4,400 shares of Ohio Copper stock which he intrusted to Rothenberger & Co. on Feb. 23 as collateral was subsequently, without Heinze's knowledge or consent, delivered to Lamar on Lamar's representation that he was interested with Heinze in the purchase and that the latter had authorized him to procure the 4,400 shares of stock from Rothenberger & Co.

Morits Rothenberger was called before the Federal Grand Jury last week while they were preparing the indictments against Heinze, but he was dismissed when it was found that he had not executed orders for Heinze direct since February.

It is understood that Heinze is getting ready to put before the Stock Exchange authorities the evidence he has of the connection of several Stock Exchange houses with the Lamar campaign.

SULSBACHER NOT GUILTY.

Acquitted After Midnight of Bribing a Witness to Leave the State.

The trial of Joseph H. Sulsbacher, the stock broker, charged with bribing Harry L. Wyatt, a witness against him in Grand Jury proceedings, to leave the jurisdiction of the court, ended after midnight last night in a verdict of "not guilty." Sulsbacher was paroled till to-morrow, when he will give bail on other indictments charging forgery and grand larceny.

The prosecution, conducted by District Attorney Jerome, brought forth bitter remarks from Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the defense, in his summing up.

"District Attorney Jerome," said Mr. Littleton, "may be an honest crusader, whose ethical and political standards are high, and I believe they are, but I must say that when he left his office to further family quarrels those standards were lowered. Mr. Jerome should take warning that if he does not shake off the influences, the like of which have been exploited in this criminal case, his office will be brought into contempt before the bar and the public."

"No, gentlemen," said Mr. Littleton in conclusion, "it is the same old story from the very beginning of the civil litigation up to the present time. They have been striking blows at one man from the beginning to the end. Their cupidity and their desire to settle the case and to get the money from this man has stimulated them to do so. That is why they subsidized the District Attorney's office and brought it into play and worked with it as a machine against this defendant."

After the noon recess District Attorney Jerome, in opening for the prosecution, said that he was unable to be present in the morning to hear his opponent's detached discussion of political and ethical standards without regard to the evidence.

"I am informed," said Mr. Jerome, "that Mr. Littleton felt it necessary in behalf of his client to accuse me and my assistant, Mr. Kressel, of the commission of a felony. I am informed that Mr. Littleton said that my office had been subsidized. I am chagrined and surprised that these words come from the lips of a man I have always respected."

"Yes, and you will be more surprised yet," interrupted Mr. Littleton.

Judge Malone, in charging the jury, said that any citizen had a right to lodge a complaint in the District Attorney's office, and that it was the duty of the officials in that office to prosecute if they found sufficient evidence to do so.

EDUCATIONAL BILLS SIGNED.

One Makes Compulsory Education Age Seven Instead of Eight Years.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 20.—Gov. Hughes to-day signed three educational measures. One, by Senator Brough, places at seven instead of eight years the age at which compulsory education is required in cities or school districts of 5,000 or more population, and employing a School Superintendent. It is provided that every child between the ages of 7 and 14 shall attend school during the entire term, which shall not be less than 160 days of actual school.

Another by Mr. Perkins requires the State Commissioner of Education to apportion annually for training teachers $700 to each academy and union free school district maintaining a class under the provisions of the education law; and the balance of the money appropriated for this purpose in amounts proportional to the attendance, to cities which maintain training schools. The time of instruction required in training classes is increased from sixteen weeks to thirty-six weeks in the year.

A bill by Mr. Merritt decreases the number of elective Trustees of Cornell University from thirty-one to twenty-six; the number of those to be elected by the Board of Trustees from twenty to fifteen, and the minimum number to be elected by the Board of Trustees each year to fill the vacancies, from four to three.

The Governor also signed the following bills by Mr. Wadell, requiring the filing of more detailed information with the State Board of Tax Commissioners and the mortgage recording officer, in the case of mortgages made by corporations in trust to secure payment of bonds or obligations, and providing that the penalty for failure to file such statement shall be recovered by the Attorney General instead of the District Attorney of the county in which the mortgage is recorded.

Mr. E. Young, changing the standard weights and measures so as to make the quart 67.2 cubic inches instead of 67 cubic inches, as at present, and making this the standard measures for plums, cherries, and cranberries.

Senator Hewitt, providing that banks in any village of not over 1,500 inhabitants, in which there is no savings bank, may make loans on real estate security if its total loans on real estate will not thus be made to exceed 40 per cent. of its total assets. Heretofore the amount was limited to 25 per cent.

Mr. Wood, requiring death and birth certificates to be forwarded by local Health Boards to the State Bureau of Vital Statistics on or before the 5th day of each month. Under the present law no time is specified.

SUICIDE WAS A CONSELYEA.

Man Dead in Kansas City After Forging Check—Changed Name to Cobb.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 20.—A subscription paper was circulated among business acquaintances to-day to pay the expenses of the funeral of Wallace A. Cobb, a real estate broker, who committed suicide yesterday afternoon after a bartender had refused to cash a forged check. Men who signed the paper gave freely, for they knew Cobb's story.

At the Antlers Hotel, where a policeman found Cobb yesterday when inquiry was made about the check, the man was registered as W. A. Conselyea. This was his name until Feb. 4, 1904. He was the son of George W. Conselyea, a New York banker, but changed his name under an order of the Circuit Court to "Cobb," the maiden name of his mother. He quarreled with his father when he was a young man. Under the terms of the will of George W. Conselyea, who died in 1899, $6,000, advanced to the son previous to the execution of the will, was deducted, and the rest of the son's share of the estate was put into a trust, with provision that at the death of Cobb the bequest was to be paid to his children.

Cobb married young, and there were two children when the wife obtained a divorce. He remarried in Liberty, Mo., in 1903, and there were two children by this marriage.

His mother died in 1904 and left him several thousand dollars, which was quickly spent. A few days ago he executed an assignment of his share of the income from his father's estate to his wife. As his was interest only for life, she will not be benefited by the assignment, but her children and those of the first wife will divide the bequest left by their grandfather.

HER OWN BLACK-HAND WRITER

Note of a Girl of 13 Threatening to Kidnap Herself Makes Mother Faint.

In a playful mood yesterday 13-year-old Madeline Meeker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meeker of 78 Day Street, Orange, N. J., thought to perpetrate a joke on her parents. With the help of a schoolmate she wrote a Black Hand letter demanding $500 of her father on a threat of kidnapping his daughter, little Madeline herself. Pretending to find the note on the doorstep when she went home at noon, Madeline, with an air of innocence, handed the missive to her mother.

Mrs. Meeker promptly fainted, and Madeline, frantic with fear at the unexpected outcome of her joke, called in the neighbors to help restore her mother to consciousness.

When Madeline's father reached home last evening he and his precocious daughter had a painful, but resultful, interview.

BREAD FAMINE BROKEN.

Bronx, Brooklyn, and Brownsville Bakers Rush Loaves to the East Side.

The famine prices in the east side kosher bread market were broken yesterday by the arrival of bread in large quantities from kosher bakeries in the Bronx, Brooklyn, and Brownsville, which are not affected by the strike and lockout. Kosher bread in some cases sold as high as 18 cents for an eight-cent loaf before the price broke.

Members of the East Side Boss Bakers' Association disagreed yesterday as to the advisability of keeping the shops closed. Many said they could get enough men if the shops were opened now, and it was thought that, being in the majority, they would force the opening of the bakeries.

The strikers having found much to please them in the fact that while other shops are shut down the bakery of Jacob Bock, President of the Boss Bakers' Association, has never stopped running, Mr. Bock said yesterday:

"I have a contract for a year with two Ann Street lunchrooms, and all the loaves I bake are for these places; none of them is for the east side. If I violated my contract with these customers I could be sued."

The strike leaders, in reply to the letter from the State Board of Arbitration suggesting arbitration by a special board, said yesterday that they were willing to arbitrate, provided the union was recognized. They declared that many of the bakers before the shutdown had been working twenty hours a day for only $2. Secretary Brayer of the Bosses' Association denied such low wages have been paid.

National Organizer Charles Iffland of the bakers' unions said yesterday that two women "prominent in society" disguised as working women had begun an investigation of the sanitary conditions in twenty non-union bakeshops. They will make a report in about two weeks, he said.

The Boss Bakers' Association voted last night to continue the lock-out.

WANTS IMMIGRATION STOPPED

People's Institute Club Audience Displeased with Prof. Clarke's Views.

An audience of 350 people, practically all of foreign birth, crowded the lecture room of the People's Institute Club, 318 East Fifteenth Street, last night, and suppressed with great effort their resentment while Walter Clarke, Professor of Economics at the City College, argued for the absolute suppression of immigration for the next fifteen or twenty years.

"If we stopped immigration entirely," said Prof. Clarke, "we would diminish greatly the congestion of our cities; we would be able to give every child his full day in school instead of running the schools as now, with half sittings; we would be able to assimilate our entire foreign element where now we cannot assimilate a third.

"Wages would increase; laborers would be better able to educate their children; laws would then be better understood; lawmakers and voters better educated, and so the conditions of graft, now so extensive, would disappear."

Westchester's Primary League.

Republicans of Westchester County met yesterday in the City Club and formed a county organization to assist the work of the State organization in furthering direct primaries. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Direct Primary Association. A central body was formed to be known as the Westchester County Primary League, with branch leagues in the four Assembly districts. William Cravath White of Scarsdale was elected President.

Sing Sing for Fake Tenement Inspector

Charles Newmarket of 242 East Eleventh Street was sentenced yesterday by Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions to serve not less than seven years nor more than fifteen years in Sing Sing for going to the apartment of Mrs. Annie Rutenberg, 15 West 102d Street, last July, and robbing her of a pair of diamond earrings, which he tore from her ears. Newmarket and a companion gained access by posing as Tenement House Inspectors.

PLATTS SAY CHARGES ARE ALL GROUNDLESS

Deny That They Run the U. S. Express Company for Their Own Personal Benefit.

IS NOT A FAMILY AFFAIR

Books Audited at Certain Intervals and Stockholders Not Deceived, They Assert.

Argument was heard yesterday and decision reserved by Supreme Court Justice Guy on the application of John J. Dudley, a stockholder in the United States Express Company, for a peremptory writ of mandamus directing Edward T. Platt, Treasurer of the company, to permit him and his counsel to examine the books of the concern.

Dudley was represented by Frederick H. Sanborn and Louis H. Newkirk, while Morgan J. O'Brien and George W. Field appeared as counsel for the express company. Counsel for Dudley asserted that stockholders of the company have for years been kept in ignorance of its affairs and have been refused access to the books. The application is preliminary to the asking for the appointment of a receiver and for a dissolution of the company.

Morgan J. O'Brien, in opposition, submitted to the court a long affidavit by Edward T. Platt, in which the history of the company is reviewed and many of the allegations made by Mr. Dudley are denied. The affidavit declares that the officers of the company have at all times been willing to afford stockholders all reasonable opportunity to investigate its affairs. He says the charge made by Dudley to the effect that such is not the case "is false and has no foundation." Twice during the last two years, according to Mr. Platt, the accounts have been audited and examined by two firms of accountants selected by shareholders who had made charges against the Directors and officers, the result being that it was shown conclusively that the charges were false and without foundation.

The affidavit sets forth that Dudley recently applied to Mr. Platt for permission to examine the books and records of the company, and was told that he might do so personally, but that such permission could not be extended to his counsel or any accountant he might name.

On this, Mr. Platt says that on May 14 he was served with the order to show cause in this proceeding, and that taking all the facts into consideration, "this application convinces me that it is made for the purpose of placing the officers and Directors of the company in a false position, namely, that of refusing to the shareholders information they should properly have."

According to Mr. Platt, the express company is an unincorporated concern with more than 1,500 members. It was organized on April 22, 1854. The officers of the association are Thomas C. Platt, President; Chauncey H. Crosby, Vice President, Secretary, and General Manager; Edward T. Platt, Treasurer, and Francis S. Palmer, Assistant Treasurer. It is not tue, says Mr. Platt, as alleged by Mr. Dudley, that Mr. Crosby is a son-in-law of Thomas C. Platt. He is not in any way related to him.

"The statement contained in the petition," the affidavit continues, "to the effect that the officers and Directors of said association are appointees and puppets of said Thomas C. Platt, is false and without foundation."

A similar denial is made to the statement in the petition to the effect that Thomas C. Platt is entirely unable through physical weakness to attend to his duties as President, and that he seldom is at the company's office. "Said Thomas C. Platt," says his son, "does faithfully attend to his duties as President of the association. He comes to the office of the company daily, with the exception of Saturday, and participates in the conduct of the company's business."

Mr. Platt sets forth that the assertion that Levi C. Weir acted as a Director while being President of the Adams Express Company and that that constituted a fraud is false and without foundation. Mr. Weir has not resigned as a Director of the United States Express Company. He also denies that the activities of Mr. Weir and James C. Fargo on the Board of Directors are hostile, and at variance with the best interests of the United States Express Company. He further says that Mr. Fargo resigned as a Director of the concern on March 9.

A denial is also made of the allegation that the company has conducted the express part of the business only for the support and employment and benefit of its officers.

On the finances of the company Mr. Platt says that, although the nominal par value of the interests of the association amount to $10,000,000, no such sum was ever subscribed to the capital of the company. From time to time, he says, the company has saved out of its net earnings and over and above its dividends, until it has accumulated property amounting to over $9,500,000, and although the company has been in existence since 1854, more than half of this amount has been added since the present board came into existence, in April, 1901.

For the year ended June 30, 1908, the total net income of the company was $545,743, according to Mr. Platt, the net earnings from the express business being $37,734. For the year previous the net earnings from this latter source were $514,695, the decrease being due to the panic. Another audit of the books will be made at the termination of the year ending June 30.

Urging the court to issue the writ, Mr. Sanborn told the court that the appointment of Levi C. Weir and James C. Fargo as Directors of the company was a violation of the articles of association, and that they were hostile to the interests of the United States Express Company. He said that Mr. Dudley owned the same number of shares as did Thomas C. Platt; namely, 100. He pointed out that Mr. Platt's salary as President is $25,000 a year, Crosby's $15,000 a year, and Edward T. Platt's $7,500. Mr. Sanborn said that no dividend had been paid this year.

DR. BARKLEY IS MODERATOR.

Detroit Clergyman Elected by Presbyterians on the Third Ballot.

DENVER, Col., May 20.—Dr. James M. Barkley of Detroit was elected Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly on the third ballot late to-day, receiving 503 votes against 292 votes for the Rev. Dr. Edgar Hill of Chicago. The election of Dr. Barkley came as a surprise, in view of the apparent strength of Dr. William L. McEwan of Pittsburg and Dr. Hill. Dr. McEwan withdrew after the second ballot, in order to avoid a long contest.

The campaign was heated to the last moment. The managers for the candidates met last night, and Dr. Robert Mackenzie of New York announced his withdrawal in favor of Dr. Hill. Dr. Howard A. Johnston of Colorado Springs made a similar announcement. It had been thought up to that time that Dr. McEwan would be elected, but when the Assembly met to-day Dr. Hill was regarded by observers as a certain victor.

Voting began shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon. The first ballot resulted in a deadlock, each candidate receiving less than 300 votes. On the second ballot Dr. McEwan's strength fell away, and he said that in the interests of harmony he would withdraw. On the next ballot Dr. McEwan's strength went to Dr. Barkley.

The General Assembly convened at the Central Presbyterian Church in this city at 11 o'clock this morning with 2,000 commissioners present.

The Rev. B. P. Fullerton of St. Louis, the retiring Moderator, in his address said:

"When accredited ministers of the Church deliberately cast suspicion upon a truth so fundamental as the deity of Christ, is the time not ripe for the Church to declare itself? The hurt, however, to the cause comes rather from a lack of positive conviction in the Church upon this great doctrine, a lack of well-defined notions concerning it which do not hesitate to defend themselves.

"Never was there such an array of material resources upon which the Church may put its hand as we have to-day. All of this Jesus Christ, as the head, will put under tribute to His Church when He discovers that it can be trusted with it. We are poor to-day, not because our Divine Head is poor, but because He has not dared to trust us with the vast resources to which we, as the children of God, have become heirs with Him. Here in America are the potency and power for world conquests, if we marshal these under the banner of our Great Captain; but if we neglect, if we hesitate, we may be called in the near future to face these as our most inveterate foe."

BETTER SERVICE BY B. R. T.

Travel Facilities to be Increased and Key to Brooklyn Streets Furnished.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, following orders from the Public Service Commission, is preparing to make service changes in the near future which will increase materially the facilities on its elevated lines and make it much easier for its patrons to find their destination around Brooklyn. Of its own initiative the Brooklyn Rapid Transit has had maps prepared giving the lay-out of all surface and elevated lines in the borough, with the stations on the elevated roads and the time of the departure of trains for the various points of destination.

The commission, in addition, has ordered the Brooklyn Rapid Transit to maintain in rush hours on week days, excepting Saturday afternoons, the maximum service on all its elevated lines that can be furnished with safe operation. At other times the company is required to offer facilities on its elevated lines as follows:

Where the headway is five minutes or less, sufficient cars must be operated past all stations to provide seats for at least as many passengers as there may be on four consecutive trains; where there is a headway of between five and ten minutes, the order stipulates that three consecutive trains shall furnish the test; where the headway is between ten and twenty minutes, it is two consecutive trains, and where the headway is twenty minutes or more there must be seats enough for every passenger in every train.

THE MAYOR TO APPEAL.

Quo Warranto Proceedings Going to Appellate Division.

Rutherford B. Meyer, of counsel for Mayor McClellan in the Mayoralty recount case, said yesterday that the Appellate Division of this department would be asked to adjudicate the question of an extra allowance to the Mayor in the quo warranto proceedings brought by William R. Hearst.

As told in THE TIMES yesterday, Justice Lambert, in Buffalo, on Wednesday denied a motion for an extra allowance, but advised that the question be taken up on appeal to decide the point of law whether or not a quo warranto proceeding was a case for an extra allowance.

The amount asked by the Mayor is $2,000, which is the maximum allowed by law.

FIFTH AVE. BUILDING SOLD.

M. H. De Young of San Francisco Buys an Eleven-Story Structure Here.

M. H. De Young, owner of The San Francisco Chronicle, has joined the ranks of those from other cities who are attracted by the investment and speculative possibilities of New York real estate.

Mr. De Young took title yesterday to the eleven-story building at 236 and 238 Fifth Avenue, valued at considerably more than $1,000,000. The seller was the J. C. Lyons Building and Operating Company.

The building, which was put up by the Lyons Company about three years ago, stands on a plot 56.4 by 125, on the west side of Fifth Avenue, just north of Twenty-seventh Street. Smith, Gray & Co. recently took a long lease of the store, basement, and first floor in the structure.

Sakolik Baby Saved from Deportation.

Further contributions amounting to $6 have been received by THE TIMES for the benefit of the family of Abraham Sakolik, whose two-year-old child, under treatment in the Ellis Island hospital, was about to be deported because the father could not pay the hospital charges. This makes a total of $88 received by Mr. Sakolik from readers of THE TIMES. He also received $100 from another source. This has enabled him to pay the hospital charges, amounting to $104. The child is recovering from ringworm, and will soon be restored to its parents.

MONGOLIAN IS STILL FAST IN ICE FIELD

Liner Undamaged So Far—Sealing Steamer Expected to Get Her Out To-day.

FIVE PASSENGERS CROSS ICE

Party, Including Two Women, Come Ashore That Way—Those on Board Safe and Well, Visitors Report.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 20.—Notwithstanding efforts to assist her, the Allan Line steamer Mongolian, which has been wedged in an ice pack off the mouth of this harbor since yesterday, was still imprisoned to-night. During the evening a heavy swell caused the steamer to rise and fall, but no damage resulted. It is thought that the stout sealing steamer Diana, which is attempting to open up a lane between the Mongolian and the narrow harbor opening will by to-morrow morning free the liner. The fact that the coastal steamer Prospero managed to-day, unassisted, to extricate herself from the ice field, seems to promise as much.

Meanwhile the experience of five passengers of the Mongolian, who crossed the uneven ice field between the ocean liner and shore to-day, assured the others that a ready and fairly safe avenue of escape was available, and to-night those on the Mongolian were able to see the lights of the steamer Diana, which lay a mile off.

Under the impulse of the steady southward trend of the Labrador current, the Mongolian to-night was a considerable distance further from the entrance to the harbor than she was last night. On all sides of the steamer stretched an almost compact, although irregular, covering of ice, which to the east, in the direction of the sea, reached in some places twenty-five miles offshore. To persons who had mounted either of the two promontories which mark the sides of the narrow harbor opening this field appeared to stretch interminably before them. Even with the aid of glasses no fringe of clear water was visible.

One of the most interesting of the many features which have marked the detention of the big steamer was the walk across the ice from the steamer to-day of the five passengers already mentioned, among them being two women. They were Dr. McPherson and his wife, Dr. Hunt, Miss McPherson, and a Mr. Stephenson. Hand in hand, with the men ever watchful for the safety of their women companions, the little party mounted hummock after hummock, sliding along where a smooth surface offered. They were anxiously watched both from the steamer and from the shore. When they reached the borders of the ice fields at the harbor mouth, where yesterday the Prospero was held up, a tug was awaiting them.

Dr. McPherson and the rescued passengers complimented the conduct of the officers of the Mongolian. The assurances of safety and the quiet demeanor of both officers and crew under the stress of uncertain conditions did much, they said, to enable the passengers to obtain a night of sound sleep. So far as Dr. McPherson had observed, the steamer had sustained no serious damage and was not leaking, though the night for all on board was naturally an anxious one.

To fishermen and others from the city who crossed the ice to the Mongolian many of the passengers recounted how the ice pack bore down on the steamer yesterday as she neared the coast until, hemmed in on every side, further progress was completely stopped. Then came the effort of the little steamer Prospero to break through the ice at the harbor's entrance and open a lane for the larger steamer. Many of the passengers bound to Halifax and Philadelphia on the Mongolian thought that the Prospero would at least reach them and perhaps enable them to land, and there was much disappointment when the ice pack was seen to gather steadily around the little steamer until she also was hemmed in.

The two steamers lay in practically the same position throughout the night. There was some movement of the big bergs as the tide rose and fell, and the weight of the great ocean current sweeping along from the north extended inshore.

Many of the older inhabitants were unable to remember such an extensive ice field off St. John's as that which has massed off here during the past two days. The procession of bergs passing down the coast to the Grand Banks is a familiar sight to the inhabitants of the east coast. But it is unusual for them to mass up into a field of forty or fifty miles wide and hundreds of miles long. Steamers seeking this port in the Spring have been caught and held for several days, but it is many years since a vessel has been so completely surrounded by an ice field.

ASKS $500 FOR INJURED DOG.

Was Shot in the Neck by Motor Cyclist It Barked at, Owner Says.

An action was entered yesterday in the City Count by Harold Orvis Hammond of 203 West 109th Street against Kenneth Meserole to recover $500 for injuries to a dog, worth, according to the plaintiff, $1,000. Mr. Hammond brings the action as assignee of the claim, the dog being owned by Malcolm Thompson, of Ridgefield, N. J. The assignment was made that the suit might be brought in this city.

It is alleged that about six months ago, as Meserole was riding past the home of Thompson in Ridgefield, the dog ran out and barked at his motor cycle. On Sunday, according to the complaint, Meserole shot the dog through the neck, inflicting injuries which, though not mortal, the plaintiff holds, have so disfigured the animal that his value has been reduced by half.

THREE HELD IN TRUNK CASE.

Dressmaker, Husband, and Baggageman Arrested for Smuggling.

Charged with attempting to smuggle a trunk full of women's clothing from the American liner Philadelphia on March 9, Theresa F. Hannon, a dressmaker of 26 West Forty-seventh Street, and her husband, Thomas F. J. Hannon, were arrested yesterday by United States Marshall Henkel and brought before Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court. With them was arraigned Thomas Murphy, former assistant baggage master on the American Line pier, who is accused of collusion in the attempt to get the trunk, the contents of which are valued at $5,000, into this country safely.

All of the defendants were indicted some time ago by the Federal Grand Jury. They were held in $2,500 bail each by Judge Hough. Murphy, who could not raise the money was sent to the Tombs. Mrs. Hannon and her husband gave bail before Commissioner Shields and were released. This smuggling case, it was said yesterday, had no connection with the big smuggling case of which there has been such a sensation in customs quarters, but the attempt to get the trunk in without paying duty was undertaken in the same way. The trunk was thrown off as "left-over baggage," with the idea that subsequently it could be taken away from the pier in safety.

There was another arrest because of alleged fraudulent importation yesterday. Alphonse Rousseft was taken at a hotel in Forty-second Street charged with having tried to enter two ice boxes full of green vegetables under false manifests on Jan. 15, 1906. He was arraigned before Commissioner Shields and held for examination on Tuesday.

Dr. Hutchison was traced to Worcester and New York, from which places he sent back messages saying he was tired of the life at the sanitarium, and was seeking rest. When he disappeared from Stoneham he left a note announcing his intention of ending his life.

Hamilton, for the partition of the property, 229 Broadway, which is at Broadway and Barclay Street, opposite the Post Office.

The suit is a friendly one to determine the division of revenues from the building.

The six causes of distinction in Saks Apparel for Men

No. 5. THE TRIMMINGS—AND INCIDENTALS.

No chain being stronger than its weakest link, we permit no "weak links" in the chain of features which make for distinction in Saks Apparel for men.

Retention of shapeliness is the very groundwork of distinction. As the skeleton of steel is to the modern building, so are our linings in their relation to the garments of which they form part. We use haircloth, canvas and other interlinings of the very best grades only, selected for their strength and rigidity.

The body linings and sleeve linings in all garments of our production, be they of cloth, silk or wool, are carefully selected to harmonize with the colorings of the outer cloths.

This matching of color even applies to the silk threads with which the seams are sewn. The buttons, too, are chosen with equal care.

Small matters? We do not so view them. All these little details have an important bearing upon the general effect of distinction in our finished garments—as you will readily see by comparing them with clothes that are shown elsewhere.

POLICEMEN BEATEN BY PARIS WORKMEN

Twelve Are Wounded by Rioters, Who Throw Chairs, Tables, and Carafes.

TROOPERS RESCUE THEM

Not a Serious Demonstration, but a Holiday Fracas—Public Treats the General Strike as a Joke.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 20.—Fifteen thousand workmen of various trades took advantage of the general cessation of work on Ascension Day to assemble in St. Paul's Riding School and pretend to be strikers. After thoroughly enjoying themselves by abusing capitalism and parliamentarism they went out in a rather exuberant frame of mind to find a large body of police waiting before the hall with instructions to see that they dispersed quietly.

This, in the circumstances, the holiday makers declined to do. A melée ensued in the course of which many were beaten, trampled, and hit with missiles. The police suffered severely, twelve being wounded.

Several hundred navvies took possession of a café in the Rue St. Antoine and fought the police with chairs, iron tables, carafes, and syphons, inflicting some serious injuries. A reserve company of municipal guards was called out and came down the streets with bayonets fixed. They succeeded in dispersing the rioters, who, however, repaired to the Café des Mousquetaires and began to barricade themselves.

A troop of cavalry hurried to the scene and charged at a gallop, finally dispersing the mob. One hundred arrests were made and many, more or less wounded, were allowed to go home.

The affair must not be regarded as serious, being rather a holiday fracas than a deliberate manifestation of disorder.

PARIS, May 20.—The unionist barbers voted to-day to go on strike this evening or to-morrow.

The public is treating the general strike as a huge joke. Various minor unions continue bombastically to proclaim their adherence to the movement, but the number of strikers is insignificant. The leaders of the General Federation of Labor are quarreling among themselves, and a break in the organization is threatened.

Humanité, however, maintains that the public is deceived by appearances, and declares that the order of the Federal Committee of the General Federation will be obeyed, and that the entire industrial life of the country gradually will be brought to a standstill.

DEAN OF WESTMINSTER FIRM.

Refuses to Change His Decision Barring Meredith's Ashes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—In spite of efforts to induce him to change his decision, the Dean of Westminster reiterated to-day his refusal to permit the burial of George Meredith in the abbey.

"I will give no reasons," he said in reply to inquiries, and against this unsatisfactory decision there is no appeal.

In all quarters his refusal has caused the deepest regret. Over 1,000 telegrams have been received by the Dean urging him to consent to the ashes being placed in the historic fane, and many well-known persons, including J. M. Barrie and A. W. Pinero, have called on him to make personal representations. To all these, as to Premier Asquith's wishes, the Dean has proved obdurate.

Meredith's family reluctantly refused to allow a cast to be made of the writer's head, feeling that it would not be in accordance with his wishes, but there is no foundation for the report circulated that they objected to his burial in Westminster Abbey.

NO TRACE OF MISSING CREW.

British Minister to Venezuela Unable to Confirm Story of Imprisonment.

CARACAS, May 20.—The British Minister, Sir Vincent Corbett, in accordance with instructions from the British Government, has made an official inquiry into the report from St. Vincent, British West Indies, that the Captain and crew of the whaling ship Carrie D. Knowles are in a Venezuelan prison. Several of the members of the crew were British subjects, but a search has failed to confirm the report that they are being held by the Venezuelan authorities.

President Gomez has removed the export tax on coffee, cocoa, and hides, in order to stimulate trade.

It is announced as probable that Gen. Andrade, the former President of Venezuela, whom Castro ousted, will be appointed Venezuelan Minister to Cuba.

AMERICAN CRUISE TO DUBLIN?

Bureau of Navigation Knows Nothing of Reported Visit by Squadron.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, May 20.—It is reported here that the Navy Department at Washington has addressed a communication to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland suggesting the prospective visit of an American squadron to Ireland. The communication is said to have inquired regarding accommodations for warships in Dublin Bay and as to port charges, which was referred to the port authorities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—If an American squadron is to visit Dublin the Bureau of Navigation has not heard of it. A detailed programme for the Atlantic fleet, occupying the ships to Aug. 30, has been issued by the Navy Department, with the statement that after that date they will go to the Southern drill grounds.

NO TITLE FOR MRS. BOTTOMLEY

Report That Pope Is to Make Her a Countess Erroneous.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 20.—The report from America that Mrs. John T. Bottomley of Boston is to receive the title of Countess from the Pope is erroneous, at least as far as the present or the near future is concerned, although she is most strongly recommended and favorably known at the Vatican.

The report arose, according to the Vatican authorities, from her being proposed for some distinction, together with the presence here of Archbishop O'Connell of Boston.

The authorities point out that such titles are conferred on women only in the rarest cases and in recognition of exceptional services to the Church or to humanity.

NEW SAINTS PROCLAIMED.

Pope Takes Part in Canonization of Hoffbauer and Oriol.

ROME, May 20.—The final ceremonies in the canonization of Clement Hoffbauer, the German Redemptorist, and Joseph Oriol, a Spanish priest of Barcelona, took place at St. Peter's to-day, and were witnessed by a vast throng of people. Special tribunes had been erected for the family of the Pope, members of the Diplomatic Corps, the Roman aristocracy, and the Knights of Malta.

The Pope entered the Basilica at the head of a striking procession. He was carried in the Sedia Gestatoria, flanked by swaying peacock fans, and surrounded by the Swiss and Palatine Guards. In the procession were over twenty Cardinals and a large number of patriarchs, Archbishops, Bishops, and members of religious orders, the whole making a picture of extraordinary brilliancy.

The Pope, with the assistance of the Cardinals, celebrated the Pontifical Mass, and this was followed by the proclamation of the new saints.

ROOSEVELT KILLS PYTHON.

He and Kermit Also Bag an Impalla and Other Antelopes.

NAIROBI, May 20.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son, Kermit, have bagged a waterbuck, an impalla, and other varieties of antelope. Mr. Roosevelt has also killed a python.

The female rhinoceros that Mr. Roosevelt shot last Sunday charged him viciously of her own accord before he had fired his first shot.

Kermit Roosevelt on a recent trip, dispatched a leopard at a distance of six paces. The animal already had mauled a beater and was charging Kermit when he fired the fatal shot.

All the skins are being saved entire, and the expedition has now a total of sixty specimens representing twenty different species of game.

AMBASSADOR RIDDLE NOT ILL.

Reason Assigned for His Retirement Causes Surprise in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 20.—The statement in certain American newspapers that John W. Riddle, the American Ambassador to Russia, is retiring from the Diplomatic Service on account of illness has caused surprise in St. Petersburg.

Mr. Riddle was ill for some time last Summer, but he has completely recovered his health, and with the exception of a few weeks' vacation in Paris he has been performing his duties since last October.

AUTO HITS CHILD; SPEEDS ON.

Little Girl After Her Hoop Narrowly Escapes Injury by Horses, Too.

Two women who were in an automobile allowed their chauffeur to put on speed and escape yesterday afternoon after their car had struck five-year-old Lillian Brady of 2,701 Eighth Avenue, when she ran into the street at Eighth Avenue and 144th Street after her hoop, which had rolled off the sidewalk.

The little girl was tossed to one side almost under the hoofs of a team of horses, which Dan Leary of 319 Avenue A was driving for the Municipal Lighting Company, and the crowd of men and women who saw the accident became so excited over the child's plight that none of them tried to stop the automobile, or even thought to notice its license number.

Leary prevented his horses from stepping on the little girl only by a clever bit of driving and some rapid thinking. But he managed it, and then leaping from his seat picked her up, carried her into a near-by store, and sent for an ambulance from the J. Hood Wright Hospital. Little Lillian was taken there, and the doctors found that besides being badly bruised she had probably received internal injuries. They said that her chances of recovery were about even.

WHITE FACE INN BURNED.

Adirondack Summer Hotel Will Be Rebuilt for Next Season.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., May 20.—White Face Inn, on the west shore of Lake Placid, one of the best-known hotels in the Adirondack region, was burned to the ground early to-day. It had not yet been opened for the season, and was occupied only by a watchman.

The hotel was erected about a quarter of a century ago, and for many years was known as The Westside. It was rebuilt ten years ago, then receiving its present name. The damage was confined to the hotel.

Immediate steps will be taken to rebuild Whiteface Inn. It will be impossible to have the new hotel ready for the present season, but it is hoped to have it opened at the beginning of next Summer. Twenty-three cottages, some of them owned by private persons and some belonging to the hotel, have depended on the inn for their supplies. Steps are to be taken to afford their residents the accommodation they need, as usual, and it is reckoned that there will be room in them for 125 visitors.

A. G. Mills, Vice President of the Otis Elevator Company, who is also the President of the Adirondack Company, which owned the inn, stated yesterday that the loss was about $190,000, of which nearly all was covered by insurance. As soon as he can consult the other members of the company the reconstruction will be set under way. A building as nearly fireproof as possible will be erected, and it is expected that the accommodation will be increased to provide for 500 guests.

NEXT SUNDAY.

The Pictorial Section of The New York Times next Sunday will contain unique photographs of Mr. Roosevelt on shore at Aden; six photographs depicting the visit of the Japanese war vessels to San Francisco; pictures of the rejoicing in Holland over the coming of an heir to the throne; many New York City pictures of interest—in all, a gathering of vital photographs from all parts of the world—a [illegible] that will be of interest to [illegible]

SULTAN DETERMINED TO STOP MASSACRES

Mehmed V., in Speech from the Throne, Deplores Those That Have Occurred.

RELIEF COMMITTEE FORMED

Government and Foreign Element Represented in Body to Minister to Needy in Adana and Syrian Districts.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 20.—Sultan Mehmed V. in his first speech from the throne, which was read by the Grand Vizier in the Chamber of Deputies to-day, expressed regret for the recent massacres in Asia Minor, and a determination to prevent their recurrence.

The speech set forth that the Sultan had been painfully moved by the events in Adana, but that the disturbances had been suppressed, and measures had been taken to punish those responsible and to assist the sufferers. With God's help, such events, which were opposed to religion as well as to humanity, would not occur in the future in any part of the empire. Effective steps had been taken that would strengthen the good understanding between all the elements of the various populations.

The address made reference to the good relations existing between Turkey and all foreign powers and the desire of Turkey to strengthen these ties.

At the conclusion of the speech the Sultan repeated his oath to uphold the Constitution, and the Grand Vizier administered the oath to the various Ministers and Deputies individually to uphold the Constitution of Turkey and to protect the Sheriat and the rights of the nation.

A great crowd had gathered and gave an ovation to Mehmed V. when he appeared at the Parliament building. Accompanied by the Grand Vizier he entered and ascended the Presidential tribune. He handed his speech to the Grand Vizier, who read it to the Deputies.

An international committee has been formed under the patronage of the Sultan to collect and distribute relief in Adana and the districts of Syria where there is suffering. The President of the Committee is Said Pasha, the former Grand Vizier.

The Government is represented by a Councilor of State and various members of Parliament, and the American representative is W. W. Peet, Treasurer in Constantinople of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. Mr. Peet has been chosen Chairman of the Committee on Distribution. He is regarded as an impartial man who will be sure to treat all races and religions fairly.

Frederick Moore, the American newspaper correspondent who was wounded near the Taxim Barracks, on April 24, the day the Constitutionalist troops entered the city, is making good progress toward recovery. He will probably be released soon from the hospital.

ADANA, May 20.—The situation generally is improving, and the Government is completing its preparations to send the Armenians back to their homes. Influential Mohammedans in the country districts, however, who abducted Armenian women and girls during the raids, steadfastly refuse to give them up, and the Government has not yet taken any steps to compel their return. The Military Commission sent to investigate the massacres continues to collect information.

The doctors and other officers from the American cruiser North Carolina and the British cruiser Minerva have done excellent service in the hospital and other relief work.

EUROPEAN FEDERATION PLANS

Congress Provides for International Treatment of Several Problems.

ROME, May 20.—The Congress on European Federation, which has been in session here for four days, closed to-day.

It was decided to organize a permanent bureau of federation at Rome. Resolutions were adopted providing for an international tribunal to deal with unified law and an inter-State union for the protection of laborers. The congress also indorses the founding of an international academy of comparative law.

REWARD AID IN EARTHQUAKE.

Several Americans Receive Diplomas from the City of Naples.

NAPLES, May 20.—The Mayor of Naples to-day, on behalf of the municipality, presented diplomas for assistance at the time of the earthquake to the American Consul, Casper S. Crowinshield, and several other American citizens.

In his speech the Mayor expressed unbounded admiration for the work of the Americans.

MRS. CHALLENGER GOT 'EM.

Took Tracy & Co.'s Furnishings—Tells How Women Speculated.

Mrs. Margaret Challenger is the woman creditor of the failed Stock Exchange house of Tracy & Co. who carted away the furniture of the firm's Thirty-third Street office on Tuesday, it came out in the Federal Court yesterday, when an order was obtained to show cause why she should not be punished for contempt. The total amount of her claim against the firm was $40.

Although Mrs. Challenger will have to make explanations to the Federal authorities on Monday, she was not concerned over her usurpation of the receiver's power yesterday, having visited the International Storage Warehouse Company, at Fifty-third Street and Seventh Avenue, yesterday to pick out a few pieces which she thought would match the furnishings of her flat. The warehouse company had already been enjoined from disposing of any of the stuff, and Mrs. Challenger went away empty handed.

Receiver Benedict of the failed firm said yesterday that little could be done in the way of preparing even a preliminary report of assets and liabilities until the affairs of the Chicago office had been straightened out, Chicago having been the clearing house of the firm's bank options. At the main office in Wall Street, it was said yesterday, the books are behind in posting, and it will probably be some days before the receiver's accountants begin their work on the statement.

Mrs. Challenger in a talk with reporters said she was not the only woman who traded with Tracy & Co.

"We were all plungers," she said. "There wasn't a piker in the lot. But some of those poor innocents certainly went the limit. It goes without saying that these women were rich. One woman with $50,000 to her credit was wiped out in a week, I think.

"Why, that woman bought 1,100 shares of Reading on a slim margin right on top of a bulge, and of course she lost."

TWO FAILURES IN BOSTON.

Said to be Due to Recent Brokerage House Troubles Here.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 20.—Two brokerage houses went under to-day as the result of the withdrawal of profits by customers made uneasy by the recent brokerage failures in New York. Sederquist, Barry & Co., the first to suspend, has a membership on the New York Consolidated Exchange and has been operating a chain of branch houses throughout New England. Edward P. Cramm & Co., also with New York Consolidated Exchange connections, suspended after the bankruptcy proceedings were filed against Sederquist, Barry & Co. The smaller firm was closely identified with the bankrupt's business.

The claims against Sederquist, Barry & Co. in the bankruptcy proceedings amounted to $13,740. In an official statement issued after the failure, the firm laid its troubles to heavy withdrawals caused by the failure of Ennis & Stoppani and Tracy & Co.

Following the news from Boston of the failure of Sederquist, Barry & Co., their suspension was announced on the Consolidated Exchange. The firm has no outstanding contracts among the exchange members, having turned over its New York business a few days ago to Theodore D. Wilson, a floor trader on the Consolidated Exchange. The present firm is composed of Arthur B. Sederquist and John E. Barry, both of Boston, and D. E. Bigelow, the last-named being the Exchange member here. This firm was the successor of Curtis & Sederquist, which was mentioned at the time of the Stock Exchange investigation into the affairs of Marshall Spader & Co. One of the charges against the members of the latter firm was having connections with Consolidated Exchange houses.

CUBA CELEBRATES FREEDOM,

Gomez Reviews New Army, Which Makes Good Appearance.

HAVANA, May 20.—The seventh anniversary of the establishment of the Cuban Republic in 1902 was celebrated with more than the usual enthusiasm to-day.

The principal event was a review of the new army by President Gomez. Four thousand infantry and cavalry paraded under command of Gen. Piño Guerra. They presented a fine appearance and were applauded by several thousand spectators.

The Secretary of State, Justo Garcia Velez, was the host at a banquet to the diplomatic representatives this evening.

Haskell Grand Jury at Work.

TULSA, Okla., May 20.—The third special Grand Jury which is investigating the town lot frauds in which Gov. Haskell is implicated began work to-day. Following Judge Marshall's refusal to remove District Attorney Gregg from the case because of alleged prejudice, the charges were to-day forwarded to Washington at Gregg's own request.

Some Pages from the Life of Turkish Women.

By DEMETRA VAKA (Mrs. Kenneth Brown)

"A remarkable description of the life, and manner of thinking, of Turkish women. The author offers wholly new pictures of Turkish home life, and presents fairly the Turkish woman's views of polygamy, of subjection to man and of religious duty. . . . It is gratifying, particularly now, to obtain a sympathetic view of the Turks from which religious bias is wholly absent."—N. Y. Sun.

"Mrs. Brown incorporates several curious Oriental romances in her book—romances so extraordinary that the volume would be worth the perusal for them alone."—Chicago Tribune.

"It is a strange book this— strange in that it is something quite fresh; the subject is treated with a newness of unbiased viewpoint that compels attention and willing conviction. . . . Use ordinary soap for ordinary purposes; Ivory Soap for better-than-ordinary purposes.

That is the rule in most households; and it is a good rule.

Take, for example, a garment such as is shown in the illustration. It is too valuable, too dainty, too fragile to be cleansed with any other than Ivory Soap.

The same remark holds good in the case of a hundred other articles—colored goods, wash silks, lawns, dimities, curtains, etc. The safest, best, and only right way to launder them is with Ivory Soap.

There is no "free" (uncombined) alkali in Ivory Soap. That is why it will not injure the finest fabric or the most delicate skin.

Fine Rugs---

Rugs That Rival Eastern Weaves.

O'Neill Building—Fourth Floor.

A few years ago Oriental rugs had no rivals—they were woven by hand and dyed with vegetable dyes.

But to-day the Oriental rug business of Turkey and Persia is to some extent in the hands of the English, and looms run by power are taking the place of the hand loom in the larger towns of the Orient.

In place of the vegetable dyes, aniline dyes are used in the power-loom rugs, and there is no advantage to be gained by buying rugs from the Orient unless there is ample proof that they were woven before the English got hold of the rug-weaving industry there or that they come from mountainous regions where the hand loom and the vegetable dye are still used.

But the art of the old Oriental rugs is entering into even our own weaving.

The finest Western carpet-weaving goes into Royal Wilton rugs, along with the finest of designs; yet they are about one-quarter the price of Oriental rugs that are woven by power and dyed with aniline dyes—which the makers want you to think are genuine Oriental rugs.

Royal Wilton rugs range in price as follows:

18x36 inches, $1.95	6x9 feet, $24.[illegible]0
27x54 inches, $3.95	8¼x10½ ft., $37.50
36x63 inches, $6.50	9x12 feet, $39.50

Axminster rugs in Oriental designs and colors:

36x70 inches, $4.00	9x12 feet, $24.50

In the carpets, the finest woven on power looms are the Savonerie Axminster, and for those who can afford them they are the most satisfactory of all.

The designs are individual and characteristic of themselves, while the texture is fine beyond belief, $1.50 a yard.

Extra Axminster Carpets at $1.25 a yard.

Body Brussels Carpets at $1.50 and $1.65 a yard.

MURPHY STIRS UP TAMMANY LEADERS

Telling Them If Tammany Is to Win This Year They Must Be Busy Till the Vote Is In.

GOOD CANDIDATES ARE SHY

No Such Rush for the Nomination as in Former Years—Open Peace with McCarren Unlikely.

Charles F. Murphy was at Tammany Hall yesterday and had talks with many of his district leaders. Mr. Murphy is not discussing the prospective municipal campaign or making any comment on the proposed anti-Tammany fusion movement, but everything points to intense early activity on the part of the Tammany organization.

For the last two weeks Mr. Murphy has been sounding the leaders about the situation in their districts. Not all the reports have been encouraging. The heavy falling off in the Tammany vote at the last election, when the Democratic plurality in the city was only about 30,000, has given Mr. Murphy something to worry about. In his talks with the leaders this anxiety has been sharply reflected.

Mr. Murphy realizes that the drop in the Tammany vote was partly due to the fact that it was a Presidential campaign and to the immense drift to Mr. Taft, but he realizes also that the new identification law and the desertion of Tammany Hall by many voters will make it increasingly difficult for the organization to maintain its sway in a city election. Accordingly all the leaders who have talked with Mr. Murphy in the last two weeks have come away form his presence with injunctions to bestir themselves from now until after the ballots in the municipal election have been counted.

While some of the Tammany leaders declare that the absence of a moral issue in the next campaign will make it a walkover for Tammany Hall, a close friend of Mr. Murphy told THE TIMES reporter that the Tammany leader by no means participates in these sanguine hopes.

"The tax rate is a formidable enough issue from Mr. Murphy's point of view," said this friend. "Especially is this the case where the taxes are paid late in October, and the taxpayer may almost be said to walk directly from the tax collector's window into the ballot booth. We will meet this issue all right, though we are not prepared to say now just how. We are not giving that away, but it is hard to convince the small taxpayer, whose taxes have been boosted—say $50 this year—that the administration is not at fault."

There are roughly 200,000 taxpayers in New York City; that is one-third of the voting population. The number of taxpayers is steadily increasing, too. Especially is that true in the outlying boroughs, where suburban homes, mostly owned by wage earners migrating from the congested city districts, where rents are high and going up apace.

It is not likely any step will be taken by Mr. Murphy to bridge over the differences between him and Senator Patrick H. McCarren, the Democratic leader in Kings County. The breach between the two leaders, to judge from all appearances and from all statements emanating from the friends of Mr. Murphy, is just as wide as ever. But, according to one of his friends, Mr. Murphy realizes that an open reconciliation between him and McCarren would have about the same effect as would a successful move of the "Tiger across the bridge." It would drive the independent Democrats in Brooklyn into the anti-Tammany camp. At present the enemies of McCarren in that borough would eagerly make common cause with Tammany in case the Brooklyn statesman should come out in open rebellion against the ticket nominated at the dictation of Leader Murphy.

In the meantime, according to Tammany men familiar with the situation, the Mayoralty nomination is not being sought as eagerly this year as it has been in years past when Tammany success seemed to be a foregone conclusion. Within the last two or three weeks Mr. Murphy has sent emissaries to sound several men who would command respect and enlist support at the head of any ticket. In most cases they have replied that their private business would prevent them from considering the proposal. Among the men whom the Tammany leader has sounded are Thomas M. Mulry, President of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank and head of the Catholic Charities; ex-Justice Leventritt and Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard.

At the office of Winfred T. Denison, Secretary of the Committee of One Hundred movement, it was said yesterday that the Committee of Fifteen, which is to nominate the committee, would be announced to-day or to-morrow. It was learned that Robert C. Ogden, who was Chairman of the Cooper Union conference and is charged with appointing the committee, had practically decided on its personnel, but the announcement was being held back because two of the prospective appointees had not yet made up their minds whether they could find time to serve or not.

COCKRAN SLAPS TAMMANY.

Says That's Not Democracy—No Democratic Party—Tariff Mere Bargaining.

Many Americans, seeking rest during the Summer months in European Continental resorts, sailed yesterday on the steamer Savoie for Havre. Among them was W. Bourke Cockran, and he took a slap at Tammany Hall before leaving. Mr. Cockran, once the mouthpiece of Tammany Leader Murphy, is not in favor in the organization. The reporters started his outburst by asking, who, in his opinion, would be the Democratic nominee for Mayor.

"Democrats, Democrats?" the former Congressman repeated thoughtfully. "I recall having heard that term before, but is there such a party in New York? You probably mean who will be nominated by Tammany. That's different. There is no Democratic Party at present. The old party is divided into separate groups, each actuated by personal preferences. The Presidential election is a long, long way off, and probably by that time a candidate will be found to unite all these groups, and there will be harmony."

Mr. Cockran also said that the tariff was simply a matter of bargaining. The real work was done in back rooms, while the gentlemen on the floor made speeches and fooled their listeners. The results, he, thought, will satisfy none save the selfish interests consulted.

"You cannot reform the tariff," he continued. "I am not a free trader, but I stand for tariff for revenue only. Each revision leaves the people in a worse plight than before. The progress is from bad to worse."

Mr. Cockran and his wife will go to San Sebastian, Spain, to visit the latter's father. Mrs. Cockran will remain three months abroad. Mr. Cockran will return to New York in a few weeks.

PRIESTS OFF TO ROME.

Go for American College's Jubilee—Boy Parishioners Carried to Sea.

When the Cunard liner Carpathia sailed for Naples yesterday morning she had on board the Roman Catholic Church dignitaries who are going to Rome to participate in the ceremonies marking the Golden Jubilee of the American College in Rome.

Papal Delegate Falconio, Archbishop Farley, and Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn received an ovation as they reached the pier, and every priest or dignitary from this city had a following down to wish him bon voyage. The steamboat Commander, having on board some 1,500 parishioners of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, followed the Carpathia down the bay to wish their pastor, the Rev. James N. Connelly, godspeed. Nearly all her passengers waved miniature papal flags as the liner sped past them.

Just before the Carpathia sailed a cablegram was sent to the Pope from Archbishop Farley, telling of the departure of the party.

Among those who sailed were the Right Rev. Maurice F. Burke of St. Joseph, Mo.; the Right Rev. Owen B. Corrigan of Baltimore, the Revs. Francis H. Wall, Thomas J. Lynch, John J. O'Brien, Joseph F. Delany, James N. Connelly, Michael J. Tighe, James V. Lewis, Maurice Fitzgerald, John J. Mahon, William J. White, Richard O'Sullivan, Matthew J. Tierney, and Mgrs. John F. Kearney, William G. Murphy, John I. Barrett, and Eugene J. Donnelly of this city.

Near the Scotland Lightship the Carpathia stopped, and ran up a signal for the pilotboat to take off three involuntary passengers. They were boys from the School of the Immaculate Conception, who went down to see Mgr. Murphy off, and were so interested in their mission that they did not come on deck until the vessel was near Sandy Hook.

MORE LETTERS TO MR. STORK.

One Came All the Way from Jersey—Little Girl Tempting Him with Sugar.

Grandfather Stork up at the Bronx Park Zoo received another letter yesterday. He has received several in the last few weeks from very little boys or girls, who told him they wanted a baby brother or sister. Yesterday's letter came from a little boy who signed himself Paul Cronce, and who told Grandfather Stork that he had come all the way from New Jersey to tell him just the kind of a baby sister he wanted.

Paul was evidently too young to have studied natural history very thoroughly. He picked out the Saurus Crane as the bird of fable. But Keeper Patterson knew just whom the letter was meant for when he found it lying in the bottom of the crane's cage. He took it over to the proper place,

This is what Paul wrote to the stork:

> Dear Mr. stork
> I came way from the country to ask you if you could send me a baby sister We have plenty of room in our house we also have a nice baby carage so that little baby would have a nice home. Now don't forget me and send it surly. PAUL CRONCE.

And Paul Cronce is not the only boy who wants a baby sister and wants it "surly." Several similar petitions have come to the stork in the last few weeks. One little girl, who wanted a little brother but would take a sister, wrote: "I will be satisfied with whatever you bring, except a little nigger baby. Please don't bring me that; please bring a white baby."

Another applicant for a "little white brother" wrote: "I put some sugar out of the window for you. Please bring it next Sunday morning at 2 or at night at 12."

BIDS ON CITY BUILDING.

For Foundations, $1,443,147 the Lowest; $2,299,000 the Highest.

Bids on the foundation for the eight-million-dollar Municipal Building to be erected at the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge were opened yesterday by the Bridge Department. The lowest bidder was the Foundation Company at $1,443,147 and the highest the O'Rourke Engineering Construction Company at $2,299,000. Seven bids were received. The work must be completed by May 1, 1910. The Foundation Company is one of the largest construction companies in the city. It built the foundations for the Singer Building and many other large structures. The award will be made in a few days. The new building is to be twenty-five stories in height, with a ten-story tower. The plans were drawn by McKim, Mead & White.

The City's Balance After Paying Out $422,000,000—Increased Cost of Jurors.

In his annual report submitted to the Mayor yesterday, City Chamberlain Martin, through whose hands all the money received or disbursed by the city passes, stated that on Dec. 31 the city had on hand a balance of $28,150,900. The city received $440,000,000 in the course of the year and $422,000,000 was paid out. More than 250,000 checks, warrants, and receipts were issued by the Chamberlain in the year.

Mr. Martin calls particular attention to the rapidly increasing number of jurors serving in the courts of the city. In 1907 the total was 29,830, which cost the city in fees $415,168. Last year the total was 33,596, the jurors receiving $484,834. The Chamberlain estimates that the jurors' fees in the present year will amount to $600,000.

MADDEN TOOK CASH AND STRIKES ENDED

Witnesses Tell of Labor Leader Accepting $1,500 and $200 to Put Men Back to Work.

MONEY PAID IN A SALOON

Workmen Called Out on One Building, Although Contractor Had Complied with All Requirements of Union.

CHICAGO, May 20.—State's Attorney Wayman to-day finished the presentation of direct testimony against "Skinny" Madden and others, charged with conspiracy to extort money in the settlement of strikes. Witnesses told of a strike which was settled for $1,500, and of another which cost only $200.

The latter strike was called, it is alleged, on a building being constructed by Samuel Grossman. Grossman, it was stated, had complied with all requirements of the unions concerned, but nevertheless the workmen were called off.

Solomon L. Lowenthal, Grossman's attorney, was placed on the witness stand. He and his client, he said, called on F. A. Pouchot, who, with M. J. Boyle, is a co-defendant in the case, following a demand for $200 to settle the strike.

"We found him in a little room in a saloon," said the witness, "and I asked him why he had asked for money from Mr. Grossman. He looked hard at us for a moment, and then said he was not fool enough to talk to both of us. Then he walked away.

"The next day I went to see Madden. He took me to a small room under the stairs of the saloon and I handed him $200. He slapped me on the shoulder and said that work would be resumed on the building the next day."

Mr. Grossman followed Lowenthal and corroborated the testimony of the latter.

Jacob Scharmer, a building contractor, testified to a strike called last September at the plant of the Jewel Tea Company. He said:

"I asked Pouchot why the strike had been called, and he said that certain sheet-metal sleeves for the coffee-roasting plant had been placed in the plant by non-union labor. I told him that if that was his only kick, I would have the sleeves torn out and new ones put in by union men."

"'Oh, don't bother about that; leave them where they are,' Pouchot said. He told me to see Madden and make him a cash offer to settle the strike."

Witness proceeded to relate a later interview with Madden, in which he alleged Madden demanded $2,750 as his price for calling off the strike.

"'You will have to get off your high horse,' I told him. Then I went to see Fred V. Skeff, President of the tea company. We talked it over, and then I returned to Madden.

"'You have got to use some common sense,' I told him. 'We have got to agree on a decent price, or fight it out on other lines.' Then he came down to $1,500. I asked him how Skeff was to pay the money, and he said that Skeff should bring along a confidential man to meet a similar agent who would be with Madden. These two agents were to be left alone in a private room, where the money was to change hands."

Skeff, when put on the stand, said that he brought the money all in $100 bills to Madden, and that the latter told him to put them in an envelope. This he did, and left the sum on the desk in the office used by Madden.

NEW EXPRESS COMPANY.

One Incorporated to Do Carrying Business on New Haven Road.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 20.—Papers of incorporation of the Consolidated Express Company, to do an express business on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad system, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, of which $500,000 is paid in, were filed with the Secretary of State this afternoon. The incorporators are H. M. Kochersperger and Benjamin Campbell, Vice Presidents, and H. S. May, Treasurer, of the New Haven Road.

The company is to conduct a common carrier business by express upon any cars, boats or vehicles owned by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, or any company in which the railroad is a shareholder. RAIDERS KILL 3,000 SHEEP.

Colorado Cattlemen Tie Herders to Trees and Slaughter a Whole Day.

JUNCTION CITY, Col., May 20.—The sheep camp of Taylor Brothers, near Atchee, Col., was raided by a band of cattlemen yesterday. Three sheep herders were beaten and tied to trees. The raiders then killed 3,000 head of sheep, the slaughter occupying almost the entire day.

The telephone wire was cut, and the raiders escaped to the hills. The Taylor range, possession of which has been contested, is in a desolate part of Western Colorado. Several murders have occurred in quarrels over it.

SUED FOR $10,000, GOT 6 CTS.

Mrs. James Walsh of Rutherford Accused Neighbor Welsh of Slander.

Mrs. James Walsh, a stylishly dressed woman of Rutherford, N. J., sought to recover $10,000 damages before Judge Milton Demarest and a jury in Hackensack yesterday on the charge of slander. Mrs. Walsh's neighbor, Ellis G. Welsh, a New York tailor, was the defendant.

Mrs. Walsh, whose husband is a buyer for a New York dry goods store, accused Mr. Welsh of telling another neighbor a damaging story about her. Welsh denied this, and called several other neighbors who testified that Mrs. Walsh was addicted to liquor, but her husband and daughter refuted this.

The jury awarded Mrs. Walsh 6 cents damages.

In January, 1907, Mrs. Walsh was tied hand and foot by an industrial home agent.

LAWYER STRICKEN IN COURT.

Falls from a Stroke of Apoplexy as He Sums Up a Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 20.—Following a trial of eight days, and while he was summing up to a jury in Part II. of the Supreme Court, presided over by Justice Mills at White Plains to-day, Edward T. Lovett, a lawyer of Rockland County and counsel for Warren Palmer, who is suing the New York Central Railroad for $50,000 damages for injuries, was stricken with paralysis and is now in a dying condition.

Mr. Lovett, who weighs 305 pounds, has been working hard for weeks trying cases against the railroad company growing out of an accident which occurred at the Nyack Turnpike crossing when a train on the Ontario & Western Railroad ran into a carryall containing young people returning from a dance, killing seven and injuring others.

Up to the time he was stricken Mr. Lovett had obtained verdicts aggregating more than $40,000 against the railroad. Mr. Palmer was one of the victims of the accident, and is suffering from a permanent spinal trouble as a result. Mr. Lovett began to sum up this morning. At a dramatic point in his address he suddenly collapsed and staggered to a chair. Court attachés ran to him and found him unconscious. Dr. Zacharie was called and he found that the lawyer's left side was paralyzed. He was taken to a private hospital here, and Dr. Zacharie said to-night that he is not expected to live.

Justice Mills adjourned the trial until next week.

REGESTER MURDER SOLVED.

Police Are About to Arrest the Slayer of Cranston Woman.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 20.—That the mystery concerning the murderer of Laura E. Regester, the Cranston woman whose body was found on the outskirts of this city May 10, has been solved was the announcement made this afternoon by Chief of Detectives C. S. Horton. The man will be arrested shortly, Chief Horton said, and the police say that there will be sufficient evidence to bring him before the next session of the Grand Jury.

The police will not divulge the man's name. He is understood to have made conflicting statements regarding his whereabouts on the night of the murder.

WILLIE WRECKED TRAIN.

Boy of 12 Put Tie on Track—Wanted to See Splinters Fly.

KNOXVILLE, Iowa, May 20.—What was thought to have been an attempt to rob an express car which was believed to contain a shipment of $8,000 in currency was explained to-day when it was learned that Willie Biggs, aged 12, had placed a tie across the railroad tracks just before a passenger train on the Rock Island road that runs south from Des Moines came along.

Willie explained that he wanted to watch the splinters fly, when he was arrested by a railroad detective. The engine and two coaches were derailed, but no one was injured.

WILL PROVIDES FOR DOG.

Heirs of Mrs. Anne E. Dier Must Spend Large Part of $25,000 on Animal.

Special to The New York Times.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., May 20.—"Fannie," a pet dog, will benefit by the will of her mistress, Mrs. Anne E. Dier of North Tonawanda, who was shot to death by her husband on May 11.

The will was filed in the Surrogate's Court here to-day. The entire estate is left in trust to Norman Robinson and Mary Wilson of Buffalo, providing they agree to care for her dog, spending a large part of the money on the animal. The estate is valued at $25,000.

HIDES HIMSELF IN PRISON.

Guards Cannot Locate Convict Who Escaped from His Cell.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 20.—Harvey Johnson, a negro, serving a life sentence, who escaped from his cell, is hiding somewhere in the prison. Twice last night he was seen, but each time he eluded capture. The entire floor in the bolt shop, where the negro worked, was ripped up, and traces of where he had crawled beneath the floor were found.

The guards have been ordered to shoot to kill if Johnson does not give himself up. Double guards have been put on.

WOMAN BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Chased in Lower Fifth Avenue and Plunder Recovered.

Screams coming from the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McLaughlin, at 27 Fifth Avenue, early yesterday morning caused Dwight Patterson of 23 Fifth Avenue and Arthur C. Fick of 29 West Eighth Street to leave Patterson's steps, where they had been sitting talking, and run out into the street in time to see a woman leaving the McLaughlin home and running down the street. They chased and caught her.

Mrs. McLaughlin, who had uttered the cries, identified a coat and two silver candy dishes and two silver castors, and said that the coat had been in her hall and the silverware in a silver closet. She said that the door had been left open by her son, Comerford, who had run out of the house for a minute and had taken no key. Apparently the woman walked in through the door, and Mrs. McLaughlin heard her as she was leaving.

At Police Headquarters the young woman said she was Julie Shau of 309 East Ninth Street, where she said she lived with her husband. The police visited the house later and arrested Kave Shau, a Dane, who said he came to this country only about two months ago and had been living with the woman. Magistrate Finn held the woman in $1,000 bail for examination on Monday. Court was adjourned before Shau was arrested, and he was locked up in Headquarters for the night.

20 HURT IN FLAT FIRE.

Baby Thrown from Window Caught by Crowd—Mother Forgotten for Parrot.

CHICAGO, May 20.—A dozen or more persons were injured, and one is reported missing, as the result of gas explosions to-day in the Toledo flats, a four-story apartment building at Sixty-fifth Street and Minerva Avenue.

The first explosion occurred in the basement, and was followed by others in various parts of the building, which caught fire in several quarters, so that halls and stairways became choked with flames and smoke. The explosions blew out nearly every window in the building, and, within half an hour, the entire building was a mass of flames. Firemen were unable to check the fire, and some of them narrowly escaped when the south and north walls fell in.

Mrs. E. S. Updegraff, who occupied a flat on the second floor, rushed to a window holding her four-year-old baby in her arms. Her screams attracted a crowd, and, leaning out of the window, Mrs. Updegraff dropped the child, who fell safely into a dozen upstretched arms. Mrs. Updegraff herself then climbed out, and, after hanging to the ledge, dropped. She was seriously injured.

Mrs. A. Elmore, a third-floor tenant, also was injured by jumping from a second-story window. Mrs. C. Ballard, said to be deaf and dumb, who lived on the fourth floor, was assisted to safety by other occupants of the building.

Among those who escaped also was a Mrs. Hern. She rushed into the street carrying her pet parrot. Then she realized that while saving the bird she had forgotten her mother, 89 years old. She rushed back into the flames, but fainted before she had gone far. Meanwhile her mother had reached the lower floor, and both women were rescued by a neighbor.

In all, it is said, over twenty people were hurt. The monetary loss is placed at $75,000.

MAY REVOKE PERMITS.

Mayor to Ask Board of Estimate to Reopen Centadrink Question.

Mayor McClellan will introduce a resolution at to-day's session of the Board of Estimate, calling for a public hearing on the permit granted to the Centadrink Company allowing it to install its automatic drinking fountains under the elevated stairways.

Since the confirmation of the permit by the board several weeks ago, many complaints have been made to the Mayor against the permit. The Newsdealers' Association has been particularly active, maintaining that its members might be deprived of some of the most valuable newsstands in the city.

TILLMAN REBUKES TARIFF INSURGENTS

Criticises Delay and Demands That Aldrich Stop Speeches "For Home Consumption."

DANIEL URGES PROTECTION

Democrat from Virginia Supports a High Duty on Quebracho—White Lead Duty Reduced.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Progress on the Tariff bill was so slow to-day, under the stubborn fighting of the insurgents, that organization men and Democrats together joined in condemning "speeches for home consumption." Senator Tillman started the discussion with the demand that Senator Aldrich, as leader of the majority, do something to stop useless talk, even if he had to resort to the unusual procedure of insisting upon the rule that no Senator shall speak upon the same subject twice on the same day.

The indirect criticism of the methods of the insurgents seemed to please Mr. Aldrich, and he assured the South Carolinian that he would do what he could. A simple question, he said, was generally met by a peroration on any subject in reply, and progress stopped altogether to give way to oratory.

"And those perorations," said Mr. Beveridge, interrupting, "come always from the Senator's own side. Ask for information on the difference of cost, and you get a speech on protection. It is the Senator's side that's to blame."

"I thought we were of the same party," said Mr. Aldrich, smiling.

"We are," replied Mr. Beveridge, smiling in his turn, "but we differ on these schedules."

"I object to all this talk about the Goddess of Protection and that kind of thing," said Mr. Tillman. "She rests on the other side of the Chamber, and sometimes lights on this side. Why doesn't the Senator fro Rhode Island do something for progress? Does he fear that shutting off the talk will increase the number of his insurgents?"

"The Senator's suggestion is well taken," replied Mr. Aldrich. "I have hoped for some time that this useless and needless talk would end, and I believe that shortly we will proceed directly to the paragraphs."

"But the talk is getting wider and deeper," shouted Mr. Tillman, waving his arms and laughing.

"Deeper?" asked Mr. Aldrich, with apparent surprise.

"Not as to wisdom," answered Mr. Tillman, with a roar of laughter, "but I mean that the water is there, or the air, or whatever it is."

Threat of Night Sessions.

Mr. Aldrich seemed satisfied with the explanation, and stated that he would try soon to satisfy all the Senators by sitting morning, afternoon, and night. The threat of night sessions raised a storm of protest, and it is thought that Mr. Aldrich will not go that length unless it becomes evident that debate will be indefinitely prolonged.

When the discussion of the need of speed was ended Mr. La Follette read a long statement from the House hearings bearing on the duty on chromate and bichromate of potash. On the rollcall his demand against the committee's proposed increase got the support of only seven insurgents, and the committee was sustained for a duty of 2¼ cents a pound, as against the House rate of 1½ cents, by a vote of 40 to 20.

The committee made three slight concessions to-day, though on every vote it was overwhelmingly successful. The first reduction was putting cotton seed oil on the free list, instead of under a duty of 3 cents a gallon. The second was a reduction of ⅛ of a cent a pound in the duty on white lead. The third reduction was of ⅛ of a cent on all kinds of acetate of lead.

After passing over for the third time the paragraph relating to barytes, the Senate took up again the fight on white lead. The committee's rate was 2⅞ cents a pound, but Mr. Curtis's amendment reducing it to 2¾ cents was at once accepted. Then Mr. Bristow insisted that the reduction was not enough, and repeated his arguments for making the duty only 2⅝ cents, fixing the differential of the white lead duty over that on pig lead at three-fifths of a cent instead of the half carried in the Curtis amendment. Senator Penrose submitted figures to show that the difference to the farmer wishing to paint his house between the House and the Senate rates on white lead was only 25 cents.

Demands Protection for Quebracho.

"I want to protect American interests. That is my policy. I don't care what name you call it, I am for it." This was the somewhat startling statement with which John W. Daniel of Virginia to-day began a speech in the Senate in support of a high duty on quebracho, which is a chestnut bark extract used in tanning, and which is produced in his State. The Senate Committee on Finance had reduced the House rate, and he wanted the House figure retained. The Virginia Senator's attitude aroused special interest on the Republican side of the Chamber, and Mr. Aldrich gave especial attention to his remarks.

Of the twenty-three quebracho factories of the country nine are located in Virginia, and Mr. Daniel declared that protection should be given the industry. He said a great trust, with headquarters in London and Berlin, would drive the American manufacturers out of the market if they had their way in obtaining a very small duty on imports into this country or were to obtain free trade, which they desired.

Offering an amendment to further reduce the duty on quebracho to one-quarter of a cent a pound, Mr. La Follette declared that the tanning industry was being driven to Canada, where quebracho is admitted free of duty. He declared that the oak and hemlock have been killed off so that now only the inferior chestnut is left, which could be used successfully to make an extract to mix with the imported quebracho.

Mr. Brandegee, in whose State a factory for tanning extract is located, opposed the lowering of the duty on quebracho.

By a vote of 29 to 38 the La Follette amendment was rejected. The duty recommended by the committee of one-half of 1 cent a pound was agreed to.

FOOD.

ONE IN THREE.

Every Third Person Poisoned by Coffee.

It is difficult to make people believe that coffee is an absolute poison to at least one person out of every three, but people are slowly finding it out, although thousands of them suffer terribly before they discover the fact. A New York hotel man says:

"Each time after drinking coffee I became restless, nervous and excited, so that I was unable to sit five minutes in one place, was also inclined to vomit and suffered from loss of sleep, which got worse and worse.

"A lady said that perhaps coffee was the cause of my trouble, and suggested that I try Postum. I laughed at the thought that coffee hurt me, but she insisted so hard that I finally had some Postum made. I have been using it in place of coffee ever since, for I noticed that all my former nervousness and irritation disappeared. I began to sleep perfectly, and the Postum tasted as good or better than the old coffee, so what was the use of sticking to a beverage that was ruining me?

"One day on an excursion up the country I remarked to a young lady friend on her greatly improved appearance. She explained that some time before she had quit using coffee and taken Postum.

"She had gained a number of pounds and her former palpitation of the heart, humming in the ears, trembling of the hands and legs and other disagreeable feelings had disappeared.

"She recommended me to quit coffee and take Postum and was very much surprised to find that I had already made the change.

"She said her brother had also received great benefits from leaving off coffee and taking on Postum." "There's a Reason."

GOV. JOHNSON MAKES DENIAL.

Did Not Say That Railroads Influenced Any Southern Senator.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 20.—Gov. John A. Johnson, when asked to-day if he had read the statement made in the United States Senate yesterday in which Senator Bailey of Texas criticised the Governor for alleged untruthful statements in regard to the attitude of the Senate minority toward the Tariff bill, said:

"So far as Mr. Bailey is concerned I do not care to make any denial of the charges he makes, but I do care to have other Senators in the South know that I did not make the statement that the railways of the South influenced any of the Southern Senators. Nor did I make any statements reflecting on any Senator.

"I did say that the Republican Party would be held responsible for the result of the extra session, and could not screen itself with the co-operation of a few Democrats acting with the conservative Republican element of the Senate."

Pay Their Popular Teacher's Debt.

So popular is G. La Fayette Cram, teacher of French and German in the Orange (N. J.) High School, that the pupils of the school have just contributed $50, the sum required to pay a judgment recently entered against him on a protested note. Cram recently borrowed $50 from Hiram H. Denio, Principal of the school. He gave a note for the amount, which Denio sold to W. A. Kirk, former instructor in algebra. The latter, failing to collect when the note fell due, sued to recover in a Newark District Court, and obtained judgment for the full amount.

WILL SEEK ABROAD FOR NAVY YARD PLAN

Admiral Rodgers to Visit Establishments in England, Germany, and France.

MEYER TO INSPECT AT HOME

Secretary Who Is Opposed to Newberry's System Will Formulate New One After Data Is Collected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Rear Admiral Raymond P. Rodgers will sail to-morrow from New York to look into the navy yards of Great Britain and Europe, with a view to framing a report to Secretary Meyer on which the latter can base the reforms he will propose to President Taft in that especial branch of the naval establishment. The dispatch of Admiral Rodgers on such a mission is taken as proof that ex-Secretary Newberry's reorganization plans will be practically cast aside. That a general shaking up of the system now governing the navy yards is contemplated is generally admitted.

In London Admiral Rodgers will get in touch with the Naval Attaché of the United States Embassy, and with the consent of the British Admiralty will undertake an inquiry into the manner in which navy yards of Great Britain are operated.

From Great Britain Admiral Rodgers will proceed to France, Germany, and probably Italy. The great shipyard and base of the German Navy at Kiel will be an object of special investigation. The Germans are said to have systematized their station there in a wonderful manner.

Secretary Meyer is not going to depend, however, entirely on the examples furnished by the European yards. He will himself visit the Philadelphia and Portsmouth yards within the next week or so, subjecting them to a rigorous personal examination. As soon as the question of reorganization on the Atlantic Coast is tentatively decided Secretary Meyer will go to the stations on the Pacific Slope.

The Secretary made it clear to-day that he does not hold with the broad underlying principle of the Newberry reorganization plan. Former Secretary Newberry held that the navy yards should be operated as private business is operated, on a business basis solely. Mr. Meyer holds that this theory is wrong; that the navy yards are not operated for profit, and that the highest efficiency should be sought, even at the expense of heavy outlay.

For the time being the recommendations contained in the report of the Sperry board on the proposed Newberry reforms will be put into effect. Some days ago Secretary Meyer recommended to President Taft that such conclusions as were agreed to unanimously in that report should be made operative. This will doubtless be done.

Prof. Gotthell Sails Away—Olive Fremstad Corrects False Impressions.

Prof. Richard Gottheil of the Semitic Department of Columbia University sailed yesterday on the Savoie to take charge of the American School of Oriental Study and Research, Jerusalem. He will remain there a year. Another passenger was Olive Fremstad, the prima donna, who is to sing this Summer in Vienna. She was elated over her success in concert. Miss Fremstad corrected what she declared was a mistaken impression regarding something she had said. She did not say that motherhood detracted from success as a singer. What she did say was that she had been so busy with her music that if she had children she would be able to give little time to them.

The Count and the Countess Colloredo-Mannsfeld sailed on their honeymoon tour to France. Many friends of the Countess, who was Miss Nora Iselin, were down to see the pair off.

Other passengers were Charles L. Knowdler, the art dealer; E. H. Finlay, M. Hellman, French Vice Consul at Philadelphia; Miss O. Riga, and Patrick Rooney.

THE NOTARY'S ITALIAN.

Witness in Woman's Breach of Promise Suit Also Knows Latin, He Says.

The suit to recover $25,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage brought against Salvadore Del Gaudio, manager of a "medical institute" at 30 West Twenty-ninth Street, by Rosina Pecora, a modiste, was continued yesterday before a jury in Justice La Fetra's part of the City Court. The defense contends that Miss Pecora signed a general release a few months after October, 1907, when she began the suit for breach of promise. She testified that she did not know the nature of the document she signed, and thought it a marriage contract, as she was told that it was by Del Gaudio. After living with her for some months he told her she was not his wife, and that he was already married to an American girl.

Ernest J. Cuozzo, the notary who witnessed the signature of the paper by Miss Pecora, testified yesterday that he was called to the office of Del Gaudio by telephone, that the paper was already made out when he arrived, and that the plaintiff signed it in his presence. When asked if he read the paper to Miss Pecora the witness replied that he did not remember.

H. Montifiore Henschel, a lawyer, formerly managing clerk for Andrew S. Fraser, counsel for Del Gaudio in the present action, who was retained by the defendant when Miss Pecora brought her suit in 1907, testified that he made out the release document, took it to Del Gaudio's office, and was one of the witnesses to the signature of the plaintiff.

"Did she know the nature of the paper she signed," asked Lawyer Palmieri.

"Well, I sorter explained it to her," was the reply.

"Just what did you say to her?"

"I said 'relache' and 'scribo' and 'nom' and—" began the witness. "I know a little Latin, too," added Henschel.

"Those words are not Italian," interrupted Mr. Palmieri, "but I want them recorded, just the same!"

"Do you speak Latin as well as you do Italian?" asked Justice La Fetra, but the witness made no answer.

The defendant, Del Gaudio, was called to the stand shortly before 4 o'clock, and he was telling how he first met the plaintiff when court adjourned. The case will be continued to-day.

LEAPED OFF BRIDGE, HE SAYS.

All of 137 Feet to the Water to Get a Job in a Show—Three Arrests.

Albert B. House, a young electrician, having a wife and two children at 539 Atlantic Avenue, says he jumped off the central span of the Williamsburg Bridge, 137 feet, into the river, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. He did it, he says, to get a job at Coney Island for the Summer.

Two friends also aver that he jumped, and when reporters saw him after the alleged feat he certainly looked as if he had.

House and two companions crossed the Brooklyn Bridge in an automobile from the Manhattan side early yesterday morning. The friends were Benjamin Williams of 288 West 148th Street and Coleman Manning of 355 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn. They drove around Brooklyn until a few minutes before 5 o'clock, and then drove to the Williamsburg Bridge.

In the centre of the middle span the car stopped, then went on.

The men said he had jumped, and Policeman Smythe arrested them, and ordered Monquet, the chauffeur, to drive to the Bedford Avenue Station, where they were locked up, as suspicious persons.

House, according to the story industriously circulated later, rose to the river's surface in a semi-conscious condition, but he was quickly picked up by a motor boat which had been waiting for him and taken ashore, where another automobile was in waiting to convey him to his home.

A policeman soon arrived at his home and arrested him for attempted suicide. He did look quite white and feeble when reporters saw him.

"I have been accustomed to high diving since I was 18," said House, "and I have frequently dived 110 feet into four feet of water. Three weeks ago I jumped off the Poughkeepsie Bridge without a scratch, and I have been jumping off the roof of the skating rink in Golden City, Canarsie, but there was not enough money for me there."

Late in the afternoon House was arraigned before Magistrate Dooley in the Adams Street Court on the charge of disorderly conduct. He gave a bond of $500 to keep the peace for a year. Williams and Manning were paroled in the custody of their counsel.

DR. RAMBAUD IS SUED BY HIS YOUNG WIFE

Referee Appointed to Take Testimony, but Nature of Suit Is Not Revealed.

MATCH A ROMANTIC ONE

The Doctor Treated Miss Bryan for Rabies at the Pasteur Institute and Fell in Love with Her.

Dr. George Gibier Rambaud, head of the Pasteur Institute in this country, is the defendant in a suit instituted against him by his wife, Mrs. Lulu Fowler Bryan Rambaud.

The action, the nature of which is not disclosed in the papers, was made public yesterday through the appointment by Justice Gildersleeve of Arthur D. Truax as referee, to take testimony and report his findings to the court. It is, however, understood that the suit is a matrimonial one. Dr. Rambaud, whose headquarters are at 361 West Twenty-third Street, the home of the Pasteur Institute, was said last night, on inquiry there, to be in Paris, but that the whereabouts of Mrs. Rambaud were unknown.

The wedding of Dr. and Mrs. Rambaud, which took place at Houston, Texas, on Oct. 9, 1900, was the outcome of a romance which began some time previous. Mrs. Rambaud was Miss Lulu Fowler Bryan, daughter of Mrs. Betty Bryan of Houston. A few months before her marriage she was bitten by a pet cat. An examination of the animal showed that it was suffering from rabies.

When Mrs. Bryan and her daughter became aware of this they hastened with all speed to this city and went to the Pasteur Institute, where Miss Bryan was placed under the personal care of Dr. Rambaud. The treatment was successful, but before it was ended the doctor and his patient had fallen in love with each other. Miss Bryan returned to Houston cured and was followed a short time after by Dr. Rambaud, when the marriage took place.

Dr. Rambaud was born at Arthon, France, on May 3, 1875. He is a graduate of the French University, and also received the degree of M. D. from Columbia University in 1889. He became Director of the New York Pasteur Institute in 1900 after the death of Dr. Paul Gibier, his uncle. He has introduced a new operation for serum treatment of tetanus, and performed the first one of its kind in this country in 1899. He devised an improvement in dispensing vaccine lymph in 1894, which is now in general use, and has frequently contributed to the literature on tetanus and rabies, on which diseases he is perhaps the greatest authority in this country. He is a member of many medical societies and associations, both in this country and abroad.

PLANS FOR JEROME MEETING.

No Speeches, Only Questions by People's Institute Audience Allowed.

Charles Sprague Smith, Managing Director of the People's Institute, announced last night the following plans for the meeting next Wednesday night at Cooper Union, when District Attorney Jerome will give an "account of his stewardship." The platform and 125 seats in the front of the house have been reserved for officers and friends of the institute and invited guests. Admission to the rest of the house will be without ticket. The doors will open at 7:15.

At 8 o'clock Mr. Jerome will briefly review his experiences in office and reply to all questions that have been sent to him in writing, at least three days before the meeting. Oral questions from the floor will then be answered. No speeches from the floor will be allowed and no resolutions may be presented.

Mr. Smith also announces:

"The People's Institute considers that the orderly conduct of such a meeting as this is quite as much on trial next Wednesday night as Jerome's stewardship. If all goes well and due order is preserved, a most important precedent will have been established, and it may reasonably be expected that officials holding even the highest office will not be slow to report to the people, from whose hands they have received their mandates."

HUNTINGTON GIFT ACCEPTED.

Geographical Society Will Have New Home on Washington Heights.

The council of the American Geographical Society yesterday formally accepted the gift of a site for a new building which had been offered by Mrs. Collis P. Huntington. Mrs. Huntington's son, Archer M. Huntington, is President of the society.

The site given by Mrs. Huntington is at 156th Street and Broadway, just north of Trinity Cemetery, and adjoins the grounds on which stand the Hispanic Museum and the American Numismatic Museum. Mr. Huntington is also President of the Hispanic Society, and the American Numismatic Society, which are housed on the bluff at 156th Street and Broadway, overlooking the Drive and the river. Both these structures were built by Mr. Huntington.

Of the sixteen members of the council ten were present at the meeting yesterday. Anton A. Raven, Secretary, presided in the absence of Chandler Robbins, who is Chairman of the council. Plans for the new building are now being drawn.

The formal acceptance of the gift is evidence that the Geographical Society is assured of being able to raise sufficient money for a new building, as the gift was contingent on the money being found. At the meeting yesterday many details were discussed, which, members said last night, were not complete enough for public announcement.

Some of the Features of Next Sunday's Times

WHAT has been going on in Constantinople lately has not been half told. There have been many details and incidents in the picturesque revolution that have had no mention in the ordinary chronicling of the news. Francis McCullagh, a highly capable observer of the recent events, is writing what will undoubtedly be accepted as the authentic story of the triumph of the Young Turks. Mr. McCullagh's vivid narrative began in The Times last Sunday. Further installments will appear in The Times next Sunday. It is a story of absorbing interest, and it is the first to reach America to give a clear picture of what has happened and the significance. Every reader of The Times will be well repaid in reading these articles.

There will be many other features of high magazine calibre in The Sunday Times. Winston Churchill's descriptions of experiences in Africa will be found especially interesting. There will be a capital article by "A Veteran Diplomat" on the obliteration of bogus titles going on in France; an enjoyable letter from Hashimura Togo, the "Japanese Schoolboy"; an entertaining essay on phases of New York life by Thomas L. Masson; a fine telling of the story of the recent beatification of Joan of Arc by one of those in the pilgrimage to Rome; a timely article on a certain phase of the late Henry H. Rogers; a good story about the Wright brothers, and many other features in well-balanced variety.

The Picture Section

There will be an unusually interesting series of pages in the Picture Section next Sunday, pictures of deep current interest, and that will tell much. There will be two pages of photographs that show the capture of Constantinople and the downfall of Abdul Hamid. Quite different, but in another way quite as enjoyable, will be two pages devoted to reproductions of the more notable canvases shown in the Salon of the National Society in Paris. There will be ten of these pictures, and there will be sixteen of those which portray the successful climax of the revolution in Turkey. There will be many other timely and entertaining pages. These will contain a series of unique photographs of Mr. Roosevelt on shore at Aden; six photographs depicting the visit of the Japanese war vessels to San Francisco; pictures of the rejoicing in Holland over the coming of an heir to the throne; many New York City pictures of interest—in all a gathering of vital photographs from all parts of the world—a collection that will be of interest to every one.

Readers of The Times Are Advised to Order the Coming Sunday Edition from Their Newsdealers To-day or by To-morrow Morning at the Latest.

"BUGS" RAYMOND HOLDS PIRATES SAFE

LOVING CUP FOR WAGNER

Famous Player Receives Evans Trophy for Leading the Major Leagues in Batting Last Year.

Well, they came—the fearful, awful Pittsburg Pirates. And we beat them, 2 to 1, thanks to Father Tenney, who knocked the second home run in two days, and "Bugs" Raymond, who did everything a pitcher is supposed to do and some things they are rarely expected to accomplish. But there are three more games to come with these leaders of the percentage column.

Tenney, the first Giant up in the first inning, hammered the ball out to right field, not far inside the foul line. It struck the ground a few feet this side of the fence and bounced through the screening into the bleachers. Having earned clothes and shoes and cigars for himself on Wednesday with his home run, Father Tenney can now begin fitting up the wardrobe of his oldest boy.

As for Raymond, he wiped away some unpleasant recent recollections. He struck out six men, including the terrible "Honus" Wagner—pronounced Vogner, if one is really quite correct, you know. He was opposed in the pitching box by Camnitz, who had not lost a game this year. He struck Mr. Camnitz out three times. Mr. Camnitz was at the bat three times. Moreover, Raymond fielded the ball, slow or fast, when it came near him, and then, on top of it all, he knocked out the single that brought in the second run.

The 7,000 people who braved the dark clouds and the damp, shivery weather saw Wagner presented with a silver trophy in the shape of a cup, offered last season by "Honey Boy" George Evans, for the man doing the best batting in the major leagues. The huge cup having been brought out to the home plate by a little boy, and Wagner, having shuffled up to the plate with his hat off, Joe Humphreys made the presentation speech and handed over the cup. Mr. Humphreys kept turning around as he talked, most of his oratory going out toward the centre field bleachers, which were empty.

But some of what he said follows, which indicates that he thought he was marrying Wagner to the cup:

"Take it and honor it and treasure it and—"

"Obey it," yelled somebody in the bleachers, "until death do us part."

"Honus" took it. Then the Pirates allowed themselves to be photographed with the cup among them.

"Fill it up, Wagner! Fill it up!" yelled the bleachers.

Miller received a diamond ring from friends of his home town, Kearny, N. J. He batted in the Pirates' only run.

The first Pirate at the bat was Barbeau, who looks from the grand stand to be about four feet tall, and above whom even Schlei, who is no huge person himself, towered head and shoulders. Considering the atmosphere of awe that came with the leaders of the column, the rising of Barbeau was something of an anticlimax. Nevertheless he drove the ball down at Doyle, who got it to Tenney, and Barbeau was out.

Two more Pirates having met the fate Pirates should meet, Tenney went to the bat and took that home run, about which mention has been made. Coming home, he was met at the plate by a party of photographers. McCormick was given first, after which he and Murray went out on a double play, Miller to Wagner to Abstein, Murray having sent a grounder to Miller.

In the second the Giants hung their supporters on the hooks of anxiety. With none out, O'Hara singled, took second on Devlin's single, and third on Bridwell's sacrifice bunt. Then Schlei was given first. Here were three on base, with only one out. Miller snatched up Raymond's grounder, touched out Schlei as he was running to second, and threw out Raymond at first, thus destroying the run that O'Hara was almost in with.

One of the two men that Pittsburg got beyond first in all the nine innings was Clarke, who scored in the fourth inning. He brought in a run that tied the score. With none out, he singled to centre. Following him was the bow-legged, crab-walking best ball player in the world. Wagner flied out to Murray. Abstein's single to centre sent Clarke on to second. Miller's drive to left brought him home, McCormick throwing the ball to Bridwell. But then Schlei threw Wilson out at first and caught Gibson's foul.

In the fifth the Giants broke up the tie with one run. Bridwell, first up, doubled cleanly to left field. Schlei's sacrifice bunt sent him to third, and Raymond's single to centre brought him home.

It looked very serious for the Pirates in this inning, not counting the run just spoken of. For, after Tenney flied out, Raymond took second on Doyle's single to left, and third on McCormick's drive, which was fumbled by Miller. Here, then, were three men on bases, with Murray at the bat. Of course two men were out, but the Giants seem to do most of their heavy offensive work when two men are out. Murray's grounder, however, was grabbed up by Miller, who got it to Abstein in good time.

No Giant got to first base after that, and only once more did the Pirates get a man beyond first. The score:

Brooklyn Lucky to Win.

"Old Fox" Griffith took his Cincinnati bunch to Washington Park, Brooklyn, yesterday, and was sure that he would take the measure of the Superbas in the first game of the series, especially after breaking even with the Giants. The Cincinnati manager's prediction seemed to pervade the entire grounds when it was found that Tim Jordan was unable to play on account of an injured knee, which necessitated the placing of Hummel at first base and McMillan at short. With the absence of the Bronx stickman, however, and Lumley, the Brooklyns finished in the lead by a score of 3 to 2.

Umpire Cusack's leniency to Burch when at the bat in the eighth inning was undoubtedly a help to Brooklyn in securing the victory. After being saved from a strike-out Burch put a hard ball past Hoblitzel, was advanced to second and third on outs by Hummel and Alperman, and finally reached home on Lennox's hit between right and centre fields. This proved to be the deciding run of the game. The score:

SHRUBB BEATS ST. YVES.

Englishman Outruns Frenchman in Twenty-Mile Race.

MONTREAL, May 20.—Alfred Shrubb, the English middle-distance champion, proved his ability to go a distance further than fifteen miles in winning style by defeating Henri St. Yves, the Marathon champion from France, in their twenty-mile race in the Montreal A. A. A. grounds this evening. Shrubb won by a lap and a quarter, about 600 yards, in the fast time of 1:54:25. St. Yves finished the race in 1:56:24.

It was a big surprise, St. Yves being practically a 1 to 2 favorite, reports that Shrubb's right leg had gone back on him since the Longboat race leading most of the experts to believe he would fade away after the fifteenth mile. Shrubb went out into the lead after the first twenty yards, and setting a fast pace opened a big lead in the early stages of the race.

Preferring a grass course to the third of a mile cinder path, the runners ran on a track laid just inside the cinder path, measuring 3 1-5 laps to the mile. Just before the seventh mile was finished by Shrubb he had gained a lap lead on the Frenchman. This lead he increased to a lap and a half at the end of the twelfth mile and added forty yards more in the next couple of miles.

In the fifteenth St. Yves began to quicken his pace, and from there to the finish made small gains, but Shrubb held on gamely and lost only one-fourth of a lap and a half gained at the twelfth mile. Shrubb was limping badly at the finish, but came home with a strong sprint.

St. Yves ran his usual race, with short, choppy strides, but had not the speed to go after the Englishman. Five thousand people saw the race.

TO BAR THE HAMMER THROW.

Colleges May Decide to Cut Out the Event as a Sport.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, May 20.—The hammer throw must go. The event has been pronounced unfit for college sport by Yale and Harvard, and by a number of other colleges.

It would create no surprise in college circles if a vote of the Intercollegiate Association were passed before another year shutting the event out, but in view of the fact that there are star athletes who came to college expecting to be able to enjoy three years of hammer-throw competition, it is felt by their friends that it would be unfair to drop the event without warning.

Yale and Harvard are agreed that they do not wish it longer. They regard it as unsafe, and they point to the long list of accidents and narrow escapes from them the past two years.

New Haven Wins in Polo.

The New Haven polo team administered a second decisive defeat to Squadron A's first team during the week at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday. When the Squadron men lost the first match in the Westchester County Club's tournament last Monday a challenge was issued to the New Haven players for a match game on the Van Cortlandt Park parade field. It was promptly accepted, and the visitors triumphed by a score of 17¾ goals to 7. The line-up:

St. Gabriel Athletes Finish First.

More than 500 boys competed yesterday afternoon in the fourth annual games of the Catholic School Athletic League, held on the grounds of the Clason Point Military Academy at Clason Point. The honors in the senior events went to the representatives of St. Gabriel's School, with Cathedral School second, and in the junior events the order was reversed, the Cathedral boys winning and the St. Gabriel's representatives taking second place. A crowd of 7,000 persons surrounded the field where the events were held, and at times the partisan spirit was so strong that it was a difficult task for the mounted police to keep the spectators from running on the track as some favorite won in an event.

Marshall and Capablanca Draw.

Frank J. Marshall and J. R. Capablanca, when called upon to contest the fifteenth game of their chess match of eight games up at the Brooklyn Chess Club yesterday afternoon, decided to again discuss a queen's gambit declined, and after thirty-one moves they agreed to call the game a draw.

Ball Bounds Over Keeler's Head and Scores Winning Runs for Browns.

A SHAKE-UP FOR ST. LOUIS

Jimmy Williams and Tom Jones Give Way to Younger and Speedier Men—Chicago Team Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 20.—A bad-bounding ball, driven by Stephens, that struck an uneven piece of ground and bounded over Keeler's head, in right field, went for a home run for the Browns to-day, and won the game from New York 2 to 1. Up to the beginning of the seventh inning the visitors had the advantage, and outplayed McAleer's shaken-up team at every point, though Knight at third muffed a liner that flew straight in his hands, and but for a fast double play, Chase to Austin, on the next ball hit, it would have cost a run.

New York tried hard to win against their luck, after two runs came in on Stephens's lucky homer, and as a final effort Hemphill was put in to bat for Austin and Elberfeld for Blair in the ninth.

The game was runless up to the fifth inning, when Brockett bunted and beat Rube Waddell's throw to first. Cree dropped a pretty single back of second after two were out, sending Brockett to the middle bag. He scored on Chase's single to left.

The game was a battle between Waddell and Brockett. The latter's showing was as good as that of the veteran, and his work to-day won the admiration of the crowd.

A shake-up for the Browns has come at last. McAleer took the two veterans, Jimmy Williams and Tom Jones, out of the game to-day, making them sit on the bench, and substituted young Arthur Griggs at second for Williams and placed Patterson at first base instead of Jones.

It was the most decisive action McAleer has taken to stop the losing of the Browns. Two of the slow runners are removed by taking out Williams and Jones. If the experiment proves successful, it would not be surprising to see a younger and faster man take Ferris's place at third base. The score:

Written Exclusively for THE NEW YORK TIMES By EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

Special to The New York Times.

CHEYENNE WELLS, Col., May 20.—My first invasion of Colorado was made within two and a half miles of Cheyenne Wells, last night, when I was suddenly greeted with a downpour of rain which was entirely unlike any thunder shower in the East. It came down in torrents and I was drenched to the skin within three minutes. There was no possible chance to shield myself from the elements, so I hastened to the hotel where I undressed as quickly as possible and used the usual preventives against pneumonia, lumbago, and colds. There were however, no disastrous after effects.

The showers have come so often that I am compelled to stay here to-day, as it is still raining, but I hope it will let up so I can start near midnight, making a long day Friday, similar to my long day on Monday. I have just been informed that an euthusiastic reception awaits me in Denver on Monday.

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

Automobilists Plan to Take 5,000 Children to Coney Island.

Plans were completed yesterday for the annual Orphans' Day outing and automobile run, an event which for a number of years has attracted wide attention. The committee having the affair in hand met yesterday at the Hotel Cumberland, Broadway and Fifty-fourth Street, and it was agreed that if the support that should be given to this philanthropic enterprise is shown this year more than 5,000 orphans will be given an automobile ride to Coney Island and an entertainment after they get there. Orphans' Day will be on June 9 next.

Twenty men, all of them influential in the motor world, attended the meeting. W. J. Morgan was elected Chairman of the 1909 Orphans' Day run, and Alexander Schwalbach was elected Secretary, a position he held last year. The following men were appointed to the Committee of Finance: R. Newton, I. H. Manning, and Peter Fogarty. The committee to solicit cars will be composed of Col. K. C. Pardee of the Maxwell-Briscoe Company, Gen. John T. Cutting of the Oldsmobile Company, Walter R. Lee, Secretary of the Automobile Trade Association; Mr. Van Dyke of the A. L. Company, C. R. Fischer of the Jewell Motor Car Company, Mr. Poertner of the National Car, Howard Davis of the Knox, and Carl Page and Percy Owen of the Chalmers-Detroit.

The matter of funds is of great importance, the committee announces. It is urged upon those not having automobiles to donate to contribute money to the cause. Checks or cash remittances should be sent to R. Newton, Fifty-seventh Street and Broadway. Those who are willing to loan their cars for the day should write to Mr. Newton, advising him of the fact so that the committee may form an estimate of the number of children that can be taken for an outing.

On Hillside Avenue, Jamaica, the United States Government, assisted by members of the Automobile Club of America, conducted a series of road tests yesterday afternoon to determine the effect upon macadam roads produced by the driving wheels of heavy automobiles and to ascertain the shortest distance in which various types of vehicles can be brought to a stop when traveling at the rate of ten miles an hour.

Five automobiles, loaned for the occasion by New York manufacturers, were used in the tests. The cars were operated at speeds ranging from ten to sixty miles an hour. Along the course official photographers snapped each car as it passed, and L. S. Williams of the Department of Agriculture took moving pictures of the tests, to be reproduced later before the officials at Washington.

The road tests were made for the purpose of observing how deeply a fast-speeding automobile will tear up a road, and to determine the best means to be taken to protect the roads throughout the United States. After the road tests a series of experiments were made to show how quickly vehicles can be stopped after the firing of a pistol shot when traveling at the rate allowed automobilists in the city. In these tests the automobiles were used and also draught wagons, light driving vehicles, and saddle horses. The latter tests were made with a view to compelling drivers of all vehicles, motor or otherwise, to carry safeguards in the thickly populated cities that will insure their stoppage within a few feet in case of necessity.

KEENE'S MASKETTE WINS THE LADIES'

Famous Filly Captures the Richest Stakes of the Turf Season to Date.

STABLE TAKES TWO RACES

Chapultepec First in a Close Finish with Dreamer for the Norwood Stakes at Belmont Park.

Maskette, heroine of the Futurity last season, made her reappearance on the turf at Belmont Park yesterday and quite as a matter of course, it seemed, won the richest prize of the season to date, in the forty-first running of the Ladies' Stakes. The famous filly's triumph was earned with comparative ease from a moderate field, in which the James R. Keene entry, Maskette and Affliction, had but two opponents, in August Belmont's Field Mouse and John E. Madden's Lady Bedford. The performance was a good one, a mile in 1:39, with full weight up, the fastest race ever run for the Ladies' Stakes, but it left room for much difference of opinion as to how Maskette will rank with the best of the colts when she comes to meet them later.

Maskette's victory was the second of the day for the Keene stable, which sent out its first winner of the year in Sweep, a handsomely turned brown colt, for the first race. In other events the great stables of the East figured conspicuously, Harry Payne Whitney's colors being carried to triumph in the sprint for maiden fillies and geldings by Greenvale and Richard T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Montpellier stable winning in another race with May River at the long odds of 15 to 1.

The patronage is regarded as so satisfactory by the managers of the track that the announcement was made that the first extra day of racing will be given next Monday, when a purse programme will be offered, with further additions of extra days later as the popular support justifies the increase.

The track was fast, and a strong breeze straight down the straight course helped so much toward fast time that Sweep ran his five furlongs in the opening race in 0:58 4-5, within a fraction of a second of the track record. The summaries:

COMMERCE AND THE TOWN PUMP.

Not many years ago the retailers of Brooklyn were accustomed to address to their patrons, or possible patrons, arguments and appeals setting forth the iniquity of trading in New York and the virtue, not to say the obligation, to make purchases in one's home town. Of late, with the development of the stores of the Borough and the great increase in the population, this mode of influencing custom has been pretty well abandoned. The spirit of it appeared in the speech of Congressman FOWLER at the Manufacturers' dinner on Wednesday night. Deserting the topic in which he is an expert, the famous currency reformer undertook to warn his hearers of the dangers that lurk in mutuality of international trade advocated by the German Ambassador. The chief of these was the danger of losing the home market by letting in German competition in the effort to secure a market in Germany. It would not pay, he contended, to imperil home markets in which $25,000,000,000 were involved for the advantages of a foreign trade much less important.

The essential fallacy of this mode of reasoning is that it ignores the basic fact that trade prospers as it is advantageous to both parties to it. If only one is to profit the trade must languish and ultimately go its way to dusty death. If we fine our people by taxes on the goods they need to buy whether made in this country or abroad, and compel them to pay a higher price than otherwise they would, we reduce by that much their advantage in commerce and proportionately restrict commerce. You can't buy goods and pay taxes with the same money, and whether you pay the taxes into the Treasury or into the pockets of home manufacturers, you are crippled as a purchaser. If there are no arbitrary barriers to commercial intercourse, foreign or domestic, we may depend on the intelligent selfishness of men to manage their affairs, on the whole, in the way that best pays. For every barrier erected our people must suffer.

It is particularly absurd to intrust the erection of these barriers to a body of legislators who do not know, and cannot possibly know with any approach to accuracy, the actual effect of the laws they enact, the taxes they impose. If Mr. FOWLER, with his long experience of Congressmen, were asked to put the management of any trade for which he was responsible in the hands of the Ways and Means Committee, to administer in the time at their command, he would firmly refuse. Yet it is the product of that committee's overtaxed brains that largely influences the legislation which determines the profit or the loss of innumerable American enterprises. And all because of the prevalence among us of a view of commerce that centres around the town pump.

BEARS AND BANKRUPTCY.

A little item in the business news of the day, of no importance in itself, has, in connection with recent events in the political world, a certain suggestiveness, if not significance. It is the report of the embarrassment of a modest dealer in toys who in the past had devoted a good deal of attention to the making and selling of "Teddy Bears." Apparently the demand for that peculiar form of plaything, which at one time prevailed all over the wide land, has materially lessened, has nearly died out.

The minds of people are being turned in another direction, and to a great extent, by the policy, the conduct, the bearing of the successor of the President whose name, or nickname, so long influenced the taste of the public. It is needless, in connection with this change, to recite the larger matters in which Mr. TAFT has pursued a line distinctly different from that of his predecessor. The lighter and slighter indications are even more interesting. Take, for example, the case of the immigration station at Ellis Island, as presented in the plaints of the regular Republican organization. It has been handled by Mr. TAFT in a manner as nearly opposed as could be to the cheerful and ingratiating disposition encountered by the machine in the past. There has not been the faintest "recognition" of the organization, or even of its estimable chief. The man who was practically forced out because he was too strict in the enforcement of the law is brought back again, and not only this, but the Deputy who proudly bore the title of "the original Roosevelt man" is booked for prompt removal. Neither the fact that a quarter of a century ago he nominated Mr. ROOSEVELT for the Assembly, nor the services since rendered, not even the influence of the organization that stood by Mr. ROOSEVELT when President, through thick and thin, avails to save him.

In short, it is plain that the name of ROOSEVELT is not for the present the talisman that it has been for seven years. It would not be safe to predict that it will not again assume its former charm and potency. A year, three years from now, it may receive an access of vitality, and the "Teddy Bear" may be replaced by the "Teddy" Lion, or Rhinoceros, or Hippopotamus, or Giraffe. Meanwhile, whatever may be in store for us, it doesn't appear probable that the country will suffer in interests or feelings from a period of relative tranquillity.

THE BRISTOL PROBLEM.

The State line between Tennessee and Virginia runs through the middle of a main thoroughfare of the town of Bristol. The prohibition law goes into effect in Tennessee July 1, but local option prevails in Virginia, and unless the foes of rum can control the sentiment and the votes of the majority in the Virginia half of Bristol that town will present an odd spectacle to the world's eye after a special election which has been ordered for July. One-half of it will be dry; the other half uncompromisingly, shamelessly wet. According to The Memphis Appeal the liquor interests are combining to make the fight for rum in the Virginia Bristol a memorable conflict. They are hoping for victory. If they gain it The Appeal thinks that many liquor dealers driven out of Nashville, Chattanooga, and Memphis will set up in trade in Bristol, Va., in the hope of retaining some part of their old business.

The outlook is interesting. If the Virginia half of Bristol votes in favor of rum, the dweller in Tennessee's half of the town can step across the street, get a drink, and fill his pocket flask without much loss of time. The question is how such a man will stand socially in the community on his own side of the street. It may be, in course of time, as much as his reputation and his business are worth for him to be even seen on the alcoholic sidewalk. The hitherto imperceptible State line, of which no account has been taken among neighbors, may be transformed into a veritable chasm in the minds of the teetotallers across the way. The shops that depend for prosperity on the custom of the virtuous and abstemious will have to remove to the respectable bank of the chasm.

A long line of liquor saloons on one side of the street may face the dry goods emporiums, groceries, meat shops, and drug stores of the prohibitionist section. For, of course, the prohibitionist women will not do their shopping and marketing on the wicked side. A resident of the Virginia section may become persona non grata in the Tennessee quarter. Two houses, both alike in dignity, in this divided Southern Verona, may develop, on the question of rum or no rum, such a feud as will make the Capulet and Montague quarrel seem pale in legend.

Interesting the outlook certainly is, especially as the two parts of the town are essentially and inseparably one. No river divides them. People who work in Virginia dwell in Tennessee, and vice versa. The situation is novel, one that seems to belong exclusively to the enlightened twentieth century.

DISORDERS OF PROSPERITY.

The Paris strikers yesterday caused street fights with the police and troops, and the revolutionary songs sung in the Chamber of Deputies have been taken up by the Deputies' constituents. It is a singular contrast with the dispatches minimizing the movement among the "functionaries"—or Government employés—and now apparently spreading among the proletariat. Even so serious a newspaper as the Journal des Débats warns the Government that "the country is facing anarchy." "We are witnessing," it says, "preparations for a revolutionary uprising which are going on under the eyes of a Government that either does not know how or dares not to stop the agitation."

This is all the more surprising because having no apparent justification. Only last week the cablegrams brought us glowing accounts of the prosperity of French trade. None of the distressing tales of depression and unemployment which reach us from London and Berlin have come from Paris. France is an earthly Paradise compared with its ally, Russia, to whom it has spared resources in almost limitless millions. D'AVENEL, the economist, the other day declared his view that democracy enriches, instead of impoverishes, and he proved his point by citing the wealth of France, now six times richer than under the monarchy, he said. Moreover, the equality of French fortunes, long remarkable, was never more so than to-day. According to the Viscount's figures, only 5,000 Frenchmen have incomes of $20,000 from wealth of $46,000,000,000. Again he closed with the prophecy that three centuries hence Socialism would be remembered as a quaint fad, with amazement that it ever caused the country uneasiness.

There is particular cause for us to view these events with interest. Prosperity was at its maximum among us also when a like spirit of dissatisfaction and unrest sprang up. Those who had more than ever before in their lives, and more than their parents had, found a grievance in the facts that others had more yet. Here also our institutions were attacked, although with all their faults there were those who were proud and fond of them, and doubted that the dissentients were qualified to improve them. Surely there is nothing in present conditions, either here or in France, in any degree comparable to those bad old times which would have justified any popular uprising.

How are these portents to be explained, still less justified? Prof. SMALL, Sociologist of the University of Chicago, has propounded an explanation. Americans, he says, are the unhappiest people in the world precisely because they are the most prosperous, and most free, and most educated. Prosperity makes more dissatisfaction than misery. And he illustrated his point by citing the French Revolutions, which were not ripe until a certain degree of betterment had fostered the ideas of personal rights and liberties, and given the appetite for more. It is the abjectness of the miserable moujiks which props the throne of the Czar. And, contrariwise, it is enlightenment which reveals inequalities and which fosters our problems and revolutionary spirit. But political democracy has its disappointments, and the professor warns us against the disappointments of social democracy.

THE PENSION MANIA HALTED.

If anything could be better than Gov. HUGHES's pension veto it is the instant and general perception of its merits. On the one hand it should encourage the Governor in a belief that the popular mind is open to approve his positions, provided only that they are truly popular positions. And on the other hand it may be taken as a proof that the popular mind has ripened upon the pension question in a manner that those who passed the law could not have suspected.

This check to the rage for pensioning everybody who ever held a weapon, or who was related in any degree to any such person, is all the more remarkable because it concurs with the perception in many nations—although not strongest in the United States—that the soldiers of industry have a claim to society's benefactions as well as the slayers of men in the name of patriotism. The excess of this latter pension sentiment in the United States is a potent obstacle to the former and newer pension movement among us. However industrial pensions might be justified elsewhere, they would be unendurable upon the scale of our military pensions.

THE SCARE IN ENGLAND.

Dr. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, in his address at Lake Mohonk, ventured the opinion that the irrational and emotional outburst against Germany in England is due to the interpretation of "a readjustment of relative position and importance among the nations of the earth, due to intellectual and economic causes" in "terms of the politics of the first NAPOLEON rather than in terms of the politics of the industrial and intelligent democracies of the twentieth century." This is getting rather deep in political science to account for the general fear of invasion that seems to prevail on the southern and eastern coast of England. But the present situation parallels exactly that which existed in the south counties late in the eighteenth and early in the nineteenth centuries. Then the so-called Martello towers, which still stand between Beachy Head and Hythe, in Kent, were built as lookout and signal stations from which the country was to be alarmed on the approach of the Corsican. Some splendidly imagined passages in "The Dynasts" of THOMAS HARDY denote vividly the alarm which then possessed the countryside.

A century of progress seems not to have made the English rustics less susceptible to crazy scares. They have not only been led by the alarmist utterances of Lord ROBERTS and others, by the attitude of the sensational press toward Germany, and the talk about the inefficiency of the army and navy, to dread invasion, but they actually believe, in spite of ample proof to the contrary, that military airships capable of destroying towns are present possibilities. Like the little boy in RILEY's poem they are "seeing things at night." One of their armed aeroplanes turned out to be a kite carrying paper lanterns, but that discovery has not lessened their alarm. There is a general election almost in sight and the Opposition is doing all it can to discredit the Government, so the fright will not be allayed until time proves its absurdity and the deadly monsters of the air will continue to destroy the coast villages in the dreams of their inhabitants.

NEW YORK'S ABANDONED FARMS.

Our esteemed contemporary The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, as "a loyal New York State paper," takes THE TIMES to task for intimating that one of the staple crops of the farmers up the State is moss. It professes curiosity to learn the exact location of the thousands of abandoned, or almost abandoned, farms in this State, and suggests that the readers of THE TIMES engage in the "exhilarating sport" of prodding it into pointing out these farms specifically.

Physical limitations of space forbid our satisfying fully The Democrat and Chronicle. To print a list of the abandoned farms would crowd out news. In the eyes of scientific agriculturists most of the farms in this State are virtually abandoned. The total number of farms was shown in the census of 1900 to be 226,720, as compared with 241,058 in 1880, a loss of 14,388 in twenty years. This loss in number would not be significant did not the same census reveal a decrease in farm values of $168,000,000 in the twenty-year period, and a loss of the farming population. The State's general population increased 11 per cent. in the five years preceding 1905, while twelve of the seventeen more important agricultural centres showed actual diminishment, and the increase in the remaining five was due to the growth of manufacturing towns and cities. The report of Gov. HUGHES's Commission of Immigration, just rendered, declares that the desertions from New York's farm population in twenty years has been "at the rate of about 20,000 per annum." Agriculture in New York State twenty years ago was nothing to boast of. It is worse to-day.

We presume that any one of the 146,564 European farmers and farm laborers who entered our ports last year is acquainted with better farming methods than prevail up the State. Gov. HUGHES's Commissioners quote Mr. CHARLES W. LARMON of the Department of Agriculture:

> To suggest the possibilities of further development of the fertile but unused farm lands of New York, comparison may be made with the Island of Jersey, the inhabitants of which are supported almost exclusively by agriculture. The island contains forty-eight square miles and a population of 60,000. The arable land in New York State would, if populated in the same proportion, contain 32,000,000 people.

The farmers of the Island of Jersey are not better situated with respect to markets for their produce than the farmers of this State, who have the wealthiest and most populous markets on this continent at their doors. If their farms are not now virtually abandoned we fail to understand how otherwise they can show losses, not merely of 400,000 population and $168,000,000 in value, but the greater losses of an increase in population that should have reached many millions in a score of years, and of a concomitant increase in value.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Reproved, But Not Repentant.

One of our readers has been moved to reprove us—oh! yes, more in sorrow than in anger, and quite gently, as reproofs of newspapers go—for translating from cipher and printing an essay written by an expert on the art of breaking open safes.

Our critic goes astray in the very beginning of his letter by saying that the elucidation of "Deafy" HUNT's cryptogram was "a journalistic feat of no small importance." It was, as a matter of fact, a very trivial achievement, completed in ten minutes and within the power of anybody who has ever given the slightest attention to puzzles of that sort. A much more important mistake, however, is made by our correspondent when he assumes that the contents of the burglar's notebook should not have been published because "they will fall into the hands of amateur cracksmen to the injury of themselves and others."

That apprehension has a certain plausibility, at first thought, but reflection will convince almost anybody, we think, that "cracksmen" are not made that way. No honest youth felt the slightest inclination to take up safe robbing as a life vocation because he read the fruits of experience as set down in HUNT's little book, and if any one did get from its publication a hint or two that will be of nefarious assistance to him hereafter, he suffered no moral injury, since he was already beyond harm. As for his increased ability to prey upon his fellows the increment will be so minute as to be beyond other than microscopic measurement—so minute as to be negligible in comparison with the advantages to be derived from the warning of honest people about the ease with which old-fashioned safes can be opened and the supplying of them with information as to the methods and habits of the modern burglar.

Publicity never helps the under-world in its fight with the upper, and we are convinced that the burgling fraternity as a whole has no doubt that its business, or trade, or profession, has been hurt rather than helped by the promulgation of so many of its little secrets. We call them "little" advisedly, for the information conveyed by HUNT's notebook was of the most elementary and easily obtainable kind, and would be considered valuable only by a man possessing the criminal mind—such a mind, for instance, as one that could see safety and secrecy in writing with transposed letters. That was a characteristic piece of stupidity, and it should be highly reassuring to those of us who are fairly honest.

Defended Where Not Attacked.

In praising the Armenians, the other day, for at last making effective resistance to massacre and compelling their Moslem oppressors to pay dearly in loss of life for what has previously been the safe sport of wholesale slaughter, it was not our intention to deny the possession by the Armenian race of any of the good qualities claimed for it in the letter from ALICE STONE BLACKWELL, printed on this page yesterday. Indeed, it is with difficulty that we resist the temptation to describe as "feminine logic" the attempt to convict us of injustice by answering our implication that the Armenians had lacked the strenuous and valorous virtues by citing numerous instances in which they had allowed themselves to be killed rather than change their religion.

That is the heroism of the martyr, and highly admirable in its way and place, but from the standpoint of practical efficiency in the settlement of racial and political differences it leaves much to be desired. It is fashionable nowadays to decry fighting ability as needless and out of date. It is, doubtless—or would be—in a state of perfect civilization, where nobody ever thought of wronging anybody [illegible] was never necessary [illegible] justice and the protection of rights. That happy era may have arrived or be near at hand for us and our nearest relatives across the sea, but it is as yet some distance away from the Turkish Empire, and at least there, and at least for the present, any people will find it distinctly advantageous to create among its neighbors the conviction that it can and will do more than die with composure when they get theologically excited or financial resources run low.

As to the intellectual and moral superiority of the Armenians to the Kurds who have so often murdered them at will and in mere gayety of heart, and to the Turkish officials who have enriched themselves at the expense of the only nonresistants conveniently at hand, there has never been any question, and yet the Turks, and even the Kurds, have commonly, and not without reason, passed for "the better men," as the saying is, simply because they always give a good account of themselves in battle against any foe or odds, and can fight hard in either offensive or defensive warfare. These may be barbaric qualities, but the fact remains that they are those of the nations that make a large showing in history, and not by any means for their wars alone.

No Present Hope for Zoophilists.

If ever an anti-vivisection bill comes before Gov. HUGHES, it is to be hoped and confidently expected that the specious arguments of its advocates will find a sufficient answer in his own memories of the days just now passing. No man is likely to forget that when his own son was attacked by what until very lately was one of the most nearly hopeless of all the acute diseases, that son was started on the road toward recovery by the use of a remedy which certainly could never have been discovered except for experiments on living animals—a remedy which will never be manufactured except by a continued use of living animals for the therapeutic advantage of mankind. The case of cerebro-spinal meningitis is an even more brilliant vindication of vivisection than is diphtheria, since its mortality has always been even greater than that of the more familiar disease, and, as Gov. HUGHES has never given any signs of being a victim of the zoophil-psychosis, in which an exaggerated tenderness for animals is invariably balanced by a callous indifference to human suffering, medical science in this State can now hold itself safe from ignorant interference, at least during his administration. He has had the facts brought straight home to him.

THE HEALING ART.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Thomas Darlington, in THE TIMES of May 14, is reported as saying that, "The splendidly organized work of healing is traceable largely to the Christian church. It is Christian love. Hospitals were first called into existence by Christians."

The healing art was taught and practiced in India, Egypt, and Greece centuries before the Christian era. The Maurya King, having embraced the Buddhistic doctrines, adopted the name of Asoka, filled his dominion with hospitals, and they remained while Buddhism retained its power in India. The Hindus practiced the healing art 1,400 years before Christ.

Egypt was famous for her temple-hospitals, and the healing art was taught there many centuries before Christ.

Who will not be grateful to Egypt when he remembers that she alone was kind to the insane? It was reserved for more modern times to burn lunatics alive, and it has taken 6,000 years for Egypt to learn the use of the whip and chain and starvation in the treatment of these unfortunates.

No lunatic asylum existed in Christian Europe till the fifteenth century, but there were several such institutions at Fez in the seventh century.

Twelve hundred years before Christ Greece taught the healing art, and had hospitals at least 500 years before Christ; and long before Christ the surgeon Demokedes cured the Queen Atossa of cancer.

The different church councils forbade surgery, and thereby medicine and surgery were crippled for centuries. Owing to the Christian church, surgery was considered dishonorable for over 1,000 years. During many centuries when the Christian church held absolute sway the healing art declined, and only as the power of that church waned did medicine and surgery advance.

EXPRESS OVERCHARGES.

Finds His Suspicions Confirmed by Recent Revelations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An easy way to correct the overcharge of 50 per cent. on small packages habitually made by the express companies, according to The Iron Age, would be to compel them to post a tariff of legal rates in all places of shipment, thus enabling shippers to profit by the rates made by law for their benefit.

The impropriety of looking a gift horse in the mouth has long prevented the verification of the suspicions of many recipients of packages around holiday time that they were made to pay a second time express charges which they were morally sure had been prepaid by the donors of their gifts.

It has always been a mystery why a simple plan had not been adopted by the express officials to protect their patrons from this form of malversation on the part of their employes. But it is now easy to comprehend why this little irregularity in the spigot outdoors was allowed to go on unchecked, while there was so much more doing in the same line at the bunghole inside.

The present falling out among "expressmen" over the contents of their treasure chests makes this a peculiarly opportune time to give the public some of their long-denied dues under the law. Besides, the expressmen are now for the first time in many years without a powerful representative at the seat of government.

J. P. D.

New York, May 18, 1909.

Converted Sun Worshipper's Record.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Constantine Paleology de Byzantium I. (What a name to swear by!) wants Christians to drive Mohammedans from Constantinople, where "Constantine the Great" and others "had their imperial seats." (TIMES, May 16.) "Constantine the Great," a sun-worshipper, promulgated the first law making Sunday, ("the venerable day of the sun,") a legal holiday—not holy day. Afterward, when Constantine professed Christianity, the Christians made Sunday their holy day, under which incubus the United States of America "groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now." (Rom. viii.; 22.) Constantine was not a model Christian. In the year of Christ 310 "Constantine murdered his wife's father, Maximian; in 314 he murdered Bassianus, his sister, Anastasia's, husband; in 319 he murdered Licinianus, his sister, Constantia's, son, aged 11 years; in 320 he drowned his wife, Fausta, in a bath of boiling water; in 321, (the year he convoked the Council of Nice,) he murdered his old friend and adviser, Sopater, for rebuking him; in 325 he murdered Licinius, his sister, Constantia's, husband; in 326 he murdered his own son, Crispus."

Did Abdul Hamid beat "Constantine the Great's" record?

From a Gentlemanly Smoker.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer would like to see considerate gentlemen take the lead, and by example reduce the habit of smoking in any place where the rights of others than the smokers are infringed, even if there is no positive rule against the custom.

GERMAN WAR SCARE.

Thinks History Amply Justifies Great Britain's Perturbation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest the address delivered at Mohonk by the President of Columbia University relative to the "so-called war scare" in England.

Are the fears of the designs of Germany unreasonable? The "war lord" of Germany is an avowed disciple of Frederick the Great, who it will be remembered by students of history threw his armies on Silesia without a word of warning, and plunged all Europe, Great Britain included, into one of the longest and bloodiest wars ever recorded in history.

Frederick the Great had no quarrel with the Empress Maria Theresa. He coveted Silesia and took it. His own explanation of that dreadful act of aggression was that he wished to make himself famous! He succeeded. He obtained Silesia and is recorded in history as Frederick the Great.

History also records that when the war was concluded the fields of Germany were cultivated by women and dogs harnessed together to the plow!

We have all profound reverence and respect for the principles advocated at The Hague Conference, echoed at Lake Mohonk, but it is only yesterday that Austria, emulating the act of Frederick the Great, seized Bosnia and Herzegovina, tearing the "Treaty of Berlin" to shreds, defying the parties to it, is it not said at the instigation of the present German Emperor?

While the wires are still alive with such records, would it not be a fatal mistake if England did not prepare to meet the dangers which obviously threaten her?

Let her arm, in God's name! Let her put every man capable of bearing arms to military duty, if we wish her to preserve the noble traditions of her past history.

To prepare is to avert calamity.

BETTER FARMS POSSIBLE.

Most Important and Most Neglected Industry in America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. George T. Powell's timely article regarding farming, in a recent issue of THE NEW YORK TIMES, has caused me to ask, Why do the majority of our farmers feed their crops in the same old way as our grandfathers did?

"The weakest link is the strength of a chain." Isn't the strength of a crop its weakest available fertilizing element?

Why not consider the nature of the soil with reference to both crop and fertilizer? When growing potatoes in a nitrogenous soil, why add more nitrogen? Potato tubers thrive on potash; potato vines thrive on nitrogen, but the tubers will not.

The analysis of the wheat berry shows a greater percentage of phosphoric acid than the straw. Why not grow more wheat and potatoes, and less straw and vines?

Organized capital develops and operates our mines, railroads, and many manufacturing enterprises. What would those branches of industry amount to if carried on single-handed as the farms here in the East are?

Farm products are the financial backbone of our country. Why isn't capital more interested in producing them? The result would strengthen the weakest and most important link in the Nation's prosperity.

UNION VS. MILITIA.

Labor Organization Sets Its Interest Above That of Government.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in your issue of three days ago that a New Jersey labor union has forbidden its members to join State militia, because, in case of a strike, "they might be ordered to fire on their brothers of the union." Any organization which places loyalty to itself higher than loyalty to the State is a menace to the State—as any State which places loyalty to itself above the Nation is a menace to the Nation. The act of this New Jersey union, in enjoining its members not to serve in the militia, is unimportant, because it will affect but few. Why should this union fear the Government unless it contemplates violent and illegal acts?

Legally, this union may be justified, but if judged by the higher standards of patriotism and devotion to the public good, it is hopelessly in the wrong. Let it prove, by reversing its action, that it ranks patriotism above unionism and the maintenance of order above the success of any strike, however just.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of May 18 Mr. Longmore asks: "Are the producers of domestic mica not justified in asking for a duty that will amply protect an industry employing labor to whom wages of $3.50 to $4 per day is paid, while in India from 8 to 15 cents per day is paid to those who produce this material?" And again he says: "Mr. Gibson is evidently not well posted on the production of mica in the United States or foreign countries."

Quite likely; instead of filling his head with such lumber Mr. Gibson can easily find more useful branches of statistics to which to address himself. It is only necessary to recognize the fact that for every dollar's worth of mica, cotton yarn, tin plates, or any other goods that we shut out of our country we shut in a dollar's worth of our own labor products which would have been profitably exchanged. When a foreigner brings a shipload of mica to this country does he give it to us for nothing? Or does he require an equivalent of our products in exchange? And is it not a fact that the less he takes away in return for his mica the richer we are? Is it, or is it not, a fact that all goods imported into any country are paid for in labor products of that country?

Local Mail Delayed?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I cannot depend on receiving a letter by the first morning's post which was mailed from downtown the evening before. My sad experience was repeated to-day, but this time the letter was mailed from Madison Square, according to the postmark, at 11 P. M. last night, but was not delivered until past noon at Twenty-third Street, west side. This would be too slow for easy-going Paris, and would raise a storm of protest in London or Berlin.

The outgoing domestic mail is, I know, well taken care of, but for some reason the local mail does not receive the same attention.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have to shut the windows in the back part of my apartment several times a week to keep out the clouds of dust and germs caused by rugs being beaten on the roof.

I cannot understand why rugs are beaten on roofs and in yards in a large city, as it certainly causes sickness besides the filth pouring into the thousands of sleeping rooms.

The cost of sending rugs to a cleaner once or twice a year is very little, and with care and the carpet sweeper between times the rugs are clean.

BUEK COLLECTION COLORS AND PASTELS

FROM OLDER ARTISTS

Mr. Buek Believes It the Most Complete Collection Now in Existence —Classics on the List.

The exhibition of the G. H. Buek collection of American watercolors and pastels at the American Art Galleries will thoroughly repay a visit from those interested either in the watercolor medium or in the development of American art.

Most of the examples represent the older artists, and in nearly all instances are characteristic works. In his note for the catalogue Mr. Buek writes that the collection was started nearly twenty years ago, and he believes it to be the most complete now in existence, although it still lacks some twenty or twenty-five names of artists who rightfully belong in it.

Many of the classics of American art are on the list. John La Farge is represented by a study for one of his stained glass windows, in which his remarkable juxtapositions of green and blue and red appear in a magnificent little color scheme. There is a fine example by Winslow Homer, entitled "After the Hunt," in which a hunter as proud in bearing as an old Norse Viking is dragging his dog into his boat; there is a spirited drawing of Charles Coghlan as Sir Charles Surface by E. A. Abbey; there is a crisp sketch called "Maud," by Whistler—a girl in a hammock, all brown and gray, with a flush of red in the flesh tones, and snapping with character.

Other real gems of the collection, which numbers more than 150 pictures, are "The Tiger," by Arthur B. Davies, a superbly stealthy beast advancing toward an unseen prey and suggesting inevitably Blake's lines to "Tiger, tiger, burning bright"; R. A. Blakelock's "Going to the Ghost Dance," as rich in color as the oil pictures by the same artist, and apparently heavily varnished; Emil Carlsen's "A Wood Fantasy," a lovely little pastel; Jules Guerin's "The Fagot Gatherer," D. W. Tryon's "The Monarch," a pastel drawing of an old tree in a field, delicate in tone and strong in construction, and J. H. Twachtman's "A Spring Poem," also a pastel, and executed in the light, incidental maner which seems of all possible manners that most appropriate to the chalk medium.

The observer curious of American customs and types will find his account to a certain extent in such pictures as "The Pickaninny," by Harry Roseland, in which the little negro child absorbed in dietetic joys is very well described; "Do You Love Me?" by J. G. Brown, in which a clean little boy and a neat little dog are making affectionate signals to each other, the dog a delightful piece of characterization; "Preparing for Thanksgiving," by Lyell Carr, "The Mannish Girl," by E. L. Henry, a young woman in bicycle knickerbockers who has stopped for a cup of water from a wayside well and is regarded with amusement and disapproval by the farm people at hand, and "A Letter from Their Boy," by Jay Hambidge, an old couple at the breakfast table, on which the letter lies, the steaming coffee, the covered dishes, the plump cat, and the ample provision forming a composite note of the substantial comfort in which plain Americans of the past generation were in the habit of living.

The catalogue contains many names of importance in the art of to-day, Frank Millet, J. Francis Murphy, Childe Hassam, W. L. Lathrop, H. W. Ranger, A. H. Wyant, and others, and it also contains names of which we no longer hear at all. To students of American art the opportunity to study it in this medium is valuable. They would have to search diligently and go far afield to find so many good examples covering so wide a range, and it is to be hoped that in time the collection will find its way into some museum, where it can be consulted freely. Its historic interest is increased by the autograph letters and the photographs of the artists that are hung with the pictures, but the effect on the pictures themselves of the patchy arrangement is not fortunate. The exhibition will be open for at least two weeks.

LOWELL BELIEVES IN COLLEGE

New President of Harvard Says It Is the Core of Academic Life.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 20.—Abbott Lawrence Lowell, who yesterday assumed the Presidency of Harvard University in response to an enthusiastic greeting today from several hundred students comprising his class, known as "Government I," said that the present general policy of the university would be maintained and that Harvard College would preserve the same relation toward the graduate departments as formerly.

"I am profoundly impressed," President Lowell said, "by the change that has just taken place in my life. I regard my present task as the most difficult in the United States. Few things stand before us presenting such thorny problems as the American college. Educators are attacking it on all sides. Many are not in sympathy with it, saying that in its present status it has outlived its usefulness. However, that is not the direction in which we shall go here. I believe in the college as the core of academic life, and as such it will continue at Harvard.

"My ambition is to see develop at Harvard the best crop of all-around men, mentally, morally, and physically, in the United States. To accomplish this it is essential that the undergraduate body give its hearty co-operation to the President and governing boards of the university."

CONGRESS COST $2,052,000,000

Record of Sixtieth for Two Sessions—10,120 Offices Created

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The closing session of the Sixtieth Congress, according to figures issued to-day by the Appropriation Committees of the Senate and House, broke all previous records for the amount of money appropriated for the conduct of the Government. The enormous total of $1,044,401,857 was voted for use in the fiscal year beginning July 1 next. To this may be added $26,080,875 for continuing contracts, for which further appropriations by succeeding Congresses will be necessary. This brings the grand total up to $1,070,482,714.

The appropriations of the two sessions of the Sixtieth Congress reached into astonishing figures, being more than $2,052,000,000.

The contracts authorized include fortifications in the Philippine Islands, battleships, colliers, torpedo boat destroyers, submarine torpedo boats, and improvements of rivers and harbors. There were 10,120 new offices and employments specifically authorized and 6,243 abolished, making a net increase of 3,877, calling for annual salaries aggregating $5,672,000. The publication is the joint work of Thomas P. Cleaves and James C. Courts, clerks respectively of the Senate and House Committees on Appropriations.

DIVORCE DECREE FOR MRS. FRANK GOULD

Order of the Court, One of the Longest on Record, Divides the Custody of the Children.

A REMARKABLE SCHEDULE

Months, Weeks, Days, and Even Hours Fixed for the Surrender of Children by One to the Other.

Supreme Court Justice Gerard signed an interlocutory decree of divorce yesterday in favor of Mrs. Helen Kelly Gould and against Frank J. Gould. This followed the filing the day previously of the report of Edward G. Whitaker, the referee appointed to take the testimony in the suit. The decree was one of the wordiest handed down in some time, dealing fully with the custody of and provision for the two children of the marriage, Helen Margaret and Dorothy Gould.

In the decree as submitted to the court was a clause which provided for the sealing the record in the case. Justice Gerard struck this out.

If Mrs. Smith gets a divorce from John Smith the record can be seen by any one, but if the persons concerned are prominent or wealthy, extraordinary vigilance is kept by the County Clerk's officials on the papers in the case, and innumerable rules are forthcoming to prevent reporters from seeing the papers.

This was the case yesterday. Clerk Charles Engel had charge of the Gould record. He allowed reporters to see the decree, but zealously guarded all the other papers. Justice Gerard ruled that reporters might read the record, but take nothing more than mental notes. When Clerk Engel heard this he pleaded that it was after 4 o'clock and it was time that the papers were locked up. This was, notwithstanding, that fully a dozen other records of divorce proceedings were left out, from which reporters could take whatever notes they chose. County Clerk Peter J. Dooling was away from his office.

Under the decree, Justice Gerard finds that Mr. Gould has been guilty of such misconduct as to entitle Mrs. Gould to a divorce. The marriage is, therefore, dissolved, and the plaintiff is freed from its obligations. They were married on Dec. 2, 1901.

The decree provides that the plaintiff shall have the sole custody and control of the children, Helen Margaret Gould and Dorothy Gould, from December to April, both inclusive, in each year, and the defendant from May to November, both inclusive, with certain exceptions.

These exceptions are set forth in the minutest detail by the court. Mrs. Gould is entitled to the children for four consecutive days in the first fifteen days of June each year, and for a similar period during the last fifteen days in September, provided she gives Mr. Gould five days' notice prior to June 1 and Sept. 15. On the first Friday in October and November, Mr. Gould is directed to have the two children left at the house of his former wife, or other suitable place she may designate, before 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and they are to remain with her until the following Monday morning, when she is to return them to Mr. Gould at his home before 9 o'clock A. M.

On each alternate Friday during December, January, February, March, and April Mrs. Gould is directed to leave the children at Mr. Gould's home, where they are to remain until the following Monday morning, when he is to return them to her before 9 o'clock A. M. On each alternate Friday in May Mr. Gould is ordered to do likewise. The decree goes on to provide that between Sept. 15 and the following June 15 neither one shall remove the children to a greater distance from this city than 100 miles without the written consent of the other. The children are to spend part of the Christmas holiday with each parent.

Thus, next Christmas they are to be with Mrs. Gould from 4 P. M. on Christmas Eve until noon Christmas Day, and with their father from noon of that day until the following morning at 10 o'clock. In every other year they are to be with their father from 4 P. M. on Christmas Eve until noon Christmas Day, and with their mother from that time on until 10 A. M. next day.

Whenever the children are with their mother on Christmas eve they are to be with their father on the following New Year's Day from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M. the same day, and when they are with the latter on Christmas eve they are to be with Mrs. Gould on the following New Year's Day from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M.

In the event of the children requiring medical attendance in the opinion of Dr. William B. Anderton, who is appointed official medical attendant to them, and it is deemed advisable that the other parent than the one in whose custody they are at the moment shall visit them, such other parent is privileged to do so, but only for the time that Dr. Anderton shall designate.

In the event of the remarriage of Mrs. Gould, Mr. Gould is to have the custody of the children from May to January, both inclusive, and the provisions relating to the visits in February, March, April, and at Christmas are to remain in full force and effect.

The decree provides that Mr. Gould is to pay for the instruction of the children, provided they are sent to his home, or some other place designated by him, for such instruction. When they are old enough to be sent to school Mrs. Gould is to submit a list of ten schools to Mr. Gould, all of which are to be within a radius of 300 miles of New York City, from which to choose.

As the children grow older and their educational requirements change, Mrs. Gould must, at her former husband's request, furnish him with a new list of schools suitable to the altered requirements of the children. Mr. Gould must pay for their education.

There is no provision for alimony for Mrs. Gould mentioned in the decree.

HOPE FARM FETE EXTENDED

To be Continued To-day—Good Profit Realized.

The garden fête in aid of Hope Farm, the Protestant Protectory for Children, will be continued over to-day, making four days instead of the original three-day plan. As the admission has been reduced to $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, there will doubtless be a much larger attendance than at any previous session. Yesterday the attendance was good and at night much better, and it proved by far the most profitable day of the three. More than $5,000 was taken in the first day, more than $6,000 the second, and as the expense of arranging and running the fête will amount to approximately $10,000 it took the receipts of the first two days to clear expenses. Yesterday's receipts and those of to-day will be clear gain for the home.

Yesterday the cake and candy booth was under the charge of Mrs. Albert Gould Jennings, Mrs. Daniel Bacon, Mrs. Howard Ford, Mrs. Henry Wolcott Warner, Miss Grace Wilkes, and Mrs. James Bishop.

Mrs. Belmont Tiffany, Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. Frederick Beach Hewletts, Miss Cameron, Mrs. Gordon Morris, and Mrs. James Eusus sold toilet articles.

Candies and soda were served by Mrs. Oren Root, Mrs. J. H. Smith, and Miss Ellen Sparks.

Travelers' articles were handled by Mrs. Oelrichs, Mrs. Otto Kahn, Mrs. Borden Harriman, and Mrs. Hibbs.

Articles for boys and girls were sold by Mrs. Lincoln McCormack, Mrs. Henry Beadleston, Mrs. Frederick Martin Davies, and Miss Parsons.

Mrs. John H. McCullough, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, and Mrs. Frank Carley represented the millinery booth, and Miss Eleanor Alexander sold garden implements.

Mrs. William Woodward, Miss Anne Morgan, and Miss Eleanor Robson sold flowers, and Mrs. Ogden Hammond, Mrs. Joseph S. Stevens, Mrs. Randolph, and Miss Lee Tailer sold cigarettes and smoking articles.

Among those at the fête yesterday afternoon and evening were the Misses Knowlton, John D. Crimmins, Sr., Col. Charles G. Ayres and Mrs. Ayres, Miss Lattimer, Miss Alice Anderton, Miss Therese Iselin, Mrs. George Henry Warren, Mrs. Louis L. Stanton, Mrs. Charles Steele, Miss Josephine Osborn, Mrs. William B. Anderton, Miss Alice Anderton, Mrs. Charles S. Brown, Miss Lucy Brown, Mrs. Henry C. Beadleston, Miss Rebecca Caldwell, Mrs. Frederic G. Goodridge, Mrs. Evans R. Dick, Mrs. John E. Parsons, Mrs. Joseph O'Donohue, Mrs. Charles MacVeagh, Mrs. S. Breck P. Trowbridge, Mrs. J. Langdon Schroeder, Mrs. John J. Emery, Miss Laura V. Day, and Haliburton Fales, Jr.

MAYER—SHOEBOTHAM.

John Mayer of Morristown, a Director of the American Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, and Miss Bessie Shoebotham, daughter of the late Capt. William B. Shoebotham of London, Canada, were married in the presence of a few relatives and friends at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Henry F. Coffin, pastor of that church, and the Rev. Philemon Sturges of Morristown, officiated.

Miss Shoebotham was given away by her brother, Dr. William Shoebotham. She had one attendant, Miss Louise Tracy Butler, the young daughter of Mrs. William A. Butler, Jr.

Mr. Mayer's best man was Walter Wood of Morristown, and his ushers were William Allen Butler, 3d, of New York and Mr. Burnham of Morristown.

Mr. Mayer's first wife was Miss Lily Havemeyer, a sister of Mrs. E. Clarkson Potter, Mrs. Henry F. Godfrey, Mrs. W. Butler Duncan, and Mrs. Cameron McR. Winslow. Mr. Mayer's children include Mrs. Joseph Grinnell and John Mayer, Jr.

After the ceremony there was a very small reception at the home of Mrs. William Allen Butler, Jr., 30 East Seventy-second Street. Mr. and Mrs. Mayer will sail soon for Europe, where they will spend the Summer, and later will make their home at Morristown, N. J.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., May 20.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt held a reception yesterday afternoon, to which was invited every woman in Oyster Bay who could be reached through the churches. Mrs. Roosevelt was assisted in receiving by the Rev. Henry Homer Washburn of Christ Church. She wore a white dress, hand painted with blue flowers. Miss Ethel Roosevelt and her cousin, the daughter of Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, poured the tea.

ASKS TAFT TO STOP RIVALRY IN NAVIES

HE INDORSES DR. BUTLER

Rev. Mr. Lynch Tells Mohonk Conference Church People in England Are Maddest with Pagan Martial Ardor.

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., May 20.—J. Allen Baker, a member of the British Parliament, the last formal speaker at this morning's session of the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration, emphasized the continuous neighborliness and good fellowship of the United States and Canada as an example to the nations of what the absence of armaments and fortifications on an international boundary will do to promote peace.

"I largely indorse," said Mr. Baker, "what President Butler has said as to the emotional insanity of the present mad race for battleships in Great Britain and Germany. Our House of Commons is the chief sinner in having started the crazy competition in building dreadnoughts. But you must remember that we have a yellow press in Great Britain, and you must not believe all that it says regarding the so-called German war scare."

In conclusion Mr. Baker declared that the peace of the world to-day lay in the hands of the United States, Germany, and Great Britain, and that the United States can absolutely join the hands of Germany and Great Britain, prevent possible warfare, and "stop the crazy competition in building dreadnoughts," and he invited President Taft to take the lead in so doing.

"Some years ago," said the Rev. Frederick Lynch, pastor of the Pilgrim Church of New York, "a great English scientist remarked that 'modern Christianity was a half-civilized paganism.' It was an overstatement and aroused much indignation. But nevertheless it is still partly true. We have brought over into our Christianity a lot of pagan ethics, and often the pagan overshadows the Christian. The pagan ideal is force. The Christian ideal is love. But in the great social relationships the ethics of the Church are still largely the pagan ideals of force.

"There never was such a travesty of Christianity," he continued, "in history as the present savage attitude of England and Germany to each other. If the State Churches of Germany and England had enough Christianity in them to say, 'This is utterly foreign to our religion; let us insist that the two Governments get together at once in a friendly conference and sign a treaty,' the Governments would do it. But from my experience in England it is the church people who are maddest. It is the shame of the age that every Church in Germany, England, and America is not protesting against these great, pagan, overwhelming armaments."

Minister Wu Ting-Fang said that China was in favor of making compulsory arbitration a law of the nations. The amicable relations between the United States and Canada were described by Justice J. J. MacLaren, of the Court of Appeals of the Province of Ontario, who said that while individuals have become in a measure Christianized, "we still remain as nations and collectively largely barbarian and heathen." Gov. Ansel of South Carolina also spoke in favor of arbitration.

The possibility of the adoption by the conference to-morrow of a platform plank favoring a limitation of armaments among the nations is believed to be indicated, especially as Dean Kirchwey of Columbia University, who was one of the leaders in the successful fight for such a plank two years ago, is now Chairman of the Business Committee of the conference which prepares the platforms.

Business men representing fifty-eight Chambers of Commerce from nineteen States and Canada, who are attending the conference to-day, adopted a resolution urging President Taft "to take the initiative in leading the nations to a concurrent limitation or reduction in the armies and navies of the world."

The Rev. H. H. Henson of London, in an address to-night, declared that it was "not yellow journalism," but the grave statements of responsible Government officials in the House of Commons, which caused the present unrest in England. He denied that there was any war feeling among the British people.

Other speakers were Judge Hiram R. Steele of New York, C. B. Murray of Cincinnati, Edward Mead of Boston, the Rev. P. S. Moxom of Springfield, Mass., and the Rev. S. E. Eastman of Elmira.

SCHOOLBOYS SMELL OF BEER

But Bayonne Teachers Tell Mayor Their Pupils Don't Get Intoxicated.

The Bayonne Board of Education took up last night the charges of Dr. Henry D. Abbott that he had seen boys in the public schools intoxicated. Though the committee appointed to investigate the charges is not ready to report, Mayor Pierre Garven, who is also Prosecutor of Hudson County, said that he had a statement signed by Principals and teachers that there was no intoxication among the school lads. He said that he had found two or three boys smelling of beer who had got the liquor in a saloon where they attended the bowling alleys. If the names of saloon keepers who had sold liquor to minors were given him he would see that their licenses were revoked, he declared.

James Denny, President of the board, said that he had seen children carrying beer from saloons, but that it was the duty of the Prosecutor to enforce the law and the police were paid to do the work. He offered a resolution requesting Mayor Garven to investigate the conduct of Prosecutor Garven and to report to the Grand Jury. It was also requested that Mr. Garven be excluded from the Grand Jury room while that body was considering his report. "If that fails," he said, "Gov. Fort should be appealed to." The resolution was lost. The board will meet next Thursday night, when the investigation committee will report.

INSPECTORS ACCUSE STEWARD

Say He Was Trying to Smuggle Aigrettes on the Tennyson.

Customs officers seized on the Lamport & Holt liner Tennyson yesterday forty-six bundles if aigrettes, which they say they found in the room of David Davis, the chief steward of the vessel. They seized them and reported to the Surveyor that when they questioned the man he became abusive. Davis was about to be taken to the Surveyor's office, but the steamer's Captain protested that the man's presence on board was necessary. He was paroled in the custody of the Captain and to-day will be brought to the Custom House to explain how the goods came to be in his room.

Davis told the Inspectors that the aigrettes were his personal property, and that he did not intend to land them. If this is so, they say, the vessel is liable to a fine for having on board merchandise not on her manifest. The seized goods are said to be valued at about $900.

PURCHASE BY HAMMERSTEIN.

Said to Have Obtained a Plot for His Brooklyn Opera House.

It was reported in Brooklyn last night, on apparently good authority, that Oscar Hammerstein had purchased a plot of ground in Bedford Avenue, between Bergen and Dean Streets and facing Grant Square, for his new Opera House, paying $20,000 to bind the bargain.

Isaac Horton, the broker credited with the sale, said he was not ready either to confirm or deny the story, but would have an announcement to make in a short time.

Mr. Hammerstein announced before he sailed for Europe that he intended building an Opera House in Brooklyn. He said that he had been treated unfairly by the Directors of the Brooklyn Academy of Music, who had given the Metropolitan Opera Company a monopoly on the use of the Academy stage for grand opera.

WIFE'S LOAN TO J. K. HACKETT.

Not Much Chance of Recovering Mary Mannering's $60,000, Lawyer Says.

The action on the calendar before Supreme Court Justice Guy entitled "Hackett vs. Hackett," when called yesterday, brought no response, and was declared "off" by the Clerk. It developed that the motion was in a suit brought by Mary Mannering, the actress, against her husband, James K. Hackett, to recover $60,000 she had loaned him.

Mr. Wilder of Wilder, Ewen & Patterson, counsel for Mrs. Hackett, said yesterday that, although Hackett admitted the indebtedness, there was little hope of recovering the money, as he had gone into bankruptcy.

"About the only thing Mrs. Hackett can do," said Mr. Wilder, "is to prove her claim and take what she can get. Mr. Hackett says he has only a trifle over $700, so I don't see much chance to collect any great amount from him."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Henry B. Harris announced that he had obtained the producing rights to Kellett Chambers's comedy, "An American Widow," and will give a New York production early in September.

MEN CROWDED OUT AS TENEMENT HEADS

Women Make Better Social Workers, Dr. E. R. L. Gould Tells Woman's Municipal League.

TENEMENTS HERE TO STAY

Manhattan Worker Must Have His Home, Says Dr. Gould, and the Women Like the City Noise.

Settlement House workers are not much good for running model tenements, Dr. E. R. L. Gould, President of the City and Suburban Homes Company, told the Woman's Municipal League in the course of a discussion upon tenement house conditions at the league's last meeting at its rooms, 19 East Twenty-sixth Street, yesterday morning. Dr. Gould had been saying that women had been found more satisfactory as Superintendents of big tenement house buildings than men, and a member asked what a woman's preparation for the post should be.

"Well," said Dr. Gould, "in the first place, we like to 'catch 'em young,' without too many preconceived ideas for reforming the world, and they must not be of such a nervous disposition that they are continually hearing boiler explosions. I don't think purely social workers are suited for the position from the number who have worked in social settlements whom we have tried and who have not proved satisfactory."

He gave the characteristics of four women who are in charge of big model tenement houses in New York:

One is the daughter of an English army officer; she has a strict idea of business, and can say more in a few words than any man I ever knew. She gives an idea of being all head and no heart, but she has some of the latter. Another, who was at one time connected with the Young Women's Christian Association, is a sweet woman who gives an idea of not having sufficient business sense, but she is as good as the other. A third, also excellent, is a Boston woman; she was an organizer of women's trades unions and a cashier in a restaurant. A fourth is a Hungarian Jewess, intelligent, able, and quick; her promotion was quick. She is perhaps the most energetic of all, and is in a tenement house filled with elderly foreign people, most of them too old when they reached this country to become assimilated.

"If you could see a bewiggled old woman going to her, to be spoken to in the particular lingo she prefers, and see the poor creature go down on her knees and kiss the hem of the worker's skirt, you would think that the 800 and 900 people she mothers were well cared for. Good sound business sense, good health, and good nerves are the chief requisites."

"Do the women Superintendents of Buildings receive as high pay as the men?" asked another member, while all the women laughed.

"Women are more satisfactory for the positions than men," said Dr. Gould, "because they can visit the families at all times to collect rent or see about repairs without embarrassment, and they make the women feel contented. We have only women now, but when we had one man in the position we paid the woman 50 per cent. more because she was worth it."

The Rev. Hugh Birckhead of St. George's Church had urged the women to influence people to get into the country to live, telling them of the dangers of tenement-house life, with which the workers of St. George's Church are familiar. Its parishioners run the gamut from great riches to great poverty, J. Pierpont Morgan being one of the church officers, but only 400, all told, live outside the tenement house districts.

Dr. Gould replied that while it was advisable to have the people go to the country when possible, there would always be tenement-house dwellers on Manhattan Island and who must be housed near their work.

"There is an undiscovered germ," he said, "which may be called the tenement-house germ, which attacks many people, used to the noise and bustle of the crowded streets, the associations and the entertainment, such as it is. We find that often when the working man is willing to think of a home in the country, when the last arrangements are being made, it will be the wife who will say:

"'Perhaps we had better give it up, John. Think how lonely it will be for me.'

"Present tenement house conditions," continued Dr. Gould, "cannot be much changed until the inroads of business have crowded out the old buildings when we must put up the modern, healthful ones. This is the thing to work for and for the enforcement of present tenement house laws, and to see that amendments to the law, seemingly specious, are not put through at Albany, as some have been tried, which would have brought back the dark sleeping room, one of the chief breeders of the great white plague. If you do not give good conditions for living you will find that instead of building on rock you are building, as Prof. Huxley said, on the Serbonian Bog."

Miss Gertrude Barnum, in speaking of bad tenement house conditions, told of the song: "There is no place like home; that's why I went away."

Secret History of the Civil War

IN the June number of HARPER'S MAGAZINE there appears a remarkable human document—a chapter of hitherto untold history. It narrates the adventures of Romand, one of the most daring scouts of the war—the man whom Sheridan trusted. Romand's work was done for the most part alone, within the enemy's lines, and because he wore the enemy's uniform he was in constant touch with ignominious death. The record of his experiences is more thrilling and dramatic than any fiction. It is illustrated in color by Howard Pyle.

DIES AT 105 YEARS.

Mrs. Schulman Kept Young by Playing with the Children.

Mrs. Yetta Schulman, said by her relatives to be 105 years old, died yesterday at her home, 111 Madison Street. Dr. O'Hanlon, Coroner's physician, found that death was due to natural causes, and so reported to Coroner Harburger.

The woman was born in Russia, and came to this country nine years ago to make her home with relatives. Thirteen children and twenty-five grandchildren survive her. It was her belief that the lives of aged persons could be prolonged if they associated constantly or as nearly so as possible with young people, and she spent the greater part of her time in the company of little ones, playing with them out of doors whenever the weather would permit. Despite her great age, Mrs. Schulman never wore glasses.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

RAILROAD DIVIDENDS HIGHER

Chesapeake and Coast Line Increases Testify to Enlarging Traffic—Further Gold Engagements Made.

In the forenoon part of yesterday's stock market session prices rose vigorously in continuation of the advance under way when business closed on Wednesday. The leadership in this movement was again assumed by United States Steel common, which touched a new high-record price at 60, and by Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, great activity marking the trading in these shares. It was known in the financial district that later in the day the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific dividend meetings would be held, and for some reason or other, although without any justification in fact, it had been assumed in highly speculative quarters that increases in the distributions which have been the rule with these stocks for some time would take place. Curiously enough, London was equally sanguine regarding such advances, and the early cables brought insistent statements that enlarged payments would be declared. It was a considerable disappointment, therefore, however unfounded the general expectations had been, when the Directors of the roads met and declared the usual dividends. The stocks bought early were at once offered for sale, the market became heavy in all departments, and at the close losses were general and practically commensurate with the advances of the previous day. The day's real news was entirely favorable. The Directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio found it possible, owing to the excellent earnings of the road, to advance its dividend to a basis of 4 per cent. per annum, payments to be made quarterly, and the board of the Atlantic Coast Line increased the distribution upon the shares of that property from a 3 per cent. rate to one of 6 per cent., thus restoring the dividend in force before the panic of 1907. This action on the part of the Directors of the Coast Line is particularly interesting for the reason that it depends for its traffic upon the prosperity of the Southern Seaboard country. It follows, therefore, that conditions along its line must be good and that the outlook is favorable. Heavy buying of steel material, particularly wire, was reported, and the enlarging demand for copper led to another advance in the price of that metal on the local Exchange.

Aditional engagements of gold in modest amounts were reported during the day, and the continued strength of the foreign exchange market points directly to further shipments. Money rates, in spite of this situation, ruled easy with trifling recessions in certain of the longer maturities.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Nervous After New High Records—Closes 9 Points Up to 4 Down.

Cotton made new high records for the season again yesterday, although fluctuations were very irregular, and the close was barely steady at an advance of 9 points to a decline of 4 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 2 points, near months being higher on a strong showing in Liverpool, while late positions felt the influence of further rains in the Southwest. Spinners are said to be generally out of the market, but holders seem to be very firm, and there is nothing to indicate that spot supplies are as yet any material pressure against futures.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

After Some Promise of Strength at the Opening Curb Stocks Decline.

COPPERS MAKE LOSSES

Many Issues in This Department Close Substantially Below the Opening Prices.

The volume of Curb trading was further diminished yesterday, and the tendency to weakness in the copper shares, which has been characteristic of this week's markets, continued, many of the more active issues declining substantially from the opening prices. Cumberland-Ely, Greene-Cananea, Miami, Nevada Consolidated, and United Copper were among those to make substantial declines from the opening prices. The bond list was also less active than has been the case recently, and some of the issues made small declines.

⁂

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—The attention of the local trading element to-day was chiefly centred on the arbitrage list. Heavy dealings in both United States Steel and Reading were recorded on the Philadelphia board. Cambria Steel was quite active, but on the whole the local steel shares failed to show much sympathy with the rise of United States Steel to a new high record, although Lake Superior extended yesterday's recovery, and the income bonds sold up to 52½. The close was steady.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

The coffee trade yesterday was wholly limited to May delivery, and amounted to about 8,250 bags. The market opened quiet at unchanged prices and closed quiet, net unchanged.

Owing to holidays there were no European cables. Both Brazilian markets were unchanged. Receipts at the two ports were 9,000 bags, against 12,000 last year, and Jundiahy receipts were 3,000 bags, against 6,000 last year.

Spot coffee was quiet; 7⅞@8c for Rio No. 7.

A Steel Coincidence.

A rather curious coincidence in yesterday's stock market was an advance in the price of United States Steel common to 60, a new high record. Almost simultaneously the preferred stock was selling at 120, just double the quotation for the common. At that level for the common shares, at which they would yield 3 1-3 per cent. on the investment, or considerably less than the highest grade of bonds, suggestions were heard that the stock had at last reached the enviable distinction of having entered on the "mystery" stage, beyond which all things are possible in the speculative imagination. Few were willing to accept the theory that the dividend would be advanced for the next quarter, but they admitted that unless the tape had lost its cunning, it plainly revealed that larger disbursements to shareholders were not so far distant. After all, there appears to be something alluring to the average speculator in a stock whose market price is way out of proportion to its dividend return. Nine times out of ten developments, sooner or later, justify the purchase of such stocks if the buyer is prepared to hold on until the developments really occur, which explains why the stock had previously been quoted apparently at such a high figure.

Chesapeake & Ohio Developments.

For years people have been buying Chesapeake & Ohio anywhere between 25 and 60, while it paid only 1 per cent. per annum, with no hope being held out for an increase until last December, when the management, in connection with the announcement of an $11,000,000 bond sale, signified its intention of increasing the dividend during the year. Meanwhile control of the property has changed, but the Directors yesterday, by declaring a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent., placed the stock on a 4 per cent. basis, in accordance with expectations. Undoubtedly some of the stockholders who purchased their shares several years ago in the 50s on false hopes of a dividend increase still retain them, and are now rewarded for their patience. Incidentally it might be mentioned that the stock sold off 1½ per cent. on the announcement, but it is still too early to say that the stock is yet selling "ex-mystery."

⁂

Decline in Harriman Stocks.

Some professed to be disappointed at the failure of the Directors of either the Union Pacific or Southern Pacific Roads to increase the common dividends, and that was one of the excuses offered to account for the decline in the stocks. Why any one should have expected an increase in either dividend at this time, aside from those who pin their faith on every idle rumor afloat, is hard to understand, as neither the market quotations suggested such a possibility, nor was any encouragement given for the belief in responsible banking quarters. Prior to the dividend announcement, Southern Pacific common reached a new high record at 124½ and afterward dropped over 2 points. Union Pacific common fell about the same amount, after having touched 190⅝. The earnings of both roads leave no doubt as to their ability to pay larger dividends than they are now doing, but in such matters the question of time and appropriateness are always to be considered. Besides, Mr. Harriman, on his return from the West a couple of months ago, had something to say about the desirability of using excess earnings for improvements.

Louisville Dividend Prospects.

An advance of more than 2 points was scored by Atlantic Coast Line on the announcement of its dividend increase from a 5 to a 6 per cent. basis, most of the gain being retained at the close. For some weeks there has been talk also of an increase in the Louisville & Nashville dividend from 5 to 6 per cent., and yesterday's action of the Directors of the Atlantic Coast Line, which controls the Louisville & Nashville, tended to strengthen the belief that the latter company's rate would be raised when the Directors meet toward the end of June. Louisville stock rose moderately yesterday in connection with that theory, and the fact that it did not advance more sharply on such a plain indication was held by some to be for the reason that it is already selling on a basis which discounts a 6 per cent. dividend. But the whole action of the market during the afternoon was such as temporarily to rob bull arguments of some of their force.

Stocks Freely Offered.

Traders were somewhat at a loss to account for the way in which stocks were fed out yesterday afternoon. While hardly being pressed for sale, there appeared to be an unlimited supply coming from unknown quarters. As soon as Steel common touched 60, almost as though that had been a prearranged signal, stocks began to be freely offered around the room, and the offerings increased during the last half of the session. One explanation put forward was that stocks which had been bought by banking interests on the previous day to offset any bad impression which the death of Mr. Rogers might have were turned out again yesterday, and to many this appeared a rather plausible argument. Usually stocks bought for a specific purpose are sold as soon as the purpose is accomplished, provided the market will absorb them. There appeared to be no lack of absorptive power yesterday at the declining quotations. Rumors cropped up toward the close that a good deal of stock was to be liquidated for the account of the estate of the late capitalist, but these did not exactly fit in with the previous understanding of the situation.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Influenced to a great extent by foreign news, quotations ruled generally firm and higher yesterday. Adverse reports from France, Germany, and the Argentine had much to do with Liverpool's early advance of ⅛ to ⅝d. Most of the Western crop news was favorable, as refreshing rains have continued in both the Winter and Spring wheat belts. Reports from Winnipeg said that seeding was completed and had been followed by good rains. Cash wheat was in a firm position again throughout the country, mills at Minneapolis paying $1.30 for velvet chaff and bidding $1.21 for durum. At all Western points receipts were 339,000 bushels compared with 451,000 bushels a year ago, Winter wheat markets getting 32,000 bushels. Cash wheat in New York was quoted: No. 2 red, $1.45 asked in elevator and $1.45 nominal free on board afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.36, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.37½ free on board afloat.

CORN—During yesterday forenoon the market acted quite firm on Liverpool's ¼d. advance and light receipts. Favorable weather and crop reports, especially from Nebraska and Iowa, with increasing country offerings, brought out rather liberal selling later, and all of the advance was lost, the market closing quite weak. Interior points had 322,000 bushels, compared with 353,000 bushels a year ago. No. 2 corn in New York closed 84¼c elevator and 81½c free on board afloat; No. 2 white, 84¼c, and No. 2 yellow, 82½c free on board afloat, all nominal.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Trading Shows Strength in London—Holiday in Paris and Berlin.

LONDON, May 20.—Money was in stronger demand on the market to-day and discounts were dearer on fears of further gold demands from the Continent.

Trading on the Stock Exchange developed renewed strength and activity in the Kaffir section, where the recent shake out of weak holders caused fresh support by the large houses. Gilt-edged securities were inclined to ease on new issues, while foreigners were dull because of the Paris holiday.

American securities went steadily over parity in the forenoon. The strength of United States Steel on good trade news and the firmness of Union Pacific caused covering operations. Later a sagging occurred, but New York supported Southern Pacific on dividend rumors. This strengthened the rest of the list, and the market closed steady.

Bar silver steady, 24 5-16d per ounce. Money, ¾@1 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅜@1½ per cent.; for three months' bills 1⅞@1½ per cent.

Yesterday being Ascension Day, there was a holiday on the Bourses in Paris and Berlin.

Goes Back to 6 Per Cent. Rate.

The Directors of the Atlantic Coast Line declared yesterday a dividend of 3 per cent., payable July 10, to stockholders of record on June 22. The last semi-annual dividend was 2½ per cent., having been reduced from 6 per cent., following the depression in business, which came in the wake of the 1907 panic. Yesterday's declaration, which had been expected for some time, re-establishes the stock on a 6 per cent. basis.

MAY TAKE MORGAN PLAN INTO COURT

American Stockholders Likely to Fight New Scheme for Chicago Great Western.

VOTING TRUST ATTACKED

Debenture Stockholders, Most of Whom Are in London, Might Take Control of the Road.

In connection with arrangements which have been proposed for the financing of the Chicago Great Western reorganization by J. P. Morgan & Co. opposition has arisen, it was learned yesterday, on the part of stockholders in the road to some of the terms which the bankers have named as a condition of their floating the bond issue provided for in the reorganization plan.

Through this bond issue it is proposed to raise a large amount of money for the improvement of the property. The bankers, it appears, as one of the conditions of their purchase of these bonds, have proposed that the stock of the new company be placed in a voting trust for five years and that the naming of the voting trustees be left with Morgan & Co.

This condition is said to have been fairly satisfactory to the London interests in the road where much of the road's debenture stock is held, but it has not met with the approval of important American stockholding interests in the road, and it is the feeling among some of these stockholders that it will be worth their while to fight the proposed reorganization unless a modification of the proposed voting trust requirement is granted.

The American stockholders are represented by a protective committee of which John W. Castles is Chairman. While the committee would not discuss the matter yesterday, it is understood that it is championing the cause of the stockholders who are asking a modification of this voting trust proposal. What the stockholders ask, among other things, is that the continuance of the voting trust be made subject to its cancellation by a majority vote of the new common and preferred stock, which it is proposed to issue in exchange for existing stock issues. In other words what these stockholders want is that the control which J. P. Morgan & Co. may exercise over the management of the reorganized Chicago Great Western be made subject to repeal by a majority vote of the holders of the new stock of the road.

If the differences of opinion over this phase of the proposed reorganization is carried to the stage of an open contest, the dissenting stockholders, it is said, feel that they are in an advantageous position to undertake the reorganization of the road under their own auspices. The assessments of 15 per cent., which it is proposed under the present plan to levy on the holders of the existing common and preferred B stocks amount in the aggregate to about $10,000,000, or enough to pay off the notes of the road.

By raising enough more to meet the interest on these notes as well, the common and preferred B stockholders—and most of the stock held in the United States is of these two classes—would be in a position to pay off the notes and lift the receivership. This would still leave the debenture stock outstanding, of course, and the terms of this issue provide that this one class of stock shall have the management of the company so long as interest payments on the debenture stock are in default.

It is contended, however, that this provision in the debenture stock has never been tested in the courts, and some at least of the holders of other classes of stock feel that should they take the reorganization of the property into their own hands this claim of the debenture stockholders to the management of the road could be voided in the courts. It is considered likely, however, that a compromise will be reached which will lead to the plan being consented to by all classes of the road's securities.

GOLF PLAYERS TIE ON NASSAU LINKS

YALE LOSES TEAM CONTEST

Home Club Defeats Collegians by Seventeen Strokes—Weather Unfavorable for Good Golf.

John M. Ward and Frederick Herreshoff led the field yesterday in the 36-hole qualifying round of the Nassau Country Club's golf tournament at Glen Cove, L. I. With Ward three strokes to the good in the morning round Herreshoff outplayed him in the afternoon and the result was a tie at 159 for the gold medal. Ward missed a comparatively short put for a 4 on the home hole, just enough to prevent him from winning the medal outright. The course was in excellent condition, but the weather was by no means satisfactory for the best golf. A high wind interfered with the players in the morning and the temperature was more like late Fall than the Summer season.

One of the features of the tournament was the present of the Yale team and the collegians only missed first place in the team competition by seventeen points, the Nassau Club winning with a total of 673 for the 36-hole round. R. T. Haines of Yale, who won the Atlantic City tournament a year ago, finished fourth in the qualifying list, with a total of 162, while H. G. LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Court Holds Government Has Not Proved Its Case Regarding Glove Duty.

Judge Platt in the United States Circuit Court continued yesterday the process of clearing the files of the tribunal of customs cases preparatory to the Summer vacation of the court. Several decisions were handed down, some of them being in favor of the importers and others against them.

The United States was defeated in an attempt to exact a so-called cumulative duty of 40 cents per dozen pairs on imported gloves. When the issue was before the Board of Appraisers it was held that the extra duty did not accrue on the articles. Not satisfied with that decision, the Government took an appeal to the Circuit Court, which also finds against the contention for the additional tax.

Judge L. Platt decides that T. H. La Fetra, the importer, has the right to enter the gloves at the usual rates provided for gloves stitched or embroidered with not more than three single strands or cords. It was the claim of the Treasury Department that the gloves contain more than the three strands. The court, however, is unable to agree with this contention. Judge Platt says:

"The Government's own witness, Bolles, who appears to have been competent to testify, says very plainly, and repeats it again and again, that in the trade and commerce of this country prior to 1897 (when the Dingley law was enacted) these goods would have been known as three-strand embroidered gloves. The other witnesses for the Government have all kinds of ideas about the matter. I am bound to say after a careful examination of the record that the Government has not sustained the contention upon which it embarked. The decision of the board is affirmed."

C. & O. DIVIDEND RAISED.

Quarterly Rate of 1 Per Cent. Fixed Because of Increased Earnings.

The Directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio declared yesterday the expected increase in the road's dividend, raising it from the former rate of 1 per cent. a year to 4 per cent. by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. The dividend is payable June 28 to stockholders of record on June 14. The last dividend paid was 1 per cent. last December. The dividend announcement stated that the payment was to be made from the surplus earnings of the road.

The road is expected to show for the current fiscal year an amount equal to considerably better than the 4 per cent. rate which was fixed yesterday. In the past the Directors have been deterred from raising the dividend because of the large charges which were annually made against earnings to cover improvement work and to meet the installments on equipment obligations. The financing recently done by the road strengthened its treasury position and has made it possible, in the view of the management of the property, to distribute to stockholders a larger share of the road's earnings.

TAXES UP, EARNINGS DOWN

But the P., F. W. & C.'s Profits Increased $290,747 Notwithstanding.

The annual report of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago, part of the Pennsylvania line to Chicago, was made public yesterday, showing gross earnings for 1908 of $21,139,152, as against $25,969,367 in 1907, a loss of 18.60 per cent. In spite of this reduction in earnings, the taxes assessed against the company increased from $842,346 in 1907 to $986,179 in 1908, an addition of 17.08 per cent.

Total expenditures for the year 1908 were $14,750,324, a reduction of $5,546,429, or 27.333 per cent. The net earnings from operation, by reason of the reduction in operating expenses, were increased from $5,672,613 in 1907 to $6,388,827 in 1908, a gain of 12.63 per cent. Total profits for the year were $1,563,072, as against $1,272,324 in 1907, a gain of $290,747.

The company expended for construction and new equipment during the year a total of $1,610,627, including $952,000 for locomotives and cars.

ENNIS REVEALS METHODS.

Member of Failed Firm Admits Books Were Not Kept Carefully.

Thomas A. Ennis of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Ennis & Stoppani was examined yesterday for the first time in open court before United States Commissioner Alexander. Mr. Ennis was questioned in the morning concerning 100 shares of Ontario & Western stock that G. H. Swartwout had up with the firm as margin at the time it failed, and in the afternoon by the counsel for Receiver Russell.

At the latter session Mr. Ennis said that the members of the firm had five speculative accounts of their own, and thought they were safe enough in doing so, as they believed their resources sufficient to back their operations. He also said that he got the first word of the impending trouble of his firm through the withdrawal, shortly before the failure, of a big speculative account called No. 99, which had been operated from Milwaukee by a customer there.

Then the night before the bankruptcy petition was filed Mr. Ennis got word from Chicago that there were rumors there that Ennis & Stoppani were in trouble. He got hold of his partner and Treadwell Cleveland, counsel for the firm, and executed the assignment which turned up the day of the failure. Mr. Ennis said he had no idea that the assignment was going to be filed that day.

Mr. Ennis admitted that the books were not kept in an altogether careful manner. In the morning session Mr. Ennis was asked what the books would show with regard to the 100 shares of Ontario & Western stock and whether they would disclose that on Aug. 5, 1907, 100 shares of the same stock were sold for Mr. Swartwout. Mr. Ennis thought that the sale would appear in the records of the Consolidated Stock Exchange.

BY-PRODUCTS CO. FAILS.

Was to Make a Profit Out of Waste—Panic Spoiled Its Prospects.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the United Woolen By-Products Company of 35 Vestry Street by Collin, Wells & Hughes, attorneys for Hays, Levi & Co., creditors for $279; the Washington Clothing Company for $275, and the Fechheimer Fishel Company for $286. They alleged that the company was insolvent, and on May 19 made an assignment, admitting in writing its inability to pay its debts. Deputy Sheriff Porges had then already made a levy on the assets.

The company was incorporated in 1907 with $3,000,000 capital, and great things were expected of it. Its plan was to form an association of clothing and cloak manufacturers, take from them their woolen clippings and dispose of them to shoddy and paper manufacturers. Stock of the corporation was to be given to the members in payment for clippings up to July 1, 1908, after which cash was to be paid for the clippings.

The business depression, following the panic, operated against the venture; there was a lack of cash capital. Dissensions arose among those interested in the corporation regarding the policy of the business, and various changes took place among the officials. Since the start there have been four Presidents, the last one, Joseph I. Klotz, having taken charge about three weeks ago. The liabilities are reported to be about $14,000 and assets $8,000.

Lost and Found.
The law tells finders that they must try to restore lost property to losers, and common sense tells losers that they must make a prompt effort to recover their property. THE NEW YORK TIMES is known throughout the city as the recognized medium for Lost and Found advertisements, and its weekly bulletin, sent without charge to all pawnshops, police stations, and centres of transportation, keeps your advertisement alive long after publication. By advertising in THE NEW YORK TIMES you can mark your lost property as something a dishonest finder cannot safely try to pawn or sell, and his only hope of making any money is to claim the reward [illegible]—Adv.

STOCK EXCHANGE HITS LITTLE BOARD

CURB MARKET THREATENED

Question of Severing Relations with It to be Decided by a Special Committee.

The Stock Exchange authorities made public yesterday resolutions which will cut off its members from all business relations with Consolidated Stock Exchange houses and promise the possibility of a similar drastic measure against relations with the Curb market.

For twenty years the Stock Exchange has prohibited direct communication between the two exchanges or their members, and perhaps the most active efforts of the successive governing bodies of the Stock Exchange since that date have been directed toward the enforcement of this rule, but there has never before been anything in the Stock Exchange constitution to prevent ordinary business relations between houses of the two Exchanges.

A large number of securities traded in on the Stock Exchange do not appear on the Consolidated Exchange list, and for this reason and because of the wider market on the big Exchange "Little Board" brokerage houses in the past have made it a practice to execute many of their orders through Stock Exchange houses.

The Curb market is chiefly supported by the business of Stock Exchange houses, many of which have representatives among the Broad Street brokers, and has always been at particular pains to avoid anything that would conflict with Stock Exchange rules.

The resolutions affecting the Consolidated Exchange and the Curb market were adopted at Wednesday's meeting of the Governing Committee and were as follows:

Resolved, That any connections, direct or indirect, by means of public or private telephone, telegraph wire, or any electrical or other contrivance or device or pneumatic tube or other apparatus or device whatsoever, or any communication by means of messengers or clerks, or in any other manner, directly or indirectly, between the New York Stock Exchange Building, or any part thereof, or any office of any member of said New York Stock Exchange and any building of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, or any part thereof, or any room, place, hallway, or space occupied or controlled by said Consolidated Stock Exchange, or any office of any member of said Consolidated Stock Exchange who is engaged in business upon said Consolidated Stock Exchange, or any transmission, direct or indirect, of information from said New York Stock Exchange Building, or from the office of any member of said New York Stock Exchange, to the said Consolidated Stock Exchange, or to the office of any member of said Consolidated Stock Exchange who is engaged in business upon said Consolidated Stock Exchange, through any means, apparatus, device, or contrivance as above mentioned, is detrimental to the interest and welfare of this Exchange, and is hereby prohibited.

Warning to Members.

Resolved, That any member of this Exchange who transacts any business, directly or indirectly, with or for any member of said Consolidated Stock Exchange who is engaged in business upon said Consolidated Stock Exchange, shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed to have committed an act or acts detrimental to the interest and welfare of this Exchange.

Resolved, That any member of this Exchange who is interested in or associated in business with, or whose office is connected directly or indirectly by public or private wire or other method or contrivance with, or who transacts any business directly or indirectly with or for any organization, firm or individual engaged in the business of dealing in differences or quotations, (commonly called a bucket shop,) shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed to have committed an act or acts detrimental to the interest and welfare of this Exchange.

Resolved, That the Governing Committee refer back to the Special Committee the following questions for examination, and report on or before Oct. 15, 1909:

Shall the members of the New York Stock Exchange be prohibited after a certain date, say, Dec. 31, 1909, from dealing directly or indirectly in the market known as the Curb?

And, further, shall said Special Committee consider and report upon any and all matters connected with this subject?

Members of the Consolidated Exchange were inclined yesterday to look upon this attack as an evidence of the growing alarm of members of the "Big Board" at the growth of business on the Consolidated Exchange since it moved into the new building at Beaver and Broad Streets. Since that time seventy stocks have been added to the Consolidated Exchange list, and three more were added yesterday. Furthermore the daily transactions on the Little Board have been gradually creeping up to a total comparable with the transactions on off-days on the Big Exchange. The high record of trading on the Consolidated Exchange was made on Feb. 23, when a total of nearly half a million shares was reached.

Another factor in the situation which members of the Consolidated Exchange point to as a possible reason for activity on the part of the Stock Exchange authorities is the great increase in the trading in odd lots over the last two years. The business in odd lots on the Stock Exchange itself has increased to such an extent since the panic of 1907 that there are now three large houses doing business in fractional amounts almost exclusively, where there was one before. As the unit of trading on the Consolidated Exchange is ten shares instead of 100, a great deal of the business that has come from small investors has naturally drifted to Consolidated Exchange houses.

The fact that the Stock Exchange authorities are debating the advisability of cutting off relations with the Curb market as well was looked upon by the Consolidated Exchange brokers as further confirming their belief that the resolutions were passed with the idea of crippling both markets and diverting their business to Stock Exchange channels.

The Hughes Report.

The report of the Hughes Wall Street investigating committee is about to be presented to the Governor, and it has been rumored in the financial district that if its recommendations are carried out a great deal of the manipulation and light-margin trading, which now comprises a considerable portion of the transactions on 'Change, will be eliminated.

The business lost as a consequence of this might be made up to some extent if the more prominent of the stocks now traded in on the Curb were transferred to the Stock Exchange and if business that now goes to the little board could be diverted.

The idea of Consolidated Exchange members that it was a desire to increase its business which prompted the action of the Governing Committee is scouted by members of the Stock Exchange. They say that there is significance in the paragraph relating to bucket shops which immediately follows the resolution prohibiting business relations with active Consolidated Exchange members. The paragraph is practically a repetition of a provision of the Stock Exchange constitution adopted in 1896.

Whichever version of the motive behind the resolutions is correct—and the Stock Exchange officials refused yesterday to make any comment—it is certain that since the Ennis & Stoppani failure, which showed the connection of a number of Stock Exchange houses with that firm, the Exchange officials have been busy. Ennis & Stoppani executed a large part of their business on the Stock Exchange, and the authorities several years ago made strenuous efforts to trace connections between that firm and Stock Exchange members.

Since the receiver has been in charge of the failed Consolidated Exchange firm's books, it is understood that the Stock Exchange officials have obtained positive evidence of what they were not able to prove four years ago. When the original investigation into the Ennis & Stoppani connections was on, sixteen Stock Exchange houses were deprived of their telephone privileges on the floor of the Exchange.

The Tracy & Co. failure also has brought to light forbidden connections with a Consolidated Exchange house, and it is the accepted belief among Stock Exchange brokers that these newly discovered violations of the existing rules are responsible for the decision to prohibit any business relations whatever between Stock Exchange members and members of the Consolidated Exchange.

May Limit Ticker Service.

It was a question of interest yesterday whether the Stock Exchange authorities would take steps to prohibit the renting of tickers to Consolidated Exchange houses. Once before—in the early 90s—the Stock Exchange withdrew all ticker service, in an effort to prevent its quotations from getting to the Consolidated Exchange.

For three days the Street was without quick news of the transactions on the big board, and business was so crippled that the Stock Exchange authorities could not withstand the pressure brought to bear by the banks and the public generally and restored the service. The courts have decided that the quotations made on the Stock Exchange are its own property, and the news of them cannot be sold without the Exchange's consent.

President Badeau of the Consolidated Stock Exchange made an official reply yesterday to the resolution passed by the big Exchange. The substance of his statement was that the two Exchanges operated each in its own field and did not interfere with each other. He pointed out that the resolution relating to bucket shops is practically identical with an article already standing in the by-laws of the Consolidated Exchange.

E. S. Mendels, who is the "agent of of the Curb market," and has been delegated by common consent of the outside brokers the proctor of the Curb, said he did not see how an open market for unlisted and inactive stocks could be done away with. He said that Curb brokers had always been at great pains not to interfere with the Stock Exchange and were willing to do anything to satisfy the authorities of the Big Board.

It was the generally accepted belief among Stock Exchange men yesterday that the connection of several Stock Exchange houses with David Lamar's operations in Ohio Copper was responsible for the change in the Exchange's attitude toward the outside market. It is understood that F. A. Heinze has brought to the attention of the Exchange authorities the part taken by several members of the Exchange in the Lamar Ohio Copper manipulation.

BRIDGES MADE SAFE BY A NEW MACHINE

TESTS EVERY STEEL PIECE

Bill Before Congress to Authorize the Building of a Still Larger Test Machine.

According to civil engineers, the vertical compression test machine of ten million pounds capacity, which is being built by Tinius Olsen & Co. of Philadelphia for the Structural Material Testing Laboratories of the United States Geological Survey, will revolutionize the building of bridges in this country, making such an occurrence as the collapse of the Quebec Bridge with attendant loss of life impossible.

This machine, with a gross weight of more than 200 tons and an extreme height above the foundations of about 80 feet, is by far the largest testing appliance ever constructed. Engineers seen yesterday said that the reason there is always so much uncertainty about the strength of a great bridge like the Queensboro or the Manhattan, the sustaining capacity of both of which has been questioned, is because no machines have ever been constructed of sufficient power to test the great columns of steel used in them.

It was pointed out that every piece of steel used was subjected to a specimen test, the engineers knowing the quality of the material used and basing their calculations on the strength of column or cord thereon. But the actual strength of the ponderous piece of steel was in the last analysis known on paper only, and the statement was repeatedly made that had there been in existence such a machine as that the Government is now having constructed the weakness of the Quebec Bridge would have been known before it was too late.

The nearest approach to the proposed Government machine is the celebrated Watertown Arsenal machine, Watertown, Penn., designed by A. H. Emery of Stamford, Conn. The enormous cost of such a machine as the Government has contracted for has until now been the obstacle between the private plants and its construction, and even when the Olsens were first engaged to construct this machine it was not designed to have the machine larger than necessary to test the large blocks of stone being used in Government and other buildings throughout the country.

But the supervising architect of the Geological Survey urged that the capacity of the machine be extended so as to test whole columns of brick, stone, concrete, and even of steel, and accordingly the original clearance between "the heads" was increased from 25 to 65 feet. Now since the purpose of the Government has become known the department is being flooded with letters urging its early completion that it may be used, not only in the cases of bridges already under construction, but to test built-up structures as well.

The machine in simplest form is nothing more than a huge hydraulic press with one adjustable head and a weighing system for recording the pressure developed in it by means of a triple plunger pump. Between the base of the machine and the adjustable head when removed to the furthest point is a distance of 65 feet, consequently the machine is capable of testing the supporting strength of a column more than 60 feet in length.

Some idea of the size of the machine may be obtained from a statement of the weight of its principal parts. The castings for the base and the top head weigh approximately 50,000 pounds each. Each main screw will weigh over 40,000 pounds, the lower platform about 25,000 pounds, and the main cylinder 16,000 pounds. The top of the machine will be about 70 feet above the floor, and the concrete foundation upon which the machine rests will be about 8 feet below the floor line.

So many letters were sent to members of Congress and to the Department of Geological Survey, congratulating the Government on taking the initiative in the construction of such a machine that Senator Teller has introduced a bill providing for another machine more than twice as large as the Olsen apparatus, having 11,000 tons capacity in compression and 5,500 tons in tension, taking columns or chords 100 feet long.

Mr. Emery, designer of the Watertown machine, is named in the bill as designer and builder, and the price, including the machine and two 80-ton cranes, is fixed at $1,750,000. In addition $200,000 is to be appropriated for a building to house the machine when completed.

According to the specifications this machine will be able to give and weigh loads of tension up to 11,000,000 pounds, and loads of compression up to 22,000,000 pounds. The machine is to be provided also with tension holders to test round, square, and rectangular bars up to 3,300,000 pounds, with lengths up to 100 feet.

The bill explicitly states that if the compression chords of the Quebec Bridge had been tested by such a machine their weakness would have been discovered in time to save the structure.

MORSE LOAN LEGAL TANGLE.

Trust Company Seeks to Keep Bank Stock He Put Up as Collateral.

Congressman Herbert Parsons argued before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday the appeal of the Metropolitan Trust Company from the judgment of Judge Lacombe, in the Circuit Court, on the action brought by the receiver of the National Bank of North America against the trust company to make it surrender 1,000 shares of Chase National Bank stock deposited as collateral for a loan of $150,000 to Charles W. Morse for A. P. Heinze.

On the trial of the action Judge Lacombe decided that the Metropolitan Trust must give up the stock on the payment of the loan, and the trust company is trying to establish its right to keep the stock, which is now worth more than $300,000.

The transaction dates back to the time when Morse tried to force a way into the Chase National Bank by buying 5,000 shares of its stock for himself and his friends. A participation in the pool was offered to Arthur P. Heinze, and Morse undertook to finance it by putting up as collateral for a loan of $150,000 at the Metropolitan Trust Company 500 shares of Chase National stock owned by the National Bank of North America and 500 shares which Heinze already owned. The money was loaned to him on his own note.

Later, after Chase National stock rose to much higher figures, Morse himself tendered payment of the loan, but it was refused. Subsequently, Receiver Hanna of the National Bank of North America tried to pay off the loan and get the 1,000 shares of Chase National stock, but was also unsuccessful. Then Receiver Hanna brought the pending action, in which Judge Lacombe decided that the Metropolitan Trust Company must give up the stock on payment of the loan with interest.

Mr. Parsons argued yesterday that the trust company would have had to stand the loss if the stock securing the loan had depreciated, and that he thought his client ought to have the benefit of any increase in market value. Decision was reserved.

Says Charge for Yacht Is Too High.

Justice Guy, in the Supreme Court, reserved decision yesterday on the application of the Tebo Yacht Basin Company of Brooklyn to compel the committee of the estate of Julia Watts Curtiss, an incompetent, to make an accounting. The plaintiff alleges it has a steam yacht belonging to her in its shipyard on which $800 is due, and that it has been unable to collect. Her committee pleaded that the bill was too high.

'ROSEY' THE LAWYER EVICTED? NEVER!

He Refuses to be Dispossessed and the Whole East Side Backs Him.

COURTS WILL SETTLE IT

Feinberg the Tailor Leased the Offices to Another Lawyer While "Rosey" Was Ill.

"Rosey," the lawyer of 60 Essex Street, or as he is legally known in the papers that make this story possible, Herman Rosenschein, came perilously near being dispossessed yesterday, and the east side, where everybody knows Rosey, was in tears for awhile.

Some weeks ago the newspapers printed a report that Rosey was ill, and this was in due time brought to the attention of Samuel Feinberg, from whom the famous little Essex Market lawyer rents his office. Feinberg, according to Rosey, assuming that his tenant of thirty years would die, proceeded to rent Rosey's offices to a lawyer named Lang, who promised to pay $5 a month more than Rosey had been paying.

But as everybody knows, Rosey did not die, and to-day—so he said yesterday—he is so well, that he "ain't never goin' to croak," and what's more he isn't going to give up his offices without a struggle, as Feinberg has found out. The landlord says he has no contract with Rosey, and that the little lawyer must get out. He adds that he won't "speak to Rosey yet," and that a man who doesn't enjoy his speaking acquaintance can't be a tenant of his.

Here is the situation that has upset the east side. It was explained by Rosey and later verified by Feinberg, who has a tailor's shop in the same building as are Rosey's offices:

About six weeks ago, the little lawyer said, he was "taken down with a sickness," and being a prominent man the papers published it and everybody read it, including Feinberg, the landlord. According to these reports Rosey was very ill, and his friends were anxious about him. But he has a strong constitution, and so began to mend a few days later.

Three weeks ago Rosey resumed his practice, and for days his offices were crowded with clients and friends who came from all parts of the east side to tell him how thankful they were that the east side had missed a big funeral. But there was one who did not join in the congratulations. That person was Feinberg, and Rosey, who had been on good terms with the landlord for years, wondered why.

Two weeks ago the lawyer got a summons to appear in the Second District Municipal Court on May 20 to show cause why he should not vacate his offices. Accordingly he went to court yesterday, and great was his surprise when he was told that his case had been disposed of on Wednesday, and that he must vacate. Rosey, producing his summons, demanded to know why he was dispossessed on Wednesday, while the summons called for his appearance on Thursday.

Justice Hoffman looked at the summons and saw there was no doubt about the genuineness of it, and the date on it was plainly May 20. There was but one course open to the court, which promptly ordered the case reopened and set the hearing for next Tuesday.

In the meantime Feinberg and Rosey are getting ready for battle royal. The lawyer admits that his lease is a verbal one, and says it has until next May to run. On the other hand Feinberg says he has no contract, written or verbal, and that he must go.
